DOHENY IS NEXT TO FACE COURT; FALL CONVICTED

Lawyer Swoons; Oil Man Curses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—With Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, convicted by a jury today of accepting a bribe, the government set in motion machinery for the possible punishment of E. L. Doheny, multi-millionaire oil magnate, whose $100,000 gift to the ex-cabinet member won leases on invaluable oil reserves for a Doheny company.

Doheny, the only one of the trio involved to escape conviction in one case or another of the criminal prosecutions growing out of the Harding administration oil scandals, will be brought to trial early in January, it was announced today. Like Fall, if convicted, the California oil man will be liable to a maximum sentence of two years in prison and a fine of $100,000—three times the amount of his bribe.

May Suspend Sentence.

Fall, it appeared probable tonight, in view of his weakened physical condition and the jury's plea in his behalf for mercy, may never serve a day in prison. Justice William Hitz, it is possibly understood, has already decided to suspend whatever sentence is finally imposed upon the former secretary following the disposition of formal motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment to be argued next Wednesday.

A veritable bedlam broke loose in the courtroom this morning when the jury of four women and eight men, after nearly 24 hours' deliberation, reported their finding that the $100,000 paid by Doheny to Fall in a "little black bag" was an outright bribe, rather than the "innocent loan" which both asserted it was.

While the aged and broken ex-secretary sat dazed under the blow that branded him as a felon, members of his family sobbed aloud, Mark Thompson, Fall's personal attorney and lifelong friend, gasped and collapsed on the courtroom floor, and Doheny, purple and trembling with rage, cursed the court and was led out, shaking his fist and shouting as he went.

Verdict Unexpected.

Until the moment just before 11 o'clock when a colored matron with an ominous looking bag of towels and gruesome cloths took a seat near Mrs. Fall and her daughters, Mrs. C. C. Chase and Mrs. Jouett Elliott, and bailiffs and deputy marshals called from nearby courtrooms took places among the crowd, it was generally believed that the result would be an acquittal verdict or a "hung jury."

Doheny had left Mrs. Doheny and was sitting beside Fall, chatting with the latter, who appeared to be struggling to maintain his composure, when Justice Hitz mounted the bench and ordered the jury brought in. One by one the jurors took the same places they occupied for the 18 days it required to submit the case to them.

Silent as Tomb.

The silence was tomblike as the court clerk advanced to the jury box and asked if the jury had agreed upon a verdict.

"We have," answered Thomas E. North, 28 year old bank clerk, and foreman of the jury.

"What do you say?" asked the clerk. "Guilty or not guilty?"

"We find the defendant guilty and with recommendation of the mercy of the court," responded the youthful foreman in a strong voice.

As one person, lawyers and spectators gasped and a muffled "O, O God——" came from the Fall family bench, followed by sobs.

Doheny Damns Court.

"It's that damn court——" Doheny blurted out before friends nearby could drag him down to his seat. If Justice Hitz heard the oil man he chose to ignore it. The outbreak was silenced momentarily when Attorney Logan demanded that the jury be polled.

One by one, as their names were called, the jurors answered:

"Guilty, with the mercy of the court."

Then, last any of the jurors be convinces stricken later when they found out that Fall had been brought to the courtroom daily in a wheel chair, supposedly suffering from bronchial pneumonia, Justice Hitz told the jury that the trial had been forced to its conclusion today by Fall's own lawyers in the face of warnings by the court's physicians and the willingness of the prosecution to agree to a

Pantages Jury Ordered Shut Up for Night

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—After deliberating for more than five hours without reaching a verdict, the jury trying Alexander Pantages, vaudeville magnate, charged with the rape of Eunice Pringle, 17 year old dancer, at 9:30 p. m. was locked up for the night. Deputy sheriffs guarded the jurors while they slept at a hotel. They will resume their deliberations at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Pantages, who appeared to be on the verge of collapse was allowed to go home under guard of two deputy sheriffs after his counsel interceded with Superior Judge Charles Fricke not to send him to jail overnight. He is under $50,000 bonds.

No Leak from Jury Room.

No indication was given as to the number of ballots taken by the jury, which is composed of six men and six women, nor how the jurors stood. Charles Thomas, alternate juror, dismissed when the regular jurors were intrusted with the case, refused to tell his impressions of the case nor how he thought his fellow jurors would ballot.

Miss Pringle, her father and mother were in the courthouse part of the time, prepared to hear the verdict.

Four Weeks of Testimony.

The case was given to the jury at 4:16 this afternoon, after four weeks of testimony.

At the trial the dancer told her story of the alleged attack by the millionaire theater man in a secluded room of his office in the Pantages Theater building. Pantages went on the stand and supported the defense contention that he had been "framed" by the girl and Nicholas Dunaev, her dancing partner.

Judge Fricke instructed the jury it could return one of three verdicts. One was acquittal. The other two were guilty, with recommendations. If the jury finds Pantages guilty it must recommend whether he shall be confined in San Quentin penitentiary for a term of from one to fifty years or in the county jail for not more than one year.

Don't Compromise, Fitts Pleads.

District Attorney Buron Fitts closed for the state with a dramatic appeal that no compromise verdict be returned.

"Don't make a laughing stock of American justice," he pleaded. "Return a verdict which will either send this man to the penitentiary or set him free."

Fitts charged that Pantages in the present trial "has brought more perjury into a courtroom than I ever saw before."

Throughout the morning session two defense attorneys strove eloquently to impress upon the jury that the state had not proved its case and that Miss Pringle's story "must be cast aside because of its absurdity."

"The state's own doctors," said Attorney Joseph Ford, "testified that when they examined the girl four days after the alleged attack they found nothing to indicate that there had been an attack in the week previous."

Both Ford and W. I. Gilbert, who closed for the defense, stressed the medical testimony and placed strongly before the jury the defense contention that the girl and Dunaev had conspired to entrap the theater man after learning he had sold his theaters for $20,000,000.

4 BIG CONCERNS FORM COMPANY TO SELL RADIOS

Camden, N. J., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Details of the combination of the Victor Talking Machine company, the Radio Corporation of America, the Westinghouse Electric company, and the General Electric company for the production and sale of radio equipment were announced here tonight by Gen. James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America.

The merger arrangement—applying only to the radio equipment work—will become effective on Jan. 1 and will place the new corporation in the forefront of the radio industry.

The central plant of the organization will be located in Camden and is expected to increase the working force from 13,000 to 25,000. Offices of the new company will be located in New York City. The present sales of the Victor company and the Radio corporation are in excess of $50,000,000 a year. Under the merger it is expected this figure will reach 500 millions.

E. E. Shumacker, head of the Victor company, will be president, and J. L. Ray, a vice president of the Radio corporation, and H. C. Crubbs, a vice president of Victor, will be vice presidents of the new group.

Hoover Sees U.S. Immune to Stock Panic

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—The fundamental business of the country is on a sound and prosperous basis, President Hoover asserted today in a formal statement issued following the regular Friday cabinet meeting at which yesterday's stock market collapse was discussed.

Prior to issuance of the reassuring message, it is understood that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of Commerce Lamont and officials of the labor department supplied the President with detailed reports of the break in the securities market, as well as the current activities of the country's major industries.

Beyond commenting that a temporary drop in grain prices was not unexpected as a result of the stock market liquidation, the President carefully avoided any direct reference to the stock market situation.

On Sound Basis.

"The fundamental business of the country, that is, the production and distribution of commodities, is on a sound and prosperous basis," the President said, in response to inquiries from the press in regard to the business situation.

"The best evidence is that, although production and consumption are at high levels, the average prices of commodities as a whole have not increased and there has been no appreciable increase in the stocks of manufactured goods."

President Hoover called attention to the payment of increased wages in many industries as a sign of good business conditions.

Tend Toward Wage Increase.

"There has been a tendency of wages to increase," he said, "and the output per worker in many industries again shows an increase, all of which indicates a healthy condition. The construction and building material industries have been, to some extent, affected by the high interest rates induced by stock speculation and there has been some seasonal decrease in one or two other industries, but these movements are of secondary character when considered in the whole situation.

"A temporary drop in grain prices sympathetically with stock exchange prices usually happens, but, as the department of agriculture points out, the overriding fact in grain is that this year's world wheat harvest is estimated to be five hundred million bushels less than that of last year, which will result in a very low carry over at the end of the harvest year."

BANKS RESTORE STABILITY TO RAGING STOCKS

Pool Halts Terrific Drop in Prices.

[Details and quotations in market section.]

New York, Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Order came quickly out of chaos in Wall street today. Heartened by assertion by leading bankers and industrialists that the financial position of the country is fundamentally sound, the stock market opened steady and continued to fluctuate narrowly but evenly throughout a trading day not far from normal.

Two developments stood out and at once caught and held the attention of the world whose eyes were focused on the New York stock exchange. One of these was the remarkable stability of the prices of leading securities, after their tremendous upheaval of the previous day; the other was the decline in volume, which aggregated 5,923,220 shares on the stock exchange, compared with 12,880,900 shares on the previous day.

Washington Comes to Rescue.

Over night developments favored the market. Washington officials had again outlined the growth of business and industry this year and its stability; the banking pool had completed arrangements for active support of stocks, if such support became necessary; optimistic statements came from leaders of the iron and steel industry at their annual meeting here. Most important of all, most of the speculators, big and little, whose distressed holdings had clogged the market, were already out, having walked the plank the previous day.

During the course of the day, it was definitely learned that the group of great banking institutions which came to the rescue of stricken stock market on Thursday had agreed to furnish buying power against the danger of another avalanche of selling. Nor were these institutions alone in their stand, for the group has received offers from other banking institutions of a sum far in excess of $100,000,000 to use at their discretion in support of the market.

Natural Trading Restored.

Only a small portion of the funds at their disposal have been used, it was learned, and the group found that sufficient buying power had accumulated as the result of the change of sentiment over night to permit trading on the stock exchange to proceed naturally. So far from having to take stock in order to support prices, the group is understood to have disposed today of some of its purchases of the previous day.

At the close of the day, the bankers reconvened at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. to discuss the situation. In addition to the five banks which were represented Thursday, George F. Baker Jr. joined the conference as representative of the First National bank. Others were Charles E. Mitchell, Albert H. Wiggin, Seward Prosser, William Potter, and Thomas W. Lamont.

It is not the intention of the banking group to buy stocks for the purpose of putting up prices, but to furnish a cushion of purchasing power against the recurrence of demoralized conditions such as obtained Thursday. In other words the bankers are "not back of the market, but under the market."

Thousands of Speculators Vanish.

That thousands of speculators have been wiped out is evident. That many readjustments are yet to be made in financial positions also is recognized. Reports that some of the biggest speculators in the present generation have been badly crippled, and some of them taken over by their bankers is also believed true. The Detroit crowd had been hard hit. The "big ten," a group from all parts of the country who had bulled the market successfully for more than two years, has at least been seriously crippled.

Women Among Heavy Losers.

One broker estimated that 35 per cent of all margin accounts carried in New York Stock exchange houses were either wiped out entirely or made useless for further speculation.

In every brokerage house could be heard heart rending stories. While most of the individual losses were small, the stories of traders who had dropped fortunes were talked about wherever people gathered in the financial district. A considerable percentage of the losers were women, most of them amateurs in the stock market who had made money in the flush days of the bull market. There were stories of losses by women running from a few hundred to $500,000.

Love Spurned, So "Countess" Ends Own Life

Shot through the heart with a bullet from a revolver which her policeman-suitor had given her, the body of Mrs. Eve Waddington Greeley, widow of a British army officer who was killed in the war, was found yesterday in her apartment at 6618 Glenwood avenue. A note addressed to the policeman, John Maier, 29 years old, indicated that Mrs. Greeley, who posed as an English countess, had committed suicide because he had spurned her affections.

The body was found by Martin Chedna, janitor of the building, who crawled through a transom to investigate after having noticed mail accumulating in Mrs. Greeley's mail box and a light burning in the apartment. The body was clad only in a negligee and was lying on the floor of the living room. A few feet away was the policeman's revolver, which Maier said he gave her for protection.

Set Date as Oct. 11.

From the farewell note to Maier, police deduced that she had died on Oct. 11, the last night on which Maier saw her, but Mrs. Harry Farrelly, 5240 Winthrop avenue, a half sister, said she had talked to Mrs. Greeley on the night of Oct. 18. At that time, Mrs. Farrelly said, Mrs. Greeley told her she was suffering from cancer and intended to leave Chicago.

When the note to Maier was found in a box with a diamond solitaire ring Capt. Patrick Harding of the Rogers Park station called in the policeman for questioning. Maier, who is known as "the handsome cop" and who is separated from his wife, said he met Mrs. Greeley at Loyola avenue and Sheridan road while he was on traffic duty about a month ago. He said that he had called on her several times, but had not seen her since Oct. 11.

According to Maier's story, she had told him a romantic tale of her life, declaring that she was a countess and an illegitimate child of the king of England. She was a friend of the prince of Wales, according to Maier, and had been a guest of the Carter expedition which unearthed the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen at Luxor, Egypt.

Was Born in New York.

From Mrs. Farrelly and a half-brother, R. A. Burkhart, 5004 Monroe street, police learned that Mrs. Greeley was born in New York and was 38 years old, the daughter of an Englishman, John H. Waddington. Her first husband was Alexander McLaughlin, a former Chicago and Pittsburgh newspaper man, from whom she was divorced two years after her marriage.

In 1918 she met Capt. Vincent Bernard Greeley of the British army in Toronto, where he was stationed on recruiting duty. Mrs. Farrelly and another sister, Mrs. Ethel Fogg, 28 North Madison street, La Grange, said that Capt. Greeley was the son of an English peer and that by her marriage to him she acquired the title of countess of Waddington. The British peerage shows no such title.

Capt. Greeley was killed in action on the western front later in 1918 when his plane crashed beyond the German lines, according to Mrs. Fogg. Mrs. Greeley had not corresponded with relatives for several years and they believed her dead until 1923, when she returned to the United States on a passport from Canada.

Takes Sleeping Potion.

She lived at the Arlington hotel for several years before moving to the Glenwood avenue address.

Mrs. Farrelly told police that Mrs. Greeley lived on the income from investments she had made with Harry Gluck of Newark, N. J., whom she described as an "oil promoter." Gluck, when told of Mrs. Greeley's death, dismissed the subject with a curt "I am not concerned."

"I do not know the woman," he said in response to a question.

Mrs. Farrelly contradicted Maier's

LAKE STEAMER'S CREW WITHOUT FOOD IN WILDS

Find 4 More Bodies of 52 Lost in Gale.

Died of Exposure

Bodies of four more of the crew of the foundered car ferry Milwaukee were found in a lifeboat near St. Joseph, Mich., last night. They had died of exposure and not drowning, and the coast guard expressed the belief that one of the men was alive as late as yesterday.

Ravages of the terrific storm which dealt sudden death to 52 members of the crew of the foundered car ferry Milwaukee, became more fully known last night when dispatches from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., cross roads of the great lakes, told of vessels pounding to pieces on rocks and of balked efforts to save marooned seamen from perishing by starvation and exposure.

An evening dispatch described the desperate plight of thirty-one mariners marooned on Michipicoten island, a wilderness of crags and virgin forest in Lake Superior, about 120 miles northwest of the Soo. Their vessel, the package freighter Chicago, was driven on the rocks in the gale of Tuesday night, the violence of which set a new record for destructiveness on the great lakes.

Ship Runs Onto Rocks.

In the crash full tilt on the island's rocky coast, the bow of the freighter reared clear out of the water. The shock ripped open every seam in the iron hull and the freight sank astern until she reached equilibrium.

With their quarters in the stern submerged, the crew scrambled up the slanting deck, leaped to the rocks and sometimes swimming, sometimes wading, reached shore. Capt. P. C. Ferrel of Buffalo was the last man to leave the boat.

Next morning the lookout on an ore carrier miles away sighted the tilted Chicago through his telescope. The crew, who had managed to take ashore some bedding for protection against the icy wind, had distress signals flying but these were not discerned.

Two Vessels to Rescue.

That night, Wednesday, the former submarine chaser 119, now in the coast guard service, pulled alongside the wreckage, and by wigwag signals learned the crew was safe. The steamer John Henderson also hove in to Michipicoten island and both vessels stood by, their captains not daring to risk an approach to the shore in the still boisterous seas.

Yesterday the Great Lakes Transit corporation, owners of the stranded Chicago, sent the tug Whalen to the scene from the Soo. The Whalen found the rocks as perilous as had the steamer and the subchaser, so her captain steamed around the island to the port of Quebec, on the southeast side, where a handful of Indians have a settlement.

Castaways Face Starvation.

No Indian could be persuaded to traverse the nine miles of impenetrable marsh cutting off the marooned crew from the settlement.

Last night, however, one of the Chicago's crew stumbled into Quebec, his clothes soaked by marsh waters, his face and hands torn by brambles. He was scarcely able to stand from lack of food. He expressed doubt that his companions would be able to follow his trail. A wireless message to the transit company's agent at the Soo from the tug said the Chicago's crew was facing starvation.

Find More Bodies of Lost Crew.

The fate of four of the crew of the car ferry Milwaukee was learned last evening when their bodies were found lashed to a nearly submerged lifeboat in Lake Michigan forty-five miles northwest of St. Joseph, Mich. They had escaped drowning only to perish from exposure. The discovery increased to nine the number of bodies recovered from the crew of fifty-two which Lake Michigan swallowed up when the Milwaukee went down in Tuesday night's storm a few miles offshore between Racine and Kenosha.

The bodies were found by Capt. Samuel Carlson of the St. Joseph coast guard and his crew of three men, who had been cruising the lake since morning. At 5 o'clock last evening the guardsmen's power boat ran into a floating mass of wreckage, planks, hatch covers, and a part of the Milwaukee's pilot house.

Amid the debris was the lifeboat, its gunwales barely above water. It contained the bodies of three of the men, clad in oilskins and lashed firmly to the thwarts. The fourth body was under the boat, held by its lashing.

Capt. Carlson said he believed one of the men had been alive as late as yesterday.

The bodies were taken to St. Joseph where they await identification. Their discovery gave rise to the hope that others of the crew may have escaped from the sinking car ferry in boats or rafts.

Five of Crew Found Safe.

The death list of the Milwaukee, at first fixed at fifty-seven on the basis of a complete crew roster issued by the operating company, the Grand Trunk railway, was reduced to fifty-two when it was found that seamen listed in the crew roster and believed to have perished were safe ashore yesterday, according to dispatches from Grand Haven, Mich.

Tom McNello, an oiler, was on a three day leave of absence when the car ferry made her fatal voyage. His father, Philip McNello, was lost. J. Mercia of Milwaukee, a fireman, listed among the dead, cashed a check yesterday in Grand Haven. C. McCarthy, J. Nicklass, and Tom Gannon also turned up in Grand Haven.

Eight Grand Haven homes were in mourning for lost seamen and flags on public buildings flew at half-mast. Plans were discussed for public religious services in all the churches on Sunday in memory of the dead.

The body recovered off Kenosha on Thursday and reported to have been identified as that of Capt. McKay, a Grand Haven resident, was later established to be that of C. Johnson, an oiler.

Throughout the day coast guardsmen from the Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha stations patroled the lake, seeking other bodies in the vicinity where five were recovered on Thursday. Their hunt was in vain. A ship captain's report that he had seen a hulk at a point 13 miles northeast of Milwaukee sent one coast guard crew to the spot. They searched the area for some time, but found no trace of the car ferry or wreckage.

Work to Free Ship from Reef.

An afternoon dispatch from the Soo said tugs were hard at work trying to free the freighter William B. Pilkey from a reef off Gravel Island in Lake Huron. Part of the ore cargo was transferred to a barge and a diver went below to patch a six inch hole near the stern.

The Pilkey's boilers were fired, water was pumped out of the hold, and the crew, which remained aboard throughout the storm, prepared for a concerted effort with the tugs to free the vessel.

The freighter Maple Court, from which a crew of 23 was removed by vounteer rescuers from a fishing colony, was being pounded to pieces last night off Magnetic Point. Chances of salvaging the boat were believed slight.

Wreckage of almost forgotten lake disasters was churned up in the storm which sank the Milwaukee, it was revealed. Fishermen, hauling up their nets off Two Rivers, Wis., found in the meshes some water logged spruce trees believed to have been some of the Christmas spruces which formed the cargo of the Rouse Simmons, a lumber boat that foundered with all hands aboard in December, 1911.

At Racine the waters gave up wreckage of the powered schooner Rosabelle, owned by the House of David colony. Six of the Rosabelle's crew were killed when the schooner's fuel tank exploded in 1921.

JETTIES PLAN URGED

At a meeting of public officials and engineers held in the office of Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe yesterday to consider the damage done by Tuesday's and Wednesday's raging lake storm and to plan how to prevent such destruction in the future, the following facts were brought out:

1. Despite diversion, lake levels at present are so high that Chicago's breakwater system is rendered useless when any even slightly unusual storm strikes this shore of the lake.

2. The two days' storm this week damaged the Chicago shore line to the extent of at least $1,500,000, and perhaps $2,000,000.

3. Walls, bulkheads and breakwaters, designed to take the full impact of huge waves in storms, must be done away with and a system of protection installed in which the force of the waters is gradually lessened as they reach the shore line.

Lack Funds for Work.

4. Provisions for improvements of this nature have been in effect for certain sections of the shore for several years, but the city and the park boards have lacked the funds to start the work and they do not now know where such funds are coming from.

"Lake levels in the last year have been so high that they have been adequate only in normal weather," Harbormaster Charles Agnew said in referring to the bulkheads. "And the experts say they are going higher and higher. Is it any wonder, then, that there is wholesale damage when a storm of the fury of Tuesday's strikes the city off the lake?

"My office is in the third story on the land end of Navy pier. Waves 45 and 50 feet high swept over the whole structure at the time when the wind's velocity was 70 miles an hour. The water swept waist high through my office there, on the third floor."

Commissioner Alexander Fyfe set the damage to Lincoln park at $1,000,000, and in this he was backed up by William H. Dean, chief engineer for the Lincoln park board. Earlier Mr. Dean had told of a provision for a series of eighteen jettisons to be built out into the lake between North and Fullerton avenues and explained their efficacy and desirability. Commissioner Fyfe referred to these, to the high lake level, and to the demonstrated uselessness of present protective measures under severe conditions.

"With more water promised in the lake by the experts for next year, it simply means water all over Lincoln park when any kind of an unusual blow occurs," Mr. Fyfe said. "The inadequacy of present prevention is demonstrated."

Likes Jetties Plan.

"I like the plan for the jetties. The engineers say it is good. But we have no money to do it with. We will have trouble now with the repairs of $1,000,000 or something like it we'll have to make. If we only had our taxes from the citizens I believe we could go ahead."

The jetties, Engineer Dean explained, are to be built about 200 feet out into the lake and are to be about 200 feet apart.

Linn White, chief engineer for the South Park board, fixed damage on the south side at about $150,000. He advocated building of submerged or partly submerged reefs.

To Protect Outer Drive.

To protect the south side outer drive from a recurrence of damage by the lake waters, workmen yesterday were placing heavy stone and slag along the east side of the outer drive at 38th street, where paving on a stretch of about 100 feet was washed out by waves during the recent storm. The outer drive to 39th street was reopened two days ago.

Race Bet "Expert" Fined $2,000 for Tax Dodging

George E. Stewart, whose advertisements in the racing form sheets claimed that he had once accumulated $900,000 from a $500 bet with the aid of an "unbeatable" system, was fined $2,000 by Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday when he pleaded guilty to evading income tax payments. According to Dwight Green, solicitor for the department of internal revenue, Stewart also paid the government $6,000 plus penalties as a result of his failure to pay the original tax owed.

Gas Kills Master and Dog in Lifetime Home

Jacob Reis, 42 years old, was found dead yesterday in the gas filled kitchen of his three room flat in the rear of 852 Cambridge avenue, where he was born and had always lived. His body was sprawled across the body of his pet dog, that died with him. Reis had lived alone in the house since his mother, who was said to have been 100 years old, died two months ago.

FINED FOR CARRYING STILLS.

Louis Goldstein, 40 years old, 2000 West 13th street, was fined $100 and costs yesterday by Police Magistrate James M. Fesco following his arrest by the Oak Park police when two stills were found in the automobile he was driving.

G. O. P. GIRDS TO WAR ON SENATE RADICALS IN 1930 ELECTION

New York, Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Otto H. Kahn, partner in the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. has accepted treasurership of the Republican senatorial campaign committee at the request of Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the committee, and Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, it was learned today.

Selection of a banker of Mr. Kuhn's standing as treasurer of the senatorial campaign committee was accepted as an indication that Senator Moses, as chairman of the committee, intended to be prepared for a hard fight for the retention of Republican control of the senate when a third of the members come up for election next year.

The selection of Mr. Kahn was seen as a war measure, aimed as much against members of the radicals in the senate as against the Democrats, with a possibility that the Republican senatorial campaign committee might fail to support some of the radicals who are opposing President Hoover and the administration on the tariff bill now before congress.

SHUMAKER, DRY CZAR OF INDIANA SINCE 1907, DIES

Called the "Perfect Prohibitionist."

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—The Rev. E. S. Shumaker, for more than twenty years superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, died here at 4:45 this afternoon, aged 62. Death was due to a malignant tumor and complications. Because of his success in obtaining the most stringent state bone dry law in the nation, Shumaker was frequently called "the perfect prohibitionist."

His militant career as a dry crusader and political organizer reached its high point about five years ago, when D. C. Stephenson and the Ku Klux Klan were dominating the Republican party in Indiana. In the 1925 annual report of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league Shumaker vigorously criticized the actions of the State Supreme court in certain liquor cases. His defiant attitude caused Attorney General Arthur Gilliom to prefer charges of contempt in 1926.

Finally Serves 60 Days.

After a long delay the Supreme court affirmed a 60 day sentence at the Indiana state farm. Although pardoned by Gov. Jackson as he was about to serve the sentence, the pardon was subsequently voided by the efforts of Attorney General Gilliom. After further attempts to evade the sentence, Shumaker entered the penal farm last Feb. 11 and served the two months' time. Rigid dieting there was followed by ill health. Last summer he was sent to the Battle Creek sanitarium to recover. For a time his health seemed to improve and he returned to his home here and resumed his duties at Anti-Saloon league headquarters. But the improvement was only temporary, and he was soon forced to take to his bed.

He grew steadily worse and for several weeks had been sinking into a coma. Just before the end he regained consciousness and was able to recognize the members of his family grouped about his bedside. His wife and four of his children were present when he died. One son, Wayne, a student at De Pauw university, was absent.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at the Broadway M. E. church here.

BORN IN OHIO.

The Rev. Edward Seitz Shumaker, was born July 30, 1867, at Greenville, O. He was graduated from the De Pauw university in 1895. His ordainment as a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church occurred in 1890. Memories of saloon brawls in his home town and his boyhood observations of the poverty among workingmen who drank influenced him to devote his life to prohibition work.

After filling pastorates in the Indiana villages of Bainbridge, Knightsville, Plainfield, Terre Haute, and Williamsport, he became professionally identified with the Indiana Anti-Saloon league in 1903 as its field secretary.

He became noted for physical courage in the early rough and tumble days of dry work and attracted the attention of the national Anti-Saloon league.

For three years he was superintendent of the South Bend district, until his promotion in 1907 to the dictatorship of the Indiana league. During the years following he wrote numerous pamphlets on prohibition and became an aggressive leader of the Indiana drys in the legislative fights which secured county option in 1908 and state prohibition during the war year of 1917. After the advent of national prohibition in 1919 he remained an outspoken defender of bone dry prohibition and its manifold problems of enforcement in Indiana.

He married Lena Truax in 1896. A year after her death, in 1899, he married Flora Holliger of Terre Haute, the mother of his five children.

INDIANIAN APPOINTED TO FEDERAL CIRCUIT OF APPEALS BENCH

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Judge William M. Sparks of Rushville, Ind., was appointed judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the Seventh District by President Hoover today. He succeeds Circuit Court Judge Albert B. Anderson of Indianapolis, who recently reached the retirement age. Headquarters of the Seventh District Circuit court is at Chicago.

Judge Sparks had the support of the two Indiana senators and a large number of Indiana judges and attorneys. The new judge comes from the home of Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.]. Senator Arthur R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.] and his colleague headed a list of 65 Indiana judges, attorneys and officials who sent letters of endorsement to the department of justice and the White House.

Attorney General William D. Mitchell selected Judge Sparks for recommendation to President Hoover from a list of fourteen names submitted to the department by Senators Watson and Robinson.

The murder trial of D. C. Stephenson, Indiana Ku Klux Klan leader, now serving a life sentence in the penitentiary, was held before Judge Sparks.

GANG CONFESSES ROBBING STORES IN SEVEN STATES

A burglary gang which has operated in seven states was uncovered yesterday when policemen from the Maxwell street station arrested two brothers, one of them an escaped convict, who confessed to several hundred burglaries. With them police seized a woman lookout and her 6 months old baby, and two other men accused of receiving the stolen property.

The two brothers are Todd Salter, 23 years old, and Emory, 26 years old. Todd escaped from the Michigan prison at Ionia, Mich., last July, while Emory is wanted for a $38,000 bank robbery at Cass City, Ind. They were seized at the home of Hale Emerich, 28 years old, at 13202 Baltimore avenue, where police found clothing and jewelry worth more than $5,000. Emerich and the woman companion of the Salters, Mrs. Patricia Clare, 20 years old, of Toledo, O., were taken with them. In the house police found 100 rounds of ammunition and several guns. Following their arrest they implicated George Small, 38 years old, 11018 Vincennes avenue, as a "fence" and he was taken into custody.

The Salters confessed they had robbed stores in Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana, and Michigan. They waived extradition and will be returned to La Porte county, Ind., where most of their robberies were staged.

POLICE COME OUT ON TOP IN 3 COURT CASES

The police department yesterday won three victories in the Circuit court when judges dissolved two temporary injunctions protecting alleged gambling resorts and denied a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the city to issue a license to a pawnshop. In all three actions Corporation Counsels William V. Daly and James N. Kearns represented the police.

Circuit Judge Friend dissolved a temporary injunction restraining police from raiding the Pershing Athletic club, 219 East 43d street, and Circuit Judge William V. Brothers made a similar ruling against the Drexel Boulevard Bridge club, 4646 Drexel boulevard. Circuit Judge Taylor refused to order the city to issue a license to Meyer Gordon, whose license for his pawnshop at 703 North Clark street was revoked when police charged him with being a "fence."

JOAN CONVICTED OF ASSAULT; MAY WIN PROBATION

Faints as Verdict of Jury Is Read.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Edward Kalinowski, rape, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary by Judge Otto Kerner.

Toney Lopes, Mike Stybery, Charles Netalian and Charles Norvil, burglary [changed to larceny], sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

Miss Joan La Coste, automobile racing driver, was found guilty last evening by a jury in Judge Joseph B. David's Criminal court of assault with intent to commit robbery. The judge, however, indicated that he would not impose the 1 to 14 year sentence in the penitentiary, as provided by law, but would put Joan on probation.

The ultimate fate of the defendant, however, will not be determined for two weeks, when a motion for a new trial is to be argued. At the outset of the trial the judge had held out an offer of probation if the defendant would plead guilty. She turned down the offer and chose to gamble with the jury.

Faints Over Verdict.

Miss La Coste fainted as the unexpected verdict was read, but she soon recovered, and spent an hour or more chatting and laughing with friends she had made in the Criminal court since she was placed on trial.

The jury by its verdict found that Miss La Coste went to the apartment of Mrs. Rebecca Bobbe in the Chicago beach hotel and attempted to commit a robbery. She was armed with a toy pistol and a bottle of chloroform. The defendant tried to tell the jury that she went to obtain a loan and that the pistol was only a novelty cigaret case.

Assistant State's Attorneys Charles A. Bellows and Samuel Clawson said they would oppose any move for probation. If the judge grants her liberty it will be over the strenuous objection of the prosecutors, they said.

Visits in Another Court.

Miss La Coste spent most of the time the jury was deliberating in the court or ante rooms of Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle, who had reduced her $25,000 bond to $2,500. She had to be summoned from that court when Judge David decided to call the jurors into court to see if a verdict could be reached. The jurors said they stood 10 to 2 and thought a verdict could be reached in a few minutes. It was not announced whether the majority was for conviction or acquittal.

Miss La Coste apparently had gotten the wrong tip, because she laughed and talked gaily with her attorney, Michael Romano, and others while she waited for the jury to return with the expected verdict. In a short time the verdict was announced and the defendant showed no signs of nervousness until the clerk reached the word "guilty." Her hands went nervously to her face and soon her showy beads were hidden from view as her face fell forward and she started to weep. She ultimately swooned in her chair. She was revived in a short time, however, and she heard the judge ask the jurors if they thought it a proper case for leniency.

Some of the jurors answered immediately that they thought it a case for leniency, but the reply was not unanimous until the judge repeated his question a second time. He then said he would consider a motion for probation.

FALL GUILTY, U. S. PREPARES TO TRY DOHENY

mistrial and indefinite continuance of the case.

"It's All Right," Sobs Wife.

As the justice left the bench, Mrs. Fall, leaving her sobbing daughters to the ministrations of the matron and friends, pushed through the milling throng and reaching Fall, threw herself upon him, crying, "It's all right, Albert, it's all right, nothing matters with me—you know that."

Kissing him again and again, she continued to comfort him until she was persuaded to take a chair at his side.

Doheny flung past the rail and, reaching the courtroom just as Justice Hitz left by a side entrance, turned to face the bench with uplifted fist and shouted, "This case wasn't tried by the jury, it was tried by the court." Mrs. Doheny, with tears streaming down her face, tugged at the old man's coat until she finally pulled him outside the room.

Attorney Collapses.

Thompson, meanwhile, had given way to his feelings and was crying like a child when he suddenly slipped to the floor in a complete collapse and it was first feared that he, ill for years, had succumbed to a heart attack. While Fall's personal physician, Dr. H. T. Safford, worked to revive the stricken attorney, Hogan, chief of the defense counsel, stood over his colleague's body and shouted:

"Bring back that G— D— jury and let them laugh at this, too."

"That verdict," screamed Hogan, "was a rape of the constitution. It was invited by the court in violation of Fall's constitutional rights. Everybody who heard the court's charge knew what the verdict would be, although when the evidence closed an acquittal was a foregone conclusion."

Fall in Stupor.

Even the sight of his old friend on the floor failed to rouse Fall from the stupor which had settled down on him and he was wheeled out of the courtroom and was resting in his hotel apartment before Dr. Safford succeeded in restoring Thompson to consciousness. Later Thompson, highly nervous, was moved to the hotel and tonight was reported to be recovering rapidly.

The one humorous note in the drama was sounded by Mrs. Thomas C. Adkins, wife of one of the jurors, who pleaded with a bailiff for an opportunity to "get at that fellow," her husband. From the first day of the trial Mrs. Adkins haunted the courtroom, predicting that the result would be the acquittal of that "poor old man," and vowing vengeance on her husband, a locomotive engineer, if he dared vote for conviction.

Leaving the courtroom by a rear door, the jurors were posing for newspaper and newsreel photographers when Mrs. Adkins burst upon the scene, screaming:

Juror Berated by Wife.

"You, you—come out here where I can get my hands on you—I'm going home, and you better not show up around there, either."

"I am personally very sorry for Secretary Fall," declared Prosecutor Roberts. "The duty that I have had in this case has been an unpleasant one. But I have done only what I felt was the duty of a sworn official. I am satisfied that the verdict was right and was in accordance with the evidence.

"The health of the body politic and the vindication of the pure principles of government are always far more important than the welfare or health of any one man. This fact and this fact only made it necessary that the government try the case and have a record written in the court characterizing the official dereliction involved in the case.

"I can't help but feel the sympathy for Fall which his serious illness and weakened condition must excite in the breast of every one, but, nevertheless, the jury did its obvious duty, notwithstanding the condition of the culprit," declared Senator T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], chief prosecutor of the senate committee investigation which uncovered the scandals. "Every right minded person ought to be gratified that this large measure of justice has been done."

WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY IN HOME.

Mrs. Irene Gresley, 26 years old, 4004 Clarendon avenue, was found dead in her bed yesterday by Dr. Walter B. Sieverth, 728 Sheridan road, who was summoned by a neighbor.

POLICE ARREST 5,333 IN CAMPAIGN TO END AUTO LAW VIOLATIONS

Commissioner of Police Russell yesterday announced the results of the campaign against traffic violators, which is aimed largely at persons driving through stop and go signals and not stopping at through streets. Arrest of all offenders started on the first day of this week. The number of arrests and the offenses for which they were made are as follows:

Oct. 23	575	1,062
Oct. 24	853	1,289

The drive on these violators is a part of the year's safety campaign inaugurated by Commissioner Russell recently. Two weeks are devoted especially to the enforcement of each traffic ordinance in the city code.

JAIL POLICEMAN FOR ATTEMPT TO BLOCK JUSTICE

Policeman Vincent Qualey of the Summerdale station was stripped of his star and revolver yesterday and locked up in the county jail when it was discovered that he was charged with obstructing justice, so the authorities claim, in an indecent liberty case involving his own niece was a co-defendant with him in an indecent liberty case. A charge of malfeasance in office was lodged against him in the felony court of Judge Borrell.

The disclosures regarding the conduct of the policeman took place in the courtroom of Judge G. Fred Prussing in the Criminal court when Jos Frank, 40 years old, 7023 Ravenswood avenue, was put to trial on two charges of indecent liberties with two 11 year old girls. The jury was called and the trial was about to proceed when the state discovered that the niece of the policeman was not present.

Qualey asserted she was in other and would not be present.

Assistant State's Attorney Abraham Johnson and Owen West became suspicious and asked for a short adjournment. The witnesses were taken to the office of Chief Investigator Joe Roche.

Edward P. Gould, father of the other complaining witness, told Roche that Qualey had recently told him that he was not going to allow his niece to prosecute and suggested that he do the same.

ENDS OWN LIFE WHEN LOVE IS SPURNED

Mrs. Eve Waddington Greeley, widow of a British army officer, who posed as a countess, found dead in her home at 6618 Glenwood avenue. A note near by indicated she had committed suicide.

"COUNTESS" ENDS LIFE WHEN HER LOVE IS SPURNED

Writes Farewell Note to Policeman.

story that he had met Mrs. Greeley only a month ago and insisted that the policeman was an old acquaintance of the dead woman. She said they met at Detroit some years ago, while Maier was employed as a customs inspector.

That Mrs. Greeley may have contemplated suicide for some time was indicated by a statement of Mrs. Farrelly that her half sister had taken an overdose of sleeping potion several months ago. A note was found in the apartment signed by Dr. William V. Haskins, 622 Diversey parkway, and addressed to St. Joseph's hospital, directing that she be admitted there for treatment on March 19.

Dr. Haskins said he had treated her for a nervous disorder at that time.

Leaves Loving Letter.

The note addressed to Maier greeted him as "My Love" and read:

"I feel the end is very near for me. All the bitterness and hate is gone from my heart. I die, loving your dear heart. Since you could not love me living, think kindly of me when I am gone. I want you to have my ring. I wish I could be your own before I die. As it is I die not knowing why you cast me so brutally out of your life. If I have sinned, God knows I have suffered the torments of the damned, while I have waited for death through all these pain tortured hours. Goodby, my love."

In the same handwriting but written with a different pen and a different colored ink, the note continued:

"I give my hope of heaven to die in your arms. Won't you risk it for me?"

The inquest into Mrs. Greeley's death will be held at 10 a. m. today.

HUNTER BAGS RARE ANIMALS OF AFRICA FOR FIELD MUSEUM

Rare zoölogical specimens from the African bush country will soon be the property of the Field Museum of Natural History, following the arrival in Chicago yesterday of Capt. Harold White of New York after a year's hunting trip. Capt. White was the leader of the Harold White-John Coats expedition to Abyssinia, Tanganyika and Kenya.

Five specimens of the reticulated giraffe; several white dik diks, the world's smallest antelope species; three aard-varks, a rare ant eater, and a hitherto unknown type of chamois were obtained by the expedition. Grant gazelles, oryx, black rhinoceros, lions, and numerous small birds and mammals were also collected.

The king of Abyssinia, Ras Taffari, expedited the work of the expedition with his cooperation, according to Capt. White.

GERMAN UNCLE LEAVES MILLION TO DETECTIVE

New York, Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Detective Henry Senss of the Brooklyn homicide squad, whose greatest ambition has been to pay the mortgage on his home in Hollis, L. I., and retire on half pay—$1,250 a year—today learned that he is a millionaire.

He was sorting the mail when he ran across a letter from Germany addressed to himself.

It said that his uncle, Hermann von Senss, died on June 26 last, leaving about 4,000,000 paper marks (about $1,000,000), 700 gold marks, and an estate on the Rhine to him.

Boy Awarded $25,000 for Loss of Sight in One Eye

Chester Malinowski, 16 years old, 1728 Julian street, yesterday was awarded $25,000 damages in his suit for the loss of sight in his left eye against Martin Piasecki, 45 years old, 1433 North Wood street, by a jury in Superior Judge Gentzel's court. The boy charged Piasecki struck him with the limb of a tree, causing the injury, on May 1, 1927, when he chased Chester and three companions from his yard.

NIGHT CLUB GIRL WINNER OF SUIT AGAINST THAW

Jury Verdict Awards Her $75,000 Damages.

New York, Oct. 25.—[Special.]—A jury before Supreme Court Justice Levy today awarded Miss Marcia Estardus, erstwhile night club hostess, damages of $75,000 in her suit against Harry K. Thaw. She charged that the eccentric millionaire struck and bit her.

Isidore M. Shapiro, Thaw's lawyer, made a motion to set the verdict aside on the ground that it was "grossly excessive," but Justice Levy reserved decision.

Miss Estardus asked for $100,000 to indemnify her. The jury took just fifty-five minutes to decide her case.

Asked what she intended to do with the money, when and if she got it, Miss Estardus replied:

Wants Nice Husband.

"I intend to look for a nice man and settle down. I want children and everything. I really mean it."

Miss Estardus seemed to collapse at the verdict, but she pulled herself together and a few minutes later posed smilingly for the photographers.

Thaw was present when the verdict was returned.

"I am greatly surprised and shocked at the verdict," he declared. "I don't know how the jury arrived at that verdict. The only testimony was that of the woman, which was perjury."

Unconscious, She Says.

Miss Estardus alleged that while in Thaw's apartment in West Seventy-fifth street on Jan. 1, 1927, Thaw had knocked her unconscious and then hit her several times with a hair brush, bit her, and ripped her dress to the waist. When she regained consciousness, she said, she had tried to jump out of the window, but Thaw restrained her.

It was Thaw's unlucky day. No sooner did he leave the court room after the verdict than papers were served on him by the estate of Dr. Ely Jelliffe, demanding $10,000 for professional services during Thaw's trial for the murder of Stanford White twenty-three years ago. Dr. Jelliffe was one of the alienists.

Admits Theft of $3,000 from a Checkroom Girl

Albert Abram, 39 years old, 3533 Grenshaw street, was arrested last night on a warrant obtained by Miss Betty Brody, 22 years old, of the Devonshire hotel, 19 West Ohio street, charging him with the theft of $3,000 in bonds. Miss Brody, a checkroom girl in a cabaret, said she gave Abram a key to her safety deposit box at the First National bank several weeks ago, telling him she wanted him to have her savings if anything happened to her. Two days ago she visited the box and found that her bonds were gone. Abram admitted taking the bonds. He said his mother lost heavily in the market slump and he took the bonds to provide margins.

FORTUNE GONE, EVANSTON MAN ENDS HIS LIFE

With his fortune dwindled away in real estate ventures, Charles Frederick Stewart, 49 years old, one time wealthy Evanston real estate dealer, committed suicide yesterday by turning on the gas in the kitchen of his home at 1316 Maple avenue, Evanston. A coroner's jury yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

His widow, Mrs. Martha Stewart, who found the body when she arose about 6 o'clock, said Stewart had lost heavily in real estate ventures recently. He had invested $200,000 in the building in which they lived and delays in construction had involved other property he owned in litigation, she said. Within the last few weeks, however, she said, his business affairs seemed to improve, and he had obtained a position as manager of an automobile agency, and was to start work there next Monday.

Mrs. Stewart said reports that her husband had lost heavily in the stock market were false, as he had had no money to invest.

Besides his widow, he is survived by one daughter, Lois, 22 years old, and one son, Fred K., 15 years old

PAL OF CLEAVER IN JAIL BREAK IS RECAPTURED

C. W. Clarke, who on June 16, 1928, escaped with Charles (Limpy) Cleaver and several other prisoners from the Du Page county jail at Wheaton, was captured yesterday by Sheriff Lawrence Hattendorf of Du Page county at Clearwater, Mich., and returned to Wheaton. The sheriff revealed that for months he has been watching a dairy farm at Clearwater on a tip that Clarke was hiding there.

Clarke was awaiting trial at time of the jail break for the robbery of the third rail station at Lombard. Cleaver was awaiting trial for the $133,000 Evergreen Park mail robbery. Cleaver, along with other members of the mail robbery gang, later was captured near Melrose Park following a gun battle with Chicago police. Cleaver was convicted and is now in Leavenworth prison.

JUDGE PONDERS ARGUMENTS IN TAXICAB CASE

Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday took under advisement exceptions to the report of Master in Chancery Thomas J. Peden in the Checker taxi litigation which have been argued before him for four days. The local cab company is being sued for $1,500,000 for breach of contract by the Checker Cab Manufacturing company of New Jersey.

Master Peden tendered his report several months ago after hearing testimony for more than a year. In it he found for the New Jersey concern and recommended an accounting with the view of determining the amount to be awarded against the Checker company of Chicago. Attorneys took several exceptions to the recommendation and have been giving their arguments this week.

FLIGHT FROM RUSSIA PAVES WAY FOR AIR ROUTE, FLYER SAYS

The flight of the Russian airplane Land of the Soviets, is being made to pave the way for a regular air line between Moscow and New York, passing through Chicago, Semen A. Shestakov, commander and pilot of the flight, said yesterday at a public reception for the four Russian flyers given at the Palmer house.

Because the flyers do not understand English, an address of welcome was delivered in Russian by J. J. Voronko, editor of the Russian Review. He said that their arrival here was a day of pride for the 30,000 Russians in Chicago. A second address of welcome was delivered by City Treasurer Peterson. Col. T. A. Siqueland, vice president of the State Bank of Chicago, acted as toastmaster.

Shestakov and his fellow flyers, Philip E. Bolotov, co-pilot; Boris Sterligov, navigator, and Dmitry V. Fufayev, mechanic, were taken for a tour of the city after the reception.

1,000 MILE OHIO WATER HIGHWAY OFFICIALLY BORN

Dedicate Last Link at Cairo, Ill.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cairo, Ill., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—"On to Cairo" was once a dream.

Today this afternoon, as the big river steamboats Cincinnati and Greater Pittsburgh, with a flotilla of smaller craft, warped up to the Cairo levee and that wide stretch of waters below the Ohio and the Mississippi met, the dream had become a reality.

The dam at Grand Chain, 18 miles above here, was dedicated today by members of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, who had journeyed all the way from Pittsburgh and Cincinnati through a string of newly completed locks and dams.

Some of the men here were the men who met in a little room in Cincinnati in 1895 and organized the association which put this thing through, despite political obstacles and indifference of the public.

Gen. Sibert Dedicates Work.

Brig. Gen. William L. Sibert, United States engineer, retired, builder of the Panama canal, authorized by the 1910 rivers and harbors act, was the one to pronounce the formal words of dedication. The engineers have taken as much interest in the project as the business men.

"I feel that the completion of the great waterway projects specially referred to by our President in his Asheville address will thrust industrial centers into our midcontinental areas, and thus bring farm and factory near each other and give flexibility to labor that will bring content," said Gen. Sibert. "It is not well in a nation of great area, such as our west, to have only one occupation, agriculture."

The lower part of the Ohio presented the most difficult engineering problem of the entire stream, Gen. Sibert said. The man who accomplished this task, Col. George R. Spalding, district engineer, was also present.

Four Years on One Dam.

The work on this dam alone has required four years, and has cost more than $5,000,000. It is the last gap in 1,000 miles of river between Pittsburgh and Cairo, which now has a uniform channel of 9 feet. The government has employed as high as 1,600 men on this dam alone at times, in order to rush it to completion. It is an 18 foot lift. The lock is 600 feet long and 110 feet wide. Two big units can be locked through at the same time.

Miss Margaret Pitcher of Cairo cut the silk ribbon which opened the dam today, while a thousand persons lined the river bank and hundreds more moved from the dedication fleet.

On the Cairo peninsula three states are in sight, the rich soil of Illinois, the green shores of Kentucky and Missouri in the farther distance. This section of Illinois, at least, is awakened to the possibilities of the river renaissance. The waterfront was paraded in welcome and the celebration continued throughout the evening.

A Political Triumph.

The business men of the valley and the engineers did not do this thing alone. It takes some politics to get $38,000,000 out of congress. The original estimate for the job was $62,000,000 and each session congress had to be convinced of the need of more and more money. Now it has become an administration major policy to carry on this work to other valleys of the central west.

Congressman Nicholas Longworth, leader of the house, told the other night how this was accomplished in congress. It was a combination of intelligent political effort, by unselfish men well organized.

When Mr. Longworth first went to congress the Ohio river project was only ten per cent completed. There was no system to the work. It was that "patchwork" which President Hoover despises.

Organized Effort Starts.

"It was about this time that an influence outside of congress was beginning to be felt," said Mr. Longworth. "A group of men, not many in number, but representatives of a vast population and vast public interests, was beginning to receive sympathetic hearing in the committees of congress. They called themselves the Ohio Valley Improvement association.

"The culmination came in 1910, when a large appropriation was carried for the nine foot channel. The rest was comparatively easy."

WOMAN BURNED IN EXPLOSION.

Miss Lucy Jennings, 31 years old, 7112 Cornell avenue, was seriously burned last night when naphtha with which she was cleaning a hat in the bathroom of her home exploded. She was taken to the Jackson Park hospital with burns on her face, hands and body.

PASCHEN AGAIN DELAYS REVOKING OF CUNEO PERMIT

Dallying Gives Time for Suit to Block City.

Building Commissioner Paschen found another reason yesterday for failing to obey the command of the city council to revoke the permit for the construction of the Cuneo tower. He had delayed action, despite the opinion of Corporation Counsel Ettelson recommending that he obey the aldermen and revoke the permit, until notice of another legal proceeding was received yesterday which held up the revocation.

Yesterday's court action was the filing of a petition for an injunction against Paschen to restrain him from revoking the Cuneo permit and against Paschen and Commissioner of Police Russell to enjoin them from interfering with the construction of John F. Cuneo's tower at the northeast corner of Michigan avenue and Randolph street.

New Reason for Delay.

It was notice of this suit that was seized by Paschen's assistants as an obstacle to obedience to the council's orders. Robert Knight, assistant building commissioner, received the notice of the suit in the absence of Paschen.

Five newspaper reporters, at Paschen's request, were waiting for him in his office at 2:30 p. m. yesterday. Paschen did not appear, and at 2:55 p. m. Mr. Knight came in and sat in the boss' chair.

"I just left Paschen downstairs and he told me to come up here and tell you that he can't act on this recommendation of Ettelson's," said Knight. "We want a definite order from Ettelson telling us to revoke the permit."

New Suit Is Filed.

Hardly had he finished speaking when Paschen's secretary came into the room with notice of the filing of the injunction suit.

An investigation disclosed that the young man who brought notice of the suit was from the office of Attorney Barnet Hodes, who represents Cuneo in another suit involving the tower, and also the zoning board of appeals in some matters. The law firm of Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann & Levinson, however, and not Hodes, had filed the suit. A deputy sheriff also had filed notice of the suit ot approximately 2:30 p. m. with Peter Hoey, secretary of the building department.

The new injunction petition, which was filed in the Circuit court and will be heard today before Judge William B. Brothers, was regarded as peculiar, as it differs little from a petition filed in the Superior court on July 22. The latest petition includes, in addition, mention of the passage by the council of an ordinance repealing the amendment under which Cuneo received his permit and the ordinance directing Paschen to revoke the permit.

Injunction Refused.

Hearings were held on the first petition on July 30 and 31 before Judge Walter Steffen, who entered an order on Aug. 2 denying a temporary injunction. On Sept. 11 Ald. William O'Toole [14th], chairman of the council building and zoning committee, entered an order directing Paschen to revoke the permit. Apparently satisfied that the aldermen were going to order the revocation, attorneys for Cuneo went before Judge Hebel and on their own motion dismissed the bill for injunction.

Legal authorities pointed out that Cuneo's attorneys could have incorporated their latest action in a supplementary bill to their original petition. Instead they transferred their activities from the Superior court to the Circuit court.

4 MEN STABBED IN BATTLE WITH FILIPINO GROUP

Exeter, Cal., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Officers were making an effort today to round up instigators of a disturbance here last night in which four white men were seriously injured with knives and which resulted in a number of Filipinos being chased from the community. Sheriff R. L. Hill of Tulare county said he expected to make fifty arrests.

The trouble broke out at a carnival here when a group of Filipino laborers exchanged angry words with a group of white workers.

The fighting spread to a ranch near Exeter where a crowd of white persons descended on a Filipino laborers' camp, burned a shed, destroyed hay and demolished three automobiles belonging to Filipinos.

RULES AGAINST PAYING "EXTRA" ON RIVER WORK

Ettelson Hits Claim of Dredge Company.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson yesterday informed the council finance committee that, in his opinion, the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company is not entitled to extra compensation of $150,000 in connection with work on the river straightening project. The opinion reverses the position taken by City Engineer Gayton, who has argued that the claim should be allowed.

The opinion, addressed to Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the committee, notes that three weeks before the bids for the contract were let the water in the river had risen approximately one and one-half feet above the low elevation in the early part of the same year. The company based its claim for the "extra" on the necessity for the construction of cofferdams to permit the construction of channel walls.

Bidder to Take Risk.

Bidders were instructed to investigate the conditions relating to the work before bidding, the opinion states. And the specifications provide that all loss or damage from any unforeseen or unusual obstruction, or "from the action of the elements," shall be sustained by the contractor.

"The specifications likewise provide that 'no additional allowance will be made for the failure of a bidder or of the contractor to estimate correctly the difficulties attending the execution of thew ork,'" the opinion says.

Opposes Payment.

"We find no warrantees nor positive nor implied representations in the specifications in question with respect to the normal or abnormal condition of the river levels either at the time of the performance of the contract or at any other time; and in view of all the provisions above quoted it is clear that the city is not liable either legally or equitably for the claims made by the dredge company."

The finance committee once voted to allow the claim, but later decided to hold up passage of the compensation order until the corporation counsel's opinion could be obtained.

SCHOOLS WORK TO STOP PRANKS OF HALLOWEEN

The autumn educational program to forestall Halloween mischief and pranks of school children will reach its climax during the first three days of next week with numerous student plays, classroom parties, and school assemblies, according to John M. Duggan, chairman of the Chicago Principals' club committee in charge of the project. Every schoolroom above the fourth grade has been organized as a junior civic club and is being taught to celebrate Halloween in an orderly manner, according to Mr. Duggan.

Loss Is Food

Suzette, a hungry Evanston goat, wandered into the Central café at 1914 Central street, Evanston, yesterday, while Victor C. Fantozzi, the proprietor, was in the kitchen. When Mr. Fantozzi returned to the dining room, he found two sugar bowls on the floor and on investigation found Suzette behind the lunch counter placidly devouring a pie.

Mr. Fantozzi charged and Suzette charged, meeting each other half way. Mr. Fantozzi retreated in a backward somersault through the glass door, and Suzette followed up her advantage, butting him onto the sidewalk. Mr. Fantozzi called the police, and Patrolman Ernest Krogman responded. Suzette gave him two powerful butts, and he rolled over the sidewalk with the goat munching at his hair. Police reinforcements arrived and after a few more butts Suzette surrendered, and was returned to her owner, Paul B. Wagner, 2515 Central street.

The loss to Mr. Fantozzi included six carrots, one-half a cabbage, one loaf of bread, two pies, twelve rolls, and two sugar bowls, exclusive of the pane of glass and the embarrassment.

FAHERTY ROUTED BY UPROAR OF HOME OWNERS

'Not What You Want, but What I Want,' He Says.

Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements retreated in confusion yesterday under an attack of South Damen avenue property owners who objected to his plan for improving their street between 33d and 39th streets. Mr. Faherty at first sought to beat down opposition with a dictatorial attitude, but he surrendered and amended the plans to suit the property owners.

The objectors, numbering approximately 100 men and women, some of whom carried babies in their arms, crowded the board's hearing room. They were led by David E. Shanahan, speaker of the Illinois house of representatives; Trustee King of the drainage board, and Ald. B. J. Zintak [12th], in whose ward the project lies.

Dictation Causes Uproar.

"It makes no difference what you want; it's what I want you to have," was the hard boiled statement with which Faherty sought to forestall opposition.

"If you wait until some one else is sitting in my office you'll be paying the whole bill yourself. You have a cheap pavement in there now."

The murmur of opposition grew into a roar when Faherty thus announced his determination to have his own way. After trying in vain to still the storm, Faherty agreed to heed the protests and revise his plans.

As planned by Faherty, the improvement would start with tearing up the present paving of six inches of concrete covered with asphalt, which was laid in 1920, and would widen the roadway from thirty to forty-eight feet by taking nine feet from each side of the street. Assessments were to be levied against the property owners, mostly wage earners.

Old Paving Saved.

As altered to soothe the wrath of the objectors, only six feet will be taken from each side and paved; the present center paving will remain untouched, and Faherty guaranteed that there would be no expense to the property owners. The city would assume payment, he said, by declaring the entire cost a public benefit.

"The proposed improvement assessments would be a hardship that these owners of small homes could not bear," stated Representative Shanahan. "It means mortgages and foreclosures on their property."

Objections of a group of property owners on North State street, however, were overriden by the board and an order passed to widen the street between Chicago avenue and Division street from 38 to 44 feet. Other property owners forced the board to abandon a proposal to pave Foster avenue from Keeler to Elston avenues at a cost of $104,500.

SCHOOL FIRE OUSTS CLASSES.

Fire, believed to have been started by an overheated steam pipe, damaged the basement of the parish school of the Congregation of St. John, 5129 South Throop street, early yesterday to such an extent that classes were transferred to the church basement.

Carlstrom Enters Battle to Put Barker Back in Cell

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom yesterday gave assurances to Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege that he would ask the Supreme court to set aside the order of Circuit Judge T. N. Greene of Peoria county on which George Barker obtained his release from the prison to resume his $40,000 a year racket as boss of the Chicago Coal Teamsters' union. This procedure will be in a mandamus suit to compel Judge Greene to expunge his record, which would enable the police to send Barker back to Pontiac for eight years.

The question had been raised as to whether the state was properly represented in the hearing before Judge Greene, in which State Senator Victor P. Michel was attorney for Barker. Judge Greene said yesterday he found occasion to compliment the assistant attorney general who opposed Senator Michel, but that he decided the case on its merits.

Jurisdiction Is Denied.

First Assistant Attorney General Montgomery S. Winning said he was positive the state's side of the litigation had been presented properly to Judge Greene, and he added:

"We have had several of those cases before Judge Greene and in each we have presented the plea that Judge Greene is without jurisdiction to order the release of the convict. It's strictly a legal question. Each time Judge Greene has overruled our motion.

"We didn't deem it necessary to subpoena witnesses to refute the statement that Barker had not been given a hearing when he was reimprisoned as a parole violator. We argued that the subject matter was not for Judge Greene to decide."

Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin, who has charge of the grand jury investigation launched because of Barker's intimidation of independent coal dealers, said he would prepare a petition asking Judge Greene to reverse himself.

Judge Explains Position.

Judge Greene said yesterday, however, that he could not vacate his own order freeing Barker because he had lost jurisdiction. In explanation, Judge Greene said further:

"I didn't like the looks of the relator (Barker), but I ruled in accordance with my view of the law. Where promises have been made to convicts by the warden and parole board they should be kept."

Judge Greene was reminded that Barker's case did not come under the classification of prisoners serving 10 years to life who had been given some idea they would be released after serving 6 years and 3 months. The major point raised in Barker's behalf was that the parole board had not given him a hearing before ordering him recommitted as a parole violator. Senator Michels cited a Supreme court decision in what he termed a similar case, as justifying the court in freeing Barker.

Commission Cites Case.

The Chicago Crime commission took issue with Michel on this point, citing the following:

"The case mentioned involved Joseph A. Joyce, sentenced for forgery, and who was paroled in 1908. In 1909 he was sent back to prison for having left the state without permission. The Supreme court order kept Joyce in prison—instead of releasing him—but ruled that he was entitled to a hearing."

Paul J. Alwart of Alwart Brothers Coal company, and one of the organizers of the Chicago Merchant Coal Dealers' association, was a witness before the grand jury yesterday as a complainant against Barker. Alwart, who is no longer a member of the association, said Barker had called strikes against him and ordered him to cease advertising coal at a lesser price than charged by association members.

He said the coal dealers' association had split up into cliques and had deviated from its original purposes. Its relations with the Coal Teamsters' union were too interlocking and talk that savored of price fixing caused him to resign his membership, Alwart told the grand jury.

$25,000 RANSOM PAID FOR CHILD; 7 ARE ARRESTED

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Seven persons were in custody today in connection with the kidnaping of 5 year old Jackie Thompson and police were searching for two others suspected of participating in the plot. The child was discovered in an east side house Wednesday night by police shortly after the father, Henry S. Thompson, had paid a ransom reported to have been $25,000.

Those held are James Fernando, 39; his wife Anna, 23; Emil Saove, 23; Anthony Duguanno, 28; his wife Mary, 19; Anthony Abruzzese, 32, and Joseph De George, 42.

Fernando, Saove and Duguanno are charged with kidnaping. Thompson is said to have identified Fernando as one of the gang who kidnaped his son, Sept. 30. The others are held for investigation.

Only part of the $25,000 ransom paid by Thompson has been recovered, police said. It is believed the two men still at large have the remainder of the money.

SLAYS HIS WIFE, SHOOTS RELATIVE, AND KILLS SELF

Lushton, Neb., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Bert Stollar of Long Beach, Cal., shot and killed his wife today, succeeding in his threat to "get" her, "dead or alive." He then killed himself.

In a scuffle for a revolver previous to the fatal shooting, Stoll probably fatally wounded Mrs. Hardy Swartz, a sister of Mrs. Stollar.

The Stollars moved to Long Beach several years ago. They had four sons and two daughters. Mrs. Stollar came here a few days ago to take two of her sons back to Long Beach. Stollar and his wife had not lived together since last July, when he came back here to live, bringing his two younger sons.

NCE KEPT IN EXILE" BY DUCE, NOBLEMAN SAYS

orges Humbert on Bad Terms with Mussolini.

T ANN SOMERS HOUSE.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

RUSSELS, Oct. 25.—Is Crown Humbert of Italy anti-Fascist? old Italian nobleman, who ed his identity concealed for ob- reasons, today said that rumors ad about Brussels are true, that bert is on terms of polite but hostility with Premier Musso- , and is practically an exile in his le at Turin, where Princess Marie of Belgium will reside with him their wedding.

"The prince was forced to go and in Turin, although the population Rome idolized him and the king queen of Italy wanted him to stay in Rome," this nobleman said. "But prince and Il Duce could not stay the same town."

Debates with Anti-Fascists.

"The prince used to attend lec- s of anti-Fascist scholars in Rome would congratulate them osten- ously after each lecture. In Turin invited a nobleman, who was to e arrested on the same afternoon his anti-Fascist protestations, to debate. Humbert invited him to- ther with the chief of police who to arrest the nobleman. Hearing the prince's interference, Musso- withdrew the order for the arrest. "The slanderous talk by Fascists out the prince leading a wild life, him seen with disreputable women, ing and flirting, denotes that mething is wrong in the prince's itude toward Mussolini."

Showered with Flowers.

Breaking through police lines, not to ad bombs or to fire revolvers but to ow flowers into the car of Prince bert and Princess Marie José, the pulation of Brussels today showed joy over the engagement of the nce and the escape of Italy's prince m assassination yesterday.

Prince Humbert left tonight for me. Unmindful of yesterday's at- pt on his life, the heir to the Ital- throne and the Belgian princess e in an open carriage through the eets of Brussels to the city hall ce. The authorities had urged that ded cars be used because it would safer. The party was escorted by regiment of cavalry. Prince Hum- rt and his fiancée were in the first riage, the Belgian king and queen the second, and Crown Prince Leo- ld and Princess Astrid with Prince ilip in the third. Princess Marie ose wore a pale pink velvet coat and lace ensemble, with a pink turban match.

Cheered by Children.

At the grand palace in the central are in Brussels, which dates back the seventeenth century, the party as cheered by 10,000 school children, ch waving a small Italian flag.

Two cups of champagne were of- ed to the young couple by Mayor ndale Max, who wished them happi- ss, and they then signed the city's lden book.

While this was going on inside a ousand or more high school girls, essed in long flowing Greek gar- nts, with their shoulders bared, ayed in the courtyard and sang lgian and Italian songs. Following e signing of the golden book Prince mbert and his fiancée walked to the alcony and greeted the crowd. This as the signal for a wild demonstra- n.

Mob Breaks Police Lines.

The wildest demonstration, however, curred at the Italian embassy, where mbert went to change from his ilitary uniform to civilian clothes. s the couple stepped out of their r the crowds broke through the po- e lines and charged the royal au- mobile, almost mobbing its occu- nts. Several Belgian children were in- red in the scramble.

TO FORM CABINET

EDOUARD DALADIER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 25.—Edouard Daladier, young president of the Radical Socialist party, was today asked by President Doumergue to form a new government. After being closeted with the president for an hour this noon, he asked until tomorrow before giving a definite decision. He hurried back immediately to Reims, where his party is holding its annual convention.

M. Daladier will probably attempt a left government, including the Socialists, to whom he will offer several cabinet positions. He will, however, probably retain the ministry of foreign affairs for himself.

He is in the unique position of being offered the premiership without ever having served in any previous French cabinet.

NEW 5 DAY WEEK SPOILS DAYS OFF OF SOVIET LABOR

Men Grumble; Unable to See Football Games.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 25.—Unless football and other sports schedules are changed, the uninterrupted working week introduced recently in Russian industry will fail, according to the Rabotchaija Moskva ["Workers of Moscow"]. This paper reports that the workers are dissatisfied with the new three shift system which gives them every sixth day free.

The workers say that football games and other sporting events continue to be held on Saturday afternoon and Sunday and that they are unable to enjoy a day off in the middle of the week when their children are at school and their wives busy with the washing.

The wives also oppose the communists' latest plan to abolish Sunday. Many women say that instead of the usual week-end jag, their husbands are greeting the uninterrupted working week with uninterrupted drinking.

The working schedule, which has been introduced in twelve of the largest factories in Moscow, has proved to be more complicated than a chess game.

The new schedule was designed to enable the factories to operate continuously in three shifts and through the changing of shifts every five days, the workers are supposed to get more time off than the workers of capitalistic countries.

ILLINOIS MINISTER'S SON IS FOUND GUILTY OF MURDERING WIFE

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—J. Howard Shorney, 25, a draftsman, son of the Rev. J. D. Shorney, minister of Fairbury, Ill., was tonight found guilty of second degree murder by a jury in Circuit court. Seven men and five women composed the jury. Shorney beat his wife, Alberta, 23, to death with a furnace shaker in their home here July 4. The penalty for second degree murder is an indeterminate number of years to life.

The prosecution based its case on a confession by Shorney in which he admitted he killed his wife because she had informed him he was not the father of her unborn child. Shorney's wife was a nurse, having graduated in 1925 from the University of Michigan nurses' school.

BRUNDAGE RISES TO LET CERMAK KNOW HE'S ALIVE

Why Shoot at Dead One? Democrat Asked.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Repartee flew thick and fast between the political camps in yesterday's judicial campaigning as the Brundageites and the Republican organization came out with counterblasts to the City club speech of A. J. Cermak, Democratic county chairman, accusing them of being "dead as a smoked herring."

Edward J. Brundage, after a denial that he is in a reciprocity deal with the Snow-Barrett-Gaipin camp as charged by the Democratic big shot, accused Cermak of "driving the Irish out of the Democratic party."

B. W. Snow, acting Republican chairman, asserted that the "short pencil club" among the Democrats is out to doublecross three or four sitting Republican judges running on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Snow said his group will mark its sample ballots for the five candidates on its own ticket and probably for three or more Republican judges on the Democratic ticket, "who are being slaughtered." Names were withheld, but Republican gossip was that they are Judges Oscar Hebel, R. E. Gentzel, W. N. Gemmill and H. B. Miller.

Democrats Rest on Oars.

The Democrats, deeming that Cermak at the City club had delivered a funeral oration over their opposing camps, drew down the blinds and called it a silent day. Mr. Cermak broke from his meditations with a brief comment on what the other sides were saying. "They're human ostriches," he said. "With their heads in the sand they don't know what it's all about."

Mr. Brundage brought in a cryptic crack about dog races in paying his compliments to Mr. Cermak.

"The irascible Topy Cermak," said Brundage, "says I am dead, but he delivers a fifty-minute tirade of abuse. Quite a lot of attention to a dead one.

"I am for giving the people a chance to make their selections and Cermak was for making the selections himself. I am a dead one, it seems to his mind, because I object to his running any portion of the Republican party.

Not a G. O. P. Czar.

"Cermak can be czar of the Democratic party. He can drive all the Irish out of it and do as he pleases with the Democrats, but he cannot continue to make deals with factions of Republicans without my protest.

"In my long list of high crimes recited by Cermak, I notice nothing serious to reply to. He did not accuse me of owning material supply companies from which the county must buy; of being interested in real estate near which public improvements are to be located; of operating dog races, or any such reprehensible things, therefore we will just forget the personal attack and look to the main issue, which is: "'shall the people have a chance to express a choice for judges of the Superior court at the election Tuesday, November 5?'"

The Sanitary Alliance.

From Republican headquarters a sepulchral voice, identity not given by the announcer, emitted the following:

"Tony Cermak admitted at the City club Thursday that he had an alliance with Deneen for the government of the sanitary district. He justified the alliance by saying that the district has saved $3,000,000 this year. Cermak did not tell that the preceding alliance on the sanitary district which led to the pay roll and contract scandals was an alliance between Link, the Deneen trustee, and the four Democratic trustees.

"Cermak did not tell if the present alliance is any explanation of the state's attorney's tardiness in returning indictments against the pay roll padders. The recipient of the places on that padded pay roll as Deneen's share of the bipartisan deal was, among other places, jobs for fourteen of his ward leaders."

"Taking Drink No Sin," Says Ex-Prison Chaplain

"Some crimes are not sins, for instance, taking a drink," said the Rev. Spence Burton last night. He is conducting a mission at the Episcopal Church of Our Savior, 532 Fullerton avenue. The point was given to this remark by the fact that for six years the speaker was chaplain at the California penitentiary at San Quentin.

"There are sins," he added, "that would not put a person in jail, but would put a person in hell."

Careers of 3 More Entrants in Judicial Race Outlined

This is the seventh installment of sketches of candidates in the Cook county judicial election of Nov. 5. Following the precedent of the Chicago Bar association, The Tribune presents the nominees in alphabetical order, first those for the Superior court, and then, at the conclusion of the series, those for the vacancies in the Circuit court.

McGOORTY RUNS FIRST

JUDGE McGOORTY.

Judge John P. McGoorty, who has served fifteen years on the bench, is one of the Democrats renominated on the fusion ticket in the Democratic column. He has been in public life since 1896. He ran first in last week's bar primary, receiving 2,678 of the 3,065 votes cast.

The candidate is 63 years old. He was born in Ohio, but was reared in Wisconsin. He received his professional degree from Lake Forest university in 1893. Three years later he was elected to the Illinois house of representatives. He was reelected in 1898 and in 1899 was chosen minority leader of this branch of the general assembly. He also served in the assemblies of 1904 and 1906.

His record in the legislature was commended highly by the Legislative Voters' league, largely because of his opposition to the Humphrey bill, the Allen bill and the gas consolidation bill. The phraseology used by the league included the expressions "a man of force and energy" and "one of the most valuable men in the assembly."

He was a member of the Chicago charter convention and was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1908. In 1911 he was elected to the Circuit court and was reelected in 1915. In 1920 he resigned to return to private practice, but in 1923 became a candidate for the Superior court and was elected.

"He is affable, courteous and fair minded," says the Chicago Bar association. "He has demonstrated that he is qualified."

C. F. McKINLEY PRAISED

Charles F. McKinley, a candidate on the Brundage "People's Ticket Against Coalition," has served on the Municipal bench for eleven years.

He is 56 years old, was born at Dubuque, Ia., and received his professional degree at the Kent College of Law in 1895. He was an assistant state's attorney under John J. Healy, was attorney for the Illinois pure food commission from 1908 to 1912, and was a special assistant attorney general under Edward J. Brundage from 1916 to 1918. His first election to the city bench came in the latter year, and he was reelected in 1924.

The Chicago Bar association says his service "has given general satisfaction," and holds that he is qualified for the Superior court. He was one of the "outsiders" that broke the slate of the sitting judges in the bar primary. He landed in thirteenth place in the bar primary, his vote being 2,051, which was more than six of the sitting judges received.

BACK JUDGE McKINLEY

Judge Michael L. McKinley, Democrat, renominated by his party for the Superior court, already has served three terms or eighteen years on that bench. The outstanding years during that time are considered those of 1922 and 1923, when, as chief justice of the Criminal court, he was in control of the special investigation of graft and crime by Attorney General Brundage.

He is 58 years old, was born in Clayton county, Ia., and was graduated from the law department of the University of Iowa in 1895. He was admitted to practice in Illinois and became a member of the firm of Burres & McKinley.

In 1903 he was elected to the Illinois general assembly and served two terms in the lower house, his service there being favorably commented upon by the Legislative Voters' league. In 1907 he was appointed a member of the Chicago city civil service commission and during the next four years had charge of the trial work which included a number of important investigations.

He was elected to the Superior bench in 1911 and was reelected in 1917 and again in 1923. On each occasion he has run well in the primary of the Chicago Bar association which has commended his record.

"Judge McKinley," reads the most recent report of that organization, "has served eighteen years with marked ability and industry. He is well qualified for the office."

Judge McKinley won eleventh place in the bar primary last week. He received 2,228 votes out of a total of 3,065 cast.

Bind Watchman, Cart Away Whole Stock of Store

Three gunmen overpowered and bound Paul Wicherby, a watchman in the Dandy dress shop, 3422 North Cicero avenue, last night and carried away practically the entire stock of the shop in two automobiles which they parked at the door. They left the door open after their departure and Wicherby rolled to the sidewalk, where he was released by a passerby. Wicherby was seized from behind and disarmed when he returned from a trip to the corner to buy a newspaper, he told police.

LAWYER PUNCHES POLO PLAYER IN COURT WRANGLE

Allen Golinkin, wealthy polo player and an official of the Outdoor Lighting Service company, yesterday lost a one punch fight to Attorney Ben Ehrlich during a heated cross-examination on a motion to reduce alimony before Circuit Judge Lynch. In addition to losing the decision Golinkin may face contempt of court proceedings for provoking the assault.

Golinkin, who lives at the Congress hotel, asked the judge to reduce temporary alimony of $100 a week which he has been ordered to pay to his estranged wife, Mrs. Maybelle Golinkin. The motion has been denied by five judges. In contesting the motion Attorney Ehrlich questioned the testimony of Colinkin, who said he is no longer head of the lighting company.

Golinkin, who displayed annoyance during the examination, asked his attorney whether he could be made to tell when he had resigned in answer to a question by Ehrlich. When his attorney answered affirmatively, Golinkin lunged with his 185 pounds of weight at Ehrlich, who is of slight build. The attorney landed his first on Golinkin's face.

Ehrlich apologized, saying he struck in self-defense. The judge indicated that he will hold Golinskin responsible when the hearing is resumed on Nov. 7.

CITY LAUNCHES ITS NEW MENTAL HYGIENE BUREAU

Three Branches Opened; More Planned.

Health Commissioner Kegel yesterday opened the first three branches of his mental hygiene bureau which, as an adjunct of the health department, is to follow the mental and physical characteristics of future Chicagoans from their earliest school days upward.

The psychopathic laboratory of the Municipal court, henceforth under Dr. Kegel's direction, was open in spacious quarters on the tenth floor of the new police building at 11th and State streets. This followed a conference between Dr. Kegel, Chief Justice Olson of the Municipal court; Judge Francis Allegretti of the Boys' court, and Drs. David B. Rotman and Meyer Solomon.

Officials Already Named.

The conference was held in Judge Allegretti's courtroom. Dr. Rotman is to be in charge of the psychopathic laboratory; Dr. Solomon recently was appointed director of the bureau of mental hygiene and head of the laboratory. Dr. Solomon is chief neurologist of the Cook county and other hospitals and a member of the American Pathological society. Dr. Rotman was senior physician for the Chicago State hospital from 1917 to 1923 and a neuro-psychiatric director of the army during the war.

The second and third branches of the new department were clinics in the Kinzie school on the north side and in the Doolittle school on the South side. These are called Clinics 1 and 2, to examine the school children. Dr. Kegel said clinics 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 are to be opened in other schools by Jan. 1. At least a score of such clinics are to be installed.

Chance to Aid Pupils.

"We know that 71 per cent, or 435,000, out of the city's 600,000 school children have correctable defects," he said. "These clinics are the first step in the city's obligation to restore these children to normal, towards directing them to health and into the right way of thinking and playing.

"A second step in the program is the taking care of those cases which find they way into the courts. That is why the health department is taking over the psychopathic laboratory. Heretofore that laboratory dealt entirely with the out and out insane, the criminal or mental deficients. The health department feels it can be more constructive and accomplish more in taking up the border line cases and the cases in which there is no mental deficiency but simply a tendency towards criminality."

THREE MEXICAN CANDIDATES RUN FOR PRESIDENCY

Rubio, with Backing of Leaders, Seems Winner

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 25.—Three political parties have entered candidates for the presidency in the elections which take place on Nov. 17. These are the old political organizations founded by the late Gen. Obregon and continued, under various designations and affiliations and known now as the National Revolutionary party; the National Anti-Reelection party and the Laborers and Peasants party. Pascual Ortix Rubio is the candidate of the first, dos6 Vasconcelos of the second, and Pedro Rodriguez Triana of the third.

All parties subscribe to the so-called revolutionary program which has held in an iron grip all successful political groups since the overthrow of the late Porfirio Diaz in the spring of 1910. They all cater to the masses and stand for the uplifting of the laboring classes, the obliteration of illiteracy which still claims over 70 per cent of the Mexican population; the distribution of lands to the peasants; the building of national highways and the promotion of aviation; the encouragement of foreign capital; the incorporation of 60 per cent of Indians and Mestizos into the Mexican nation and the carrying of culture throughout the land.

Interpret Program Differently.

The three political parties in the race for the presidency differ, however, on the particular features of this program upon which special stress should be laid. The Anti-Reelection party harkens back to the days of the fight on Diaz when Francisco Madero proclaimed the political creed that no president of Mexico could stand for reelection.

The Laborers and Peasant party would turn the whole energies of the government to the promotion of the welfare of the masses. While professing to invite capital to Mexico it has its knife out for bosses and capitalists and has a strong grudge against the "bourgeoisie" or comfortable middle class which does not hang with the Labor party.

Ortiz Rubio as the candidate of the National Revolutionary or Government party apparently has everything his own way. Notwithstanding the fact that labor has a candidate in the field organized labor is lined up behind him, while the labor bolters who left the government party when the government cut loose from the Mexican labor federation are running with Senor Triana on the Labor-Peasant ticket, all composed of bolters who found the government pastures closed to them.

It is taken here as a matter of course that Senor Rubio will have a larger vote than the other two candidates combined at the coming elections, because of the thorough organization of his party. The thousands of government employes will vote for him because he is the candidate of the government party.

Lacks Party Machinery.

Senor Vasconcelos, minister of education under the late President Obregon, who was absent from Mexico over four years, got out of touch with the National political party and he organized one of his own, using as a basis the anti-reelection group. He has covered all Mexico in a long election tour and has many admirers and followers, but he lacks a thoroughly organized party capable of controlling votes. Against him are all the parties and organizations that backed President Obregon and former President Calles and have stood behind President Emilio Portes Gil. He has many followers among the peasant and the middle classes, but all the organized clubs among these are with the government candidate.

With the election of Senor Rubio it is a foregone conclusion that the general policy of the Obregon and Calles administrations will be followed. He will, however, not have the church question to contend with.

The general feeling here is that the closer relations with the United States, the necessity of immense quantities of foreign capital, the rapid extension of ways of communication, national and international, and the growing feeling that the masses cannot be helped without helping the employer of labor and the furnisher of capital, all are factors forcing steadily a more conservative policy of the Mexican government. Senor Rubio, as a diplomat, is familiar with life in progressive countries, and will be inclined to steer the ship of state into much less troublesome waters than it has sailed in for nearly two decades.

DEATH CASE JURY DISCHARGED.

DIES IN HOSPITAL

MRS. IRA C. COPLEY.
[Copyright; Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Mrs. Edith Strohn Copley, wife of Ira C. Copley of Aurora, former congressman and newspaper publisher, died late Thursday night in St. Agnes' hospital, Baltimore, Md. Her death was attributed to an infection following a sinus operation.

The Copleys had gone east to attend the dedication, several days ago, of the Wilmer Ophthalmonic institute. Mr. Copley was one of the contributors to the institute's $4,000,000 foundation. While there Mrs. Copley went to the hospital for neuralgia treatments, and it was found advisable to operate. A sister, Mrs. Eleanor McCauley of Los Angeles, and Mr. Copley were at her bedside when death came.

Mrs. Copley was one of twenty-four American women presented at the court of St. James in England in May, 1923. She is survived by her husband and two adopted children, James, 12 years old, and William, 10. The body is expected to be brought to Aurora for burial next Wednesday.

BANKER ADMITS $100,000 THEFT; GIVES SELF UP

Urbana Man Ready to Pay Penalty, He Says.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 25.—Returning unexpectedly after being missing a week, and surrendering to State's Attorney Roy R. Cline this morning, John H. Thornburn, president of the Urbana Banking company of this place, which closed its doors Monday, confessed he had misappropriated $100,000 of the Urbana school funds and was ready to pay the penalty.

Thornburn left here last week supposedly for Chicago to secure loans for his bank. Directors of the bank met early Monday morning and decided to close the bank and accordingly state bank examiners were placed in charge. The bank, capitalized at $100,000, had deposits of approximately $1,250,000 and a surplus of $100,000.

Wants Early Trial.

In surrendering to State's Attorney Cline, Thornburn asked that he be placed under arrest immediately, charged with embezzlement, and that he be given a speedy trial, as he was ready to go to the penitentiary to serve his sentence, as he would plead guilty. Thornburn was placed under $200,000 bond, but he has requested that friends do not come to his assistance.

Declaring he had no statement to make regarding the manner in which he spent the funds, Thornburn asserted he had no alibis to offer, that he has suffered remorse for what he has done and is willing to pay his debt to society.

Books Examined.

State bank examiners are busily engaged in examing the books of the Urbana banking company and it is probable a statement as to the condition of the institution will be issued by Monday evening. It was reported the bank had frozen assets in excess of $200,000.

Thornburn is 51 years old and has two sons, one of whom graduated from the University of Illinois last year and resides in Chicago.

Bank Ordered Closed.

Thompsonville, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Thompsonville State bank, with capital and surplus listed at $30,000 and deposits at $110,000, was ordered closed today for examination and readjustments. It was said that the board of directors of the institution requested this action be taken. This is the second Franklin county bank to close its doors this week. The Benton State bank was closed Monday.

The bridge will cost $24,000,000.

EUROPE WONDERS WHAT IS AIM OF U. S. AND BRITAIN

Calls Bid to Navy Parley Vague and Unclear.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Further preliminary conversations between Great Britain and the other naval powers, which will begin on the arrival here of Prime Minister MacDonald, who sailed from Quebec tonight, to clear up the differences of viewpoint before holding the London naval conference, appear likely to be beset with serious difficulties.

The terms of the invitation sent out by Great Britain have been examined more carefully and criticism is being voiced in American circles here that the London conference will not be based on the same clear and coherent principles as was the case at Washington in 1921.

Nothing Clear or Definite.

Because nothing seems clear or concrete in the invitation, the conference in January will have difficulty in finding a basis for discussion, according to commentators.

Furthermore, it is now being openly asserted in Europe that the fact that the invitation was addressed to the other powers by Great Britain and not by the United States is implicit recognition that the failure of the Geneva conference two years ago was the fault of the British delegation. This is being asserted in spite of the campaign being waged to show that a vicious American press campaign caused the breakdown.

It is recalled here that after the Geneva breakdown the United States made it known that while it would participate in any further conference in which there were possibilities of success, it would no longer take the initiative.

Europe Questions Motives.

Attention is called to point four in the invitation which says that the United States and Great Britain believe that submarines should be abolished. This marks an American about face, according to diplomatic circles here, who point out that at the Washington conference not only France, Italy and Japan, but also the United States opposed the British proposal to abolish submarines.

In the face of these facts, the question is being asked in Europe, what is the connection between the proposal to reduce armaments and all these changes of front?

Also, there is a growing belief that all recent insistence on a parity between Great Britain and the United States is determined by political, not technical, reasons.

When Prime Minister MacDonald arrives at Liverpool next Friday he is sure to be faced with many searching questions from the Tories and navy leaguers, who are already challenging him for wanting to weaken and cut down the defense forces of the empire, and who are warning the public of this danger.

MacDonald Says Good-by.

QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 25.—(AP)—A promise to return to Canada, seconded by an assurance of welcome from the Dominion's Conservative leader, was made today by Prime Minister MacDonald. The British premier will sail from here on the Duchess of York about midnight tonight.

R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, in a farewell telegram to the premier, expressed the hope that a return visit would not be long deferred.

'LOVER'S ARM' WORTH $22,500, COURT SAYS; RAILROAD MUST PAY

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Frank J. Powers, a former freight conductor who, because of a deformed and shortened right arm, will never be able, his attorney argued, "fittingly to caress a beloved sweetheart," was awarded $22,500 damages from the New York Central railroad today by the appellate division of the Supreme court.

"He is 29. He is unmarried. What price shall be put on a lover's arm?" Powers' attorney, Daniel Mugall, demanded in his argument.

The appellate division reversed Justice Peter Schmuck, who had attempted to reduce the jury verdict to $7,500.

Powers was crushed between two freight cars several years ago.

AUTOIST STRUCK BY BUS AWARDED $15,000 DAMAGES

Motor Cop Hurt While Pursuing Speeder.

A jury in Superior Judge Harry C. Stuttle's court yesterday awarded $15,000 damages to Harry Jacobson, 933 North Hoyne avenue, for a broken leg received last April when his automobile was struck by a Pioneer Stage company motor bus. Medical witnesses said Jacobson might lose his leg.

Three deaths yesterday raised the 1929 Cook county motor toll to 758. The victims:

Gus Lind, 45 years old, 1226 Adams street. Died in the county hospital of injuries received Oct. 3, when he was struck by a hit and run motorist at Washington boulevard and Ashland avenue.

Richard Lyman, 74 years old, 1520 West Sixty-fourth street. Died at the Holy Cross hospital last evening from injuries received Wednesday when he was struck at Ashland avenue and Sixty-fourth street by an automobile driven by Justine Kamawskas, 6601 South Sacramento avenue. The driver was arrested.

Louis Kutzman, 45 years old, Staunton. Fatally injured, late yesterday when he was struck by a hit and run driver on the Joliet road in Lyons. He died in the Berwyn hospital.

Chester Spang, 31 years old, a motorcycle policeman living at 2351 Wilson avenue, suffered a broken leg and a possible skull fracture last night when his motorcycle crashed into a taxicab in front of 3423 North Western avenue, while he was pursuing a speeder. Joseph Bauer, 1952 Hudson avenue, the taxi driver, who turned his cab in the middle of the block ahead of Spang's machine, was held.

When the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a Michigan Central locomotive at the 54th avenue crossing in Cicero John O'Shanna, 24 years old, 1828 Cleveland avenue, was critically injured. He was taken to the County hospital.

John Kernich, 43, of New Chicago, Ind., was caught between two autos as he crossed a street in Gary and died in a Gary hospital as a result of his injuries.

STEEL WORKER KILLED.

Marvin Webb, 41 years old, riveter, 6108 Greenview avenue, was killed yesterday when he fell 150 feet from a building under construction at 18th and Lincoln streets.

REVIVE PLAN TO BUILD 4 PIERS AT RIVER MOUTH

Aldermen to Be Given Figures on Project.

Four years ago a plan to construct four additional piers in the vicinity of Navy pier and to extend to them and to the present pier the bore of the Chicago freight tunnel and surface rail tracks was under discussion by the North Central association, the Chicago plan commission and other improvement agencies.

This project, it was argued, would do much to facilitate the ever increasing bulk of package and carload freight moving into and out of Chicago via Lake Michigan. So far did the project advance that Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, in his "Chicago Harbor Plan," compiled for the Commercial club, in part outlined the detail of the project.

Plan Laid on Shelf.

But under stress of other public projects the plan was laid on the shelf with nothing done toward its accomplishment.

And thus the plan accumulated dust until yesterday, when William C. Calvert, executive secretary of the North Central association, an organization devoted particularly to the development of the near north side, revived it. Mr. Calvert announced that at a conference on Nov. 4 of a subcommittee of the city council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges he would again present the plan for consideration.

Pursuing the idea further, he will at an early meeting of the council traffic committee also outline the detail of the project and argue for its early adoption.

Will Show Figures.

"I'm preparing a chart which will show the gross tonnage brought into the business district by the present arm of the Chicago tunnel, which, in fact, reaches to within a block or two of Navy pier," said Mr. Calvert. "I'm confident these figures, when placed before the aldermen, will be impressive."

Extension of the Chicago and North Western railroad branch now skirting the north bank of the river into the Navy pier and the proposed new pier which will parallel the present structure is included in the plan. Tracks of the Illinois Central will supply a rail freight outlet for the proposed three new units south of the river's mouth.

At present the Chicago Tunnel company is operating without a franchise, its rights under the old grant expiring two months ago. Mr. Calvert stated that it is the desire of the backers of the new project to push along their plans as rapidly as possible so as to be ready for action by the time the present unsettled state of the tunnel affairs is ironed out. Cost estimates for the construction of the new piers and the track and tunnel extensions are also being worked over.

HELD ON BAD CHECK CHARGE.

George Frantocola, 33 years old, 722 South Karlov avenue, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $2,500 by Judge Frederick Elliott in the Fillmore street court yesterday on a charge of forging the name of Steve Urbinac, 768 Van Buren street, to a check for $250.

FARMERS CALL MILK STRIKE ON U. OF ILLINOIS

Give Profs a Lesson in Co-op Marketing.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Dairy farmers, who have for years been told by their college of agriculture professors the ways to entice bossy to give more and better milk, decided here today the time had arrived to hold a little class of their own. And now they invite the dairy staff of the University of Illinois to sit at their feet and absorb some facts about coöperative marketing.

Some 325 farmers who milk cows so that residents of Champaign and Urbana may have their daily quaff, formed an organization to bargain collectively for a price in these two cities the first of this year. They called themselves the Champaign County Milk Producers' association, and incorporated under the Illinois coöperative marketing act.

Win All Milk Dealers.

Having perfected an association, their leaders, representing three-fourths of the market milk supply of the two cities, asked the privilege of bargaining with dealers and other buyers of their foodstuff. Agreeing to perform certain services, such as guaranteeing specified quality and deliveries of members, the dairymen have finally won every milk dealer in Champaign and Urbana.

Then came the final hurdle in their fight for recognition. The dairy department of the University of Illinois, using considerable milk in its creamery for experimental and retail purposes, declined to recognize these ambitious cowmen. That's why a statement was issued by the Champaign county producers today.

"The local farmers' coöperative milk selling organization operating on the Champaign and Urbana markets," said the statement, "is today directing such members as have been delivering milk to the University of Illinois to deliver their milk to dealers who are coöperating with the association and are paying the association contract price."

And now the university is face to face with the same predicament Chicago had last winter, and Kansas City is now having: a milk strike. Thirty dairymen—association members—are affected by the ruling. The established October basic price for market milk which all other buyers are paying is $3.65 per hundredweight, with a bonus of 25 cents per hundred for grade A quality.

Kinley Speaks for University.

"We understand that the main purposes of the association are to fix prices for the various grades of milk and to control its supply and distribution," said President David Kinley of the university tonight. "Not all milk producers in the community are members of the association.

"The university officers have been told that if they do not join the association the organization will cut off the milk supply which, by the way, the university uses for purposes of research and teaching. The effect of the university's joining the association would be to force the milk producers who are not now members of the association to join in order to save their market.

"In other words, membership in the association by the university would be a weapon in the hands of the organization to force nonmembers into the association; and, moreover, the university would become a party to the policy of endeavoring to control the price of milk."

Dr. Kinley said that legal counsel had advised the university that "it cannot lawfully play such a rôle," and so stated to the farmers' representatives.

MOTHER REFUSES TO PROSECUTE GIRL'S FIANCE

Although he was held in the county jail, charged with operating a confidence game, Walter J. Van Alstyne, 28 years old, graduate of the University of Southern California, seemed to be in a less serious predicament last night than yesterday when he was arraigned in Felony court.

Mrs. Albert Jung of Niles Center, who obtained the warrant on which the Chicago police arrested Van Alstyne early in the week at Miami, Fla., declared last evening that she would not prosecute. Her daughter, Ernestine, is engaged to wed Van Alstyne, Mrs. Jung said.

Miss Muriel Limpus, 21 years old, 1020 Lawrence avenue, also complained against Van Alstyne, charging him with abduction. Her brother-in-law, E. H. Henderson, demanded some months ago that he marry the girl and beat him with a pistol butt, Van Alstyne said. The following day Van Alstyne left town.

Henderson also had something to do with persuading Mrs. Jung to procure a warrant against him, the police said.

MITCHELL WARNS BUSINESS MUST OBEY TRUST LAW

Hints Some Are on Verge of Price Fixing.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Determination to deal "vigorously with every violation of the anti-trust laws" was expressed tonight by Attorney General Mitchell in his first public utterance upon the department of justice's attitude toward these laws since taking office.

Speaking before the American Bar association, Mr. Mitchell said "our material prosperity has been so overwhelming, our business institutions have been so increasing in size and number that I fear there has been a disposition here and there to go too far and transgress the law."

The attorney general added that "the machinery of some trade associations seems to have been made use of for transactions that come dangerously near to price fixing."

Two Major Problems.

Turning to what he described as the department's other two major problems—prison conditions improvement and enforcement of the prohibition laws—he said an extensive program to improve prisons had been formulated and awaited congressional approval. He said efforts are being made to strengthen the dry laws while awaiting the report of President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

Activities in this connection, he pointed out, were based on improvement of the personnel and efficiency of the United States attorneys to obtain prosecutors "who may be depended upon to administer their offices free from extraneous influence, political or otherwise; speeding up the operations of federal courts trying liquor cases, and transfer of the prohibition unit from the treasury department to the department of justice, which must be approved by congress.

Mr. Mitchell indicated that selection of a successor to Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, who resigned as assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition and tax matters, had been made and that an announcement soon would be forthcoming.

Make No Exceptions.

Despite much pressure, the attorney general said he had avoided until now discussion of the policies to be followed by the department in regard to the anti-trust laws, pending a study. "The department's program of law enforcement does not make any exceptions of the anti-trust laws," he continued.

Pointing out that these laws are founded on the proposition that "avenues of industrial opportunity must be kept open as far as possible to the initiative of the individual citizen," he declared the alternative is bureaucratic regulation, and "until the political philosophy underlying the present anti-trust laws has been abandoned by congress it will be the duty of the attorney general to enforce these laws, and we shall undertake to do this without prejudice and with fairness, but with firmness."

Then he called attention to the practice of the department in the last administration to consider proposed mergers or other business transactions presented to it by those interested, and to indicate in a limited way its views of the legality of the proposals.

Attitude Misconstrued.

Asserting that the letters in reply to such cases were carefully guarded in their terms, he said the attitude of the department "has often been misrepresented and misconstrued."

In announcing that passing upon the legality of business deals in advance would be discontinued, except in rare instances, he said: "We have found as a result of such experience that such proposals often have some practical elements that are not fully developed when the proposals are submitted and that the plans as carried out have not operated just as was contemplated, and the transactions as outlined to the department in advance, seemingly innocuous, have in practice worked in apparent violation of the anti-trust laws."

DEAD ENGINEER AT THROTTLE IN TRAIN COLLISION

Elkton, Md., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Running with a dead engineer's hand on the engine throttle, ten Pullman cars of a Washington-New York express of the Pennsylvania railroad jumped the track after the locomotive had sideswiped a buckled freight car this afternoon, severely shaking up scores of passengers.

The engineer of the express, George Rollins, of Washington, was killed. The locomotive, running free with the dead man's hand on the throttle, left the tracks and dragged the Pullman cars after it.

None of the passengers was seriously hurt, the injuries being confined to severe shaking up as the Pullmans left the tracks but did not turn over.

17 DISTILLERIES SEEK AUTHORITY TO MAKE LIQUOR

Permission Requested Subject to Law.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Certificates of incorporation for 17 distilling firms for making whisky and gin, "in so far as now or hereafter may be permitted by law," were filed today in the office of the state tax commission.

A dozen distilleries were revived and five new ones created by the action. In each case James P. Whelan, J. Reedy Brown, and Harry R. Heimerdinger, all of Louisville, Ky., were named as incorporators and each was authorized to issue ten shares of common stock with no par value.

Agent Ill in Hospital.

The charter would authorize the seventeen companies to deal in warehouse certificates for liquors. Sol Winer, vice president of the American Medicinal Spirits company, was named resident agent and the offices of that company here given as the principal offices of the new corporation. Mr. Winer was sick in a hospital and it was impossible to learn the significance of the move for incorporation.

Men with Spirits Company.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The men named as incorporators of seventeen distillery companies in Baltimore are connected with the American Medicinal Spirits company, which recently received permits to make whisky here and at Owensboro, Ky.

It was said at the offices of the company today that the companies in Baltimore were organized some time ago with the idea that whisky might be made there, but that this project has been abandoned so far as the near future is concerned.

Amherst Dedicates Chem. Building, Chicagoans' Gift

Moore, '71, of Chicago, was dedicated here today. An endowment of $250,000 was also given by the Moores. The presentation was made by Mrs. Moore and speeches of acceptance were made by George A. Plimpton and Prof. Edward W. Doughty. A portrait of Mr. Moore, presented to the college by Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, was unveiled.

THREE CITY HALL OFFICIALS ASKED TO AID JOB QUIZ

Russell, Goodrich, Ames Called to Conference.

Three city hall officials—Police Commissioner Russell, Fire Commissioner Goodrich, and President Ames of the civil service commission — yesterday were summoned to attend a conference in the state's attorney's office at 11 o'clock this morning. They are to be asked to coöperate in the investigation of the civil service commission being conducted by Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin.

Bishop Archibald Carey, one of the civil service commissioners, is under indictment on charges of collecting money for the sale of civil service jobs and promising promotions for a financial consideration.

Lavin Declines to Talk.

Prosecutor Lavin refused to give any definite reason as to why he was calling the officials to the conference.

It is known, however, that in his investigation Mr. Lavin has received information about how several persons have received their appointments or promotions through the civil service commission. He wants the officials, it is said, to assist him in running down these rumors. Mr. Ames recently succeeded Thomas J. Houston as head of the commission.

The information received by the prosecuter, it is reported, deals mostly with the police and fire departments. Several rumors of jackpots to promote a group of policemen or firemen from one grade to another have been reported to Mr. Lavin. He would not give out any definite information, however, until he has investigated.

Officials Pledge Coöperation.

All three department heads expressed their willingness to coöperate with the state's attorney's office in the investigation.

"I'll be glad to help in any way I can," said President Ames. "I have been working diligently to hold examinations for every position under the civil service and I don't know of any manipulations in the rolls to aid candidates."

Commissioners Russell and Goodrich said they have no evidence that promotions in their departments had been obtained after paying money. If any have been made by that proceedure, they said, they would like to have the facts uncovered.

The indictments voted against Bishop Carey on Thursday will not be returned by the grand jury until next week. Several of his friends appeared at the Criminal court yesterday to post bond for him, but inasmuch as the indictments had not been returned in court, they could be of no help to the colored church leader.

GUARD DOODY TO KEEP HIM FROM SUICIDE

Willie Doody, the diminutive gunman who was given the death penalty by a jury in Judge Otto Kerner's Criminal court late Thursday night, was under heavy guard in the county jail yesterday for fear that he might carry out his suicide threat. Warden David Moneypenny of the jail placed a special guard to watch over the gunman until such time as he accustoms himself to being a doomed man.

Doody seemed morose yesterday and refused to discuss his impending electrocution with his cellmates or with newspaper representatives. He spent most of the day by himself in his cell.

Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Walker Butler said they would keep all of the state's witnesses under guard so that none of Doody's friends could get revenge against them for helping out the state to show that Doody shot and killed Chief of Police Charles Levy of Berwyn on May 25. He was attempting to escape after being caught with a stolen automobile when he killed the chief.

Sheridan Road Open Again Around Calvary Cemetery

BY HAL FOUST.

Sheridan road was opened yesterday afternoon around Calvary cemetery, at the Evanston-Chicago city limits, after having been closed since Tuesday's storm washed away much of the right of way. The present roadway is a makeshift arrangement, however, with two narrow traffic lanes. Mayor Bartlett of Evanston hopes that the state will build a wide boulevard around the cemetery with revenue from the gasoline tax.

With only a few weeks more before the road building season will be ended by cold weather, the main highways of Cook county still have many detours. Some of these detours will probably remain during the winter while others will be removed by the completion of construction jobs.

A summary of road conditions this week-end follows:

GLENVIEW ROAD—In poor condition between Hibbard road and Green Point road. Traffic is advised to use Lake avenue.

DEMPSTER STREET and CHURCH STREET—Closed at the sanitary district canal. Traffic is directed south in McCormick boulevard to Main street, east in Main street and then north over a village street to Dempster street and Church street.

LAWRENCE AVENUE — Closed between River road and Mannheim road. Traffic is directed north over village streets.

NORTH AVENUE—Closed between Mannheim road and Thatcher avenue. This section of road will be open to traffic on or about Nov. 2.

MILWAUKEE AVENUE—Closed between Palatine and Dundee roads. Traffic is directed east in Palatine road to Sanders road, north on Sanders road to Dundee road, then west in Dundee road to Milwaukee avenue.

SANDERS ROAD—Closed between Winkelman road and Milwaukee avenue. Traffic is directed north in Milwaukee avenue to Winkelman road, and east in Winkelman road to Sanders road.

WASHINGTON STREET—Closed to traffic between Thatcher avenue and Forest avenue. Traffic is directed north over village streets.

HARLEM AVENUE—Closed between North avenue and Grand avenue and in poor condition between Grand avenue and Diversey avenue. A choice of detours is: East in Diversey, south in Sayre avenue and west in North avenue to Harlem avenue; or, east in Grand avenue, south in Neba avenue, and west in North avenue to Harlem.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—Society and political circles were somewhat startled today to learn of the divorce of Michel G. Clemenceau, grandson of "the Tiger," whose marriage to Mlle. Ida de Clynsen seven years ago was one of the social events of the season, his best man being the late Marshal Foch. The divorce was granted M. Clemenceau on the grounds of abandonment.

SENATE LOWERS MORE RATES IN TARIFF BATTLE

Democrats and Radicals Continue Attack.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Downward revision of tariff rates was continued today in the senate under the prodding of the radicals and Democrats. Finance committee recommendations were twice rejected on roll calls.

The senate, by a vote of 39 to 46, defeated a committee amendment fixing the duty on sheets of cellulose acetate, used in the manufacture of unbreakable glass for automobile wind shields, at 50 cents per pound, instead of 45 cents, as in the house bill. The duty in the present law is 40 cents, and by a vote of 25 to 44 the senate rejected a committee amendment adding a specific duty of 15 cents per pound to an ad valorem rate of 25 per cent on agar-agar.

Walsh Joins Republicans.

In the debate over the duty on cellulose acetate sheets, Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] joined Republican leaders in defense of the higher rate, but he could not obtain sufficient Democratic support for approval of the committee amendment. It was asserted that German costs are much lower than those of the American industry, which has only recently been developed, and that the Japanese are entering the field.

The rejection of the higher duty on agar-agar was a defeat for Senator Samuel Shortridge [Rep., Cal.], who had induced the finance committee to boost the rate as a means of developing an industry in California in the face of Japanese competition. Senators James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] and Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.], asserted there was no justification for the increase.

The duty on ink was cut from 20 per cent to 10 per cent on the motion of Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.]. The finance committee had recommended a reduction to 15 per cent.

Raise Hexamethylenetetramine.

Committee amendments reducing the duty on iodine from 20 to 10 cents per pound and on licorice from 25 to 20 per cent were approved.

In spite of protests from Senator La Follette, the senate approved a committee amendment increasing the duty on hexamethylenetetramine from 25 per cent ad valorem to 11 cents per pound. Senator Harrison mixed a little fun into the debate by asking Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the finance committee, what was under consideration. Senator Smoot proved able to pronounce the word but the reading clerk was not so successful when Senator Harrison insisted that the amendment be read.

The controversy over duties on vegetable oils is expected to come to a head tomorrow.

NIGHT AIR MAIL SAVES MISSOURI TOWN FROM FIRE

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Robert W. Radoll, a night mail pilot of the National Airport Transport, Inc., was the airplane pilot who saved the town of Unionville, Mo., from destruction by fire Tuesday night.

Dispatches from Unionville told of an "unknown pilot" who, by opening his motor and zooming over the village, warned the inhabitants that one of the town's largest buildings was on fire.

Radoll was flying high above Unionville on his way from Kansas City to Chicago when he saw a spurt of flame from the ground. He dived his plane to a dangerously low level above the housetops and opened up his 400 horsepower motor. The roar of the motor awakened the sleeping inhabitants, who were guided to the burning building by the landing lights of Radoll's plane.

DENY FAULTY CONSTRUCTION AT RUGGLES SCHOOL

Reports of the faulty condition of the Martha Ruggles school, 7831 Prairie avenue, were characterized as only a scare last night by Martin E. Hurney, the principal. Mr. Hurney explained that workmen have recently torn off from two ends of the building some temporary cemented tile for replacement with face brick. When the school building was erected four years ago the two ends were sealed by temporary tile walls because new wing additions were then contemplated. School children have never been endangered, according to Mr. Hurney, who said that yesterday a delegation of 79th street business men pronounced the building safe.

Aviation Notes

Plans for a transoceanic air line from Chicago to London following the arctic route were announced yesterday by Warren Scholl, promoter, who has been in Chicago for several months endeavoring to secure financial backing for the project. Scholl said a Canadian, British, and American corporation with a large capital has been formed to finance his plan, but Chicago aviation leaders believed the project to be a dream.

Two German pilots yesterday flew about for two hours over the Tempelhofer airport in two completely tailless planes, according to a dispatch from Berlin. The planes, which are designed to reduce wind resistance by eliminating the tail, attained a speed of 75 miles an hour with a ten horsepower motor. The two seater ships each weigh only 480 pounds and are controlled by rudder planes attached to the wing tips. These also act as brakes. The propeller is placed behind the fuselage. The planes were designed by two constructors named Soltenhoff and Lippisch and flown by Pilots Espenlaub and Groenhoff.

The Chinese Nationalist government yesterday placed a rush order for 12 Vought-Corsair military planes for possible use in the civil war it is waging against the rebellious people's army, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Shanghai.

A dispatch from Guatemala City yesterday stated that a Savoia-Marchetti flying boat owned by the American Aeronautical corporation had been forced down near Tonala, Mexico, after its fuel supply ra nout. Pilot Dorrell of the Pickwick Airways sighted the plane, landed, and assisted the crew in saving the distressed ship, which was drifting toward the shore. Pilots Atwater and Sarey, the crew, were without provisions, but unhurt. A plane with gasoline and food was sent to their rescue.

Stout Air lines announced yesterday that an "air local" for passengers would be inaugurated Nov. 1, serving Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, and South Bend on the air line from Chicago to Detroit. The local service will be maintained daily except Sunday.

SPEED REGULAR ZEPPELIN TRIPS OVER 2 OCEANS

U. S., German Interests Linked for Project.

Akron, O., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The flying of giant dirigibles like the Graf Zeppelin with passengers, mail, and freight on regular routes over two great oceans within a few years has been brought nearer to possibility by developments of the last few days, it was indicated here today.

Developments are in accord with predictions Dr. Hugo Eckener, head of the German Zeppelin corporation, made recently at Akron in conference with officials of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation and New York banking representatives. The commander of the giant Graf said a Zeppelin transport system girdling the earth was planned, with the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation the nucleus. Airships, airplanes, steamships, and railroads would be coördinated.

Transport Company.

The first definite step to fulfill this prediction came a few days ago. The International Zeppelin Transport company and the Pacific-Zeppelin Transport company were incorporated in Delaware.

The former, according to Goodyear officials, represents a union of the German and American Zeppelin interests, with plans for building two 6,500,000 cubic foot Zeppelins at Akron and two more at Fredrichshafen, Germany, and suitable operating docks on both sides of the Atlantic. Regular schedules would be set up.

Plans of the Pacific company call for the construction of Zeppelin airships here and building of hangars in California and Hawaii, and later in the Philippines or Japan. A California-Hawaii service would be followed by completed trans-Pacific routes, coöperating with steamships. Mail contracts for both companies are sought.

Huge Dornier Planes.

In addition to the ocean route revelations was the recent announcement that the General Motors corporation had been given the right to make in this country motors for the huge Dornier planes. The Zeppelin-Dornier metal monoplane patents are controlled by the Luftschiffbau-Zeppelin, parent company, of the German Zeppelin company.

The announcement appears to line up Goodyear and German Zeppelins with General Motors in carrying out Dr. Eckener's projects.

MOST FATAL AIR CRASHES IN NAVY LAID TO PILOTS

Tailspin Responsible for 50% of Deaths.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Pilots are responsible for most of the accidents in naval aviation, the bureau of aeronautics announced today following a survey of all navy aircraft crashes during the last eight years. Engine failures prove the next most fertile source of accidents while structural defects runs a close third.

According to the survey, the pilot of the airplane is responsible for three-fourths of all fatal accidents. Almost one-half of the fatal accidents which occur, the bureau report stated, come as a result of the "dreaded tail spin." During the whole eight years only one fatal accident was traceable solely to engine failure.

Tail Spin Proof.

The safety of naval aviation has improved five fold during the last eight years, the navy report stated, adding that fatal accidents in commercial aviation would be tremendously reduced if aircraft other than for military use was designed so that it could not go into a tail spin.

The statistics on causes of accidents showed that 52 per cent were traceable to errors of pilots, 18 per cent to engine failures, 13 per cent to structural failures, 9 per cent to condition of airports, 2 per cent to weather, 2 per cent to supervising personnel and 4 per cent to miscellaneous causes. The detailed causes of errors by pilots were listed as faulty flying technique 63 per cent, faulty judgment 19 per cent, carelessness 14 per cent and violation of safety regulations 4 per cent.

Responsibility for Crash.

"This study of all accidents occurring in naval aviation," the navy department said, "incontrovertibly shows that the predominant responsibility for crashes rests on the pilot. This indicates two things: First, that manufacturers must continue to incorporate new elements of safety in their products in order further to reduce the demands made upon the necessarily fallible human elements; second, it shows how necessary it is that pilots be selected only from the very best material, and that they be given the most careful and thorough training.

"Naval statistics show that the most dangerous period for the flyer is at about his 200 hour mark. It is at this time that he starts his involved maneuvers; he is flushed with overconfidence which far outweighs his experience, and the result is often fatal."

YOUNG DECLARES U. S. LEADS ALL NATIONS IN COMMERCIAL AVIATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—America now has everything in commercial aeronautics that Europe has and a great deal more, Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aviation, declared today at the closing session of the municipal airport conference sponsored by the American Road Builders' association.

Mr. Young has just returned from a tour of Europe. Despite the steady growth of air commerce in Great Britain, France, and Germany, he said, the United States is far in the lead.

"Already American airplanes are flying more than 80,000 miles a day," he asserted. "We have more than 35,000 miles of airways, 466 private and commercial airports, and 456 municipal airports, with 1,269 ports under construction, a number which far exceeds the total in all of Europe.

"Europe's development has been aided by huge government subsidies, whereas America's has been due wholly to civil initiative. Our airways can be adapted readily to the transportation of mail, express, or passengers. We have, in fact, everything that Europe has and a great deal more, including all the knowledge, ability, experience, and money necessary to improve and develop air transportation indefinitely."

T. J. Wassen, past president of the American Road Builders' association, urged the adoption of uniform state laws on aviation as coded by the department of commerce, with municipal governments exercising only police powers.

Maj. Malcolm Elliott, chief of the Alaskan roads commission, predicted Alaska as the gateway for future traffic to Asia. He said Fairbanks, Nome, and other cities are wide awake to the opportunity. Seventy-four leading fields have been equipped within the last two or three years.

Three hundred city air officials and road builders attended the two day conference. Among the Illinois delegates were George S. Bartlett and B. S. Pease of Chicago.

Acquitted Pair Arrested Again, Held as Robbers

George Carsen, 1315 North Clark street, and James O'Brien, 3118 West Monroe street, arrested Thursday at the Criminal Courts building after being acquitted of burglary charges, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $20,000 each yesterday following their arraignment in Felony court upon robbery charges. Mrs. Florence Shaver, 1400 Lake Shore drive, and Clyde Tennis, Detroit real estate dealer, are reported to have identified the acquitted pair as the men who held them up in Mrs. Shaver's apartment several weeks ago, fleeing with $10,000 in jewelry.

TANKS PAUSE IN CORK TO LISTEN TO POETIC BELLS

Visitors Recall Verse Heard Around World.

This is the seventh of a series of articles on the Irish Free State by James O'Donnell Bennett, who recently returned from a visit of several weeks in the new Ireland.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CORK, Ireland. — "'Tis the poetry draws them — naught else," an old Corkonian exclaimed when I told him that in three days persons from fifteen widely separated American cities had signed the visitors' book in the tower of Protestant St. Ann's church, which lords it over the capital of Munster.

Speak of "St. Ann's church" and the words would bring no special association to anybody outside Munster. But say "bells of Shandon" and thousands of children and grownups in remote parts of the world will smile and respond with "That sound so grand on

The pleasant waters
Of the river Lee."

About 94 years ago, Francis Mahony, a young Irish priest, who wrote under the name "Father Prout," contributed to Fraser's magazine 64 short lines of swinging verse, which he called "The Shandon Bells." They went swinging around the world and were much sung in Victorian drawing rooms in a languishing, ultra sentimental manner, which, as you shall see, was not at all the manner in which their author wished them to be sung.

Called It "Immortal Doggerel."

The Irish historian, Stephen Gwynn, recently spoke of those four sixteen line stanzas as "Father Prout's immortal doggerel on the bells of Shandon."

"Immortal," though an extensive word, may be accepted in this connection, but the word "doggerel" the world has flatly refused to accept. It takes something more than doggerel to make hurried travelers pause on their way to the continent to climb the hills of Cork, and listen like children to the bells that stirred a minor poet's fancy.

Run the entries in the book for three recent consecutive days. These American cities are written opposite the names of pilgrims, who came singly and in parties to St. Ann's: Toledo, O.; Hamilton, Ont.; Quincy, Ill.; Chicago [several times]; Lowville, N. Y.; Pamona, Cal.; Norwalk, Conn.; Brooklyn and Buffalo, N. Y.

So much for doggerel.

A Childhood Appeal.

Francis Mahony knew how to do what he wished to do. He based the appeal of his plangent stanzas on one of childhood's tenderest memories, whether childhood lifts its eyes to Christian spires or Moslem minarets.

"After all," he said, "there is nothing like the associations, which early infancy attaches to the well known and long remembered chimes of our own parish steeple; and no magic can equal the effect on our ear when returning after long absence in foreign and perhaps happier countries."

Then comes the resounding prelude:

"With deep affection
And recollection
I often think of
Those Shandon bells,
Whose sound so wild would,
In the days of childhood,
Fling round my cradle
Their magic spells.
On this I ponder
Where'er I wander,
And thus grow fonder,
Sweet Cork, of thee."

Resumingly—not languishingly, as the celebrated Morgan D'Arcy used to sing it in London drawing rooms—did Father Mahoney wish his ballad sung.

Asks Musical Roar.

"I never care," he said, "to hear a song in a puling or piperly tone. I want to produce a musical roar, a storm of bells, a furnace of campanology, something that would imitate 'an thousand brazen tongues.' Sing the song not as a ditty, but a dithyramb. Stand up to your work and throw your whole voice and heart and soul into it; or, if you will sit, let it not be on a pianforte stool—sit on a classic tripod and kick out!"

Does the poet-priest sang "Shandon Bells" that way when Thackeray was standing by. The novelist was not pleased.

"'Tis a pity," he said, "that the law against parricides cannot be enforced in this instance."

By "Shandon Bells" alone is Mahony generally remembered, although the most volume in which he assembled his essays, drolleries, and poems, under the title "The Reliques of Father Prout," contains much matter at once engaging and scholarly. Cork, where he was born in 1804, never valued him at his true worth, and a proposal to build a memorial to him brought only eight or nine pounds. The Cork of today would be more enthusiastic about building a monument to Henry Ford, whose huge tractor factory on the banks of the Lee employs 4,000 men at an average wage of $25 a week and proves to the Corkonians that the old assertion, "Ireland is and must be mainly an agricultural country," is now outdated.

Mahoney Quickly Forgotten.

"He is not much thought of now," said an attendant at the National library in Dublin when I asked for books by and about Mahoney.

Such meager biographies as were brought to me disclosed him as that tragic figure—a man who missed his vocation. Descended from the O'Mahoneys of Dromore castle, in County Kerry, he was educated by the Jesuits at Amiens and Rome and was ordained in 1832. But, although never scandalous, he was too whimsical, gay, and delectable for the single minded devotees of the Society of Jesus. They admonished in vain, and in two years their merry poet, who loved to amuse himself by turning English ballads into Greek, Latin, and French, ceased to exercise his clerical functions. In 1834 he joined the great English, French, and Irish group, comprising Thackeray, Carlyle, Maginn, Southey, Lockhart, Count D'Orsay, Barry Cornwall, and Ainsworth, who made Fraser's notable.

Some call Mahoney "the Christopher North of Ireland," which does not please the Irish. He called himself "an Irish potato seasoned with Attic salt." To Americans of today he will seem as deft as Eugene Field—and as melodious. He died in Paris in 1866 at the age of 62—irascible, amusing, and thoroughly Proutish to the end. His family still flourishes in Cork. He was the son of a woolen manufacturer, and in that business his kin are still engaged.

Although Francis Sylvester Mahony lacks a formal memorial, the Spanish looking tower of St. Ann's—which came to be called Shandon church because it was built on the ruins of old Shandon castle—is by way of being his monument. For he is buried in his family's vault at the foot of the tower and just to the right of it as you face it. The grass grows kindly around the boxlike tomb.

SENATOR BURTON IS GRAVELY ILL IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Theodore Burton, senator from Ohio and a veteran in national Republican politics, is critically ill at his residence here, and friendly are alarmed over his condition.

The senator suffered a relapse last night. For a month he has been convalescing from an attack of grippe.

One of the first to indorse the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for the presidency, Burton is one of those close to the chief executive. Several times President Hoover has called upon the senator during his illness.

Elected to the senate in 1908, Burton retired at the end of his six year term. Before that time and afterward he served in the house. Last November he was elected to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio.

Senator Burton has been identified closely with international affairs. He was a member of the debt funding commission which arranged settlements of the world war debts, and a member of the executive committee of the Interparliamentary union.

2 FERRARI AIDS SWEAR WARDER GOT BIG SUMS

New York, Oct. 25.—[Special.]—The story of $73,000 in cash carried to Frank H. Warder, former state superintendent of banks, from Francesco M. Ferrari, late president of the looted City Trust company, was recited today by Genaro Dell'Osso, brother-in-law of the Italian banker whose gifts the former official, now on trial for bribery, is alleged to have received.

After Dell'Osso left the stand, J. Vincent Labata, another Ferrari associate, told of taking $20,000 in cash and two sealed envelopes to Mrs. Warder at the Warders' Riverside drive apartment.

The story of the alleged gifts was presented by the state to show the general relationship between Warder and Ferrari, in support of the charge that Warder took $10,000 to withhold the departmental examination of Ferrari's bank, the sole allegation on which he is now being tried.

The trial is proceeding before Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins and a jury in the Criminal Courts building.

GENERAL MOTORS GETS DORNIER RIGHTS IN U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 25. — The Dornier works announced today that an agreement has been signed with General Motors for the formation of the Dornier Corporation of America. The new firm will acquire all the Dornier patents in America and also the right of exploitation of the Dornier giant flying ship DOX for passenger and freight traffic. Dr. Claude Dornier will visit America at the end of next month.

The German press sorrowfully comments on the fact that not only the Zeppelin but the Dornier works is now largely passing to American financial control.

The increasing Americanization of German enterprises is said to mean that production is becoming the leading issue in German politics. The Nationalists, who first raised the cry, are now joined by the Communists at the opposite political pole.

FREED BY ITALY IF FOUND TO BE BONA FIDE AMERICANS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Although no general protest has been registered with the Italian government against the practice of forcing American naturalized Italians to serve in the Italian army, state department officials said today that each year about seventy-five cases of this nature were brought to the attention of the Mussolini government. In all cases, officials said, where bona fide American citizens of Italian origin had been impressed for service, they were released at this government's request.

The United States has taken steps toward the negotiation of a treaty with Italy which would provide for Italian recognition of the American citizenship of Italians who have taken out final naturalization papers. State department officials are hopeful such a treaty can be arranged within the near future.

Cabell's Latest Book Lacking Former Vigor

Last Creative Writing, Its Author Says.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Way of Ecben," by James Branch Cabell. [McBride.]

"The Way of Ecben" is to be the last of the Biography (as Mr. Cabell calls it) of Dom Manuel and his children and his children's children and their children unto the nth generation. In all of the romances which Mr. Cabell ever has written it has pleased him to give all of his characters the blood of their forefathers in strict genealogical charting.

Mr. Cabell's theory is that a writer "has reached his peak at . . . forty; and with favoring luck, with all that he has learned of technique to counterbalance a perhaps lessened exuberance in creative power, he may retain that peak for some years.

"The trouble is that he does not retain it indefinitely; the trouble is that in no great while the creative power is quite surely lessened, and the technique does but play futilely with the picked bones of defunct talents. The trouble is, in brief, that even for the most prodigally gifted of creative writers the way lies, by and by, downhill forever. It has been the fate of too many of our more captivating prosateurs to outlive their powers (which was a venial and often an unavoidable happening) and to outlive the desire to write, and yet, whether out of sheer habit or out of man's normal need for an income, to go on writing—which was, in all respects, a calamity."

After a discussion of the great men of the past who have thus outlived their days of bloom and a discussion of the present generation in American literature (about which he says that "it is a generation of which the present day survivors appear, to my finding, a bit ludicrously to go on fighting battles that were won long ago") he makes the unqualified statement: "I determined, therefore, some ten years ago, to finish the Biography before I had passed fifty, if it were granted me to live that long, and afterward to add no line to, and to change in nothing, the Biography. The biography of the life of Manuel seems now, to my partial gaze, a completed performance. . . . The date which I had set for the winding up of the biography's affairs turns out to be, after all, a rather well chosen date, now that I come to finish, in 'The Way of Ecben,' the last of all the many stories about the inheritors of Dom Manuel's life."

The volume called "The Way of Ecben" is a short tale, written after the fashion of the others of Cabell, plus a philosophical and critical explanation of why the author is giving up creative writing. It is really two books, living under the same roof, occupying the position of two adult generations trying to live together in harmony and comfort, and succeeding just as brilliantly as is usually the lot of such a ménage. Neither is happy.

The tale is told in the fashion of the old Cabell, but without his dash, his charm, his beauty of phrase, rhythm, and concept. It is even told without his piquancy. It is almost as if Mr. Cabell had said: "I will give an example of this downhill tendency of an author. I will write a tale which will have the semblance of beauty and be as hollow as a soda straw. I will prove my excellently taken point."

On the other hand, the last half of the book has none of the brilliance of "Straws and Prayer Books," which stated so beautifully the artist's thesis. It is almost as if the author had said: "I must do my leavetaking in a formal fashion, but there is that final little tale that must be written, that annoyed me to write, that I have done with malice toward it in my heart. But it is kin to my biography, and I must give it the honor of its kind."

When one thinks of the heroic fashion in which Mr. Cabell might have rounded out the biography, with what ecstasy he has written in the past, and with what flatness "The Way of Ecben" is made; when one remembers portions of "Straws and Prayer Books" and compares to that the dullness of the latter half of this latest volume, a sole wish cries out that Mr. Cabell had left alike his leavetaking and the rounding out of the biography to the mysteries of silence.

'Let Us Then Cultivate Our Gardens,' Said Candide

The Rockwell Kent "Candide," which was published in 1928 by Random House, was declared by many to be the most beautiful book ever published in America.

It came out in an edition of 1,400 copies, every copy of which was sold in a single day, and this year the book sold at auction for three or four times its original price of twenty dollars.

In the meantime, Boston's banning of "Candide" [another edition of Voltaire's masterpiece without illustrations] has brought the old masterpiece into the public eye.

The latest publishing news is that Random House is bringing out a five dollar edition of "Candide" with every one of the original Rockwell Kent illustrations and that it is to be the December selection of the Literary Guild.

Unlike Donn Byrne.

"Ireland, the Rock Whence I Was Hewn," by Donn Byrne [Little Brown], is a strange book, published, obviously, after Mr. Byrne's death. I say obviously, because there seems little reason that it ever should have been published at all. If he had been alive it surely would not have been. It is a collection of short pieces about Ireland, not one of them written with any—or much—of Donn Byrne's especially colorful style. It gives a picture of Ireland about as thrilling as a travel folder, and about as literary.

Recent Novel by Swinnerton Proves Subtle

It's Tragedy of Ordinary Tradesman's Wife.

"Sketch of a Sinner," by Frank Swinnerton. [Doubleday-Doran.]

Mr. Swinnerton's admirers always are asking for another "Nocturne" from him. Usually they are disappointed. This time, so it seems to this reviewer, Mr. Swinnerton has given them something very nearly approaching that little masterpiece. He has done that same trick of photographing reality ever so slightly out of focus through the lens of romance, softening the harsh lines, toning down the sharp planes, and achieving a poignancy which has nothing of bitterness in it, although tragedy of soul and fact walk through it.

The scene of "Sketch of a Sinner" is that of all of Mr. Swinnerton's novels—lower middle class English life. The heroine—the "sinner," as Mr. Swinnerton ironically calls her—has no talents, no real beauty (although she has the immeasurable charm of honesty and unspoiledness) and she is married to a man twenty years and more her senior whose life is not really a successful antique shop. The way that Mr. Swinnerton pictures the seepage of dust and age through the life of Sebastian, the husband and, slowly, but terribly, into the life of the heroine is done with great art.

That the time would come when youth would revolt against such encroachments was inevitable, and again Mr. Swinnerton shows rare skill in picturing that involuntary revolt. Passionate love, an inconceivable idea to the heroine, was prepared for by a maternal love outside her marriage, and again Mr. Swinnerton's art makes inevitable a situation which is too much like life itself to seem (without great art) inevitable. Life is much more ironic, much more incredible than fiction ever could make it.

The deep tragedy of the heroine's final return to a motherlike devotion to a man whom death is hovering over, after death has taken from her everything else, is, to the reader, endurable tragedy, for Mr. Swinnerton has made that, too, inevitable.

It is difficult to make understandable to some one who has not read the book, the subtlety with which Mr. Swinnerton pictures the mind of his heroine, for it is not the usual psychological, omniscient method which he uses. He is as reticent about probing into his heroine's mind as, you feel, she would be about having it probed into. Her mind is a very active, very busy one (although not an especially subtle one), and she is a very frank person. But she has a definite reserve, and the author respects that reserve. However, he does succeed in making her every action entirely intelligible and her thoughts shared.

Some may find "Sketch of a Sinner" disappointing—if they take the title too literally, if they expect a frail heroine. But they will miss an insidious mystery—in one of the characters—who has the quality of the mystery of "The Arrow of Gold" about him. And above all they will miss an excellent piece of novel writing, one of the best pieces of work of the year.

Machiavelli's Letters Tell About Red Hot Politics

"The Private Correspondence" of Nicolo Machiavelli" by Orestes Ferrara, LL.D., is a critical discussion of Machiavelli's letters and those written to him by his friends. Dr. Ferrara, who recently published in Spanish and in French a new biography of Machiavelli, now has written directly into English a less formal volume, in which he says the letters not only show Machiavelli as a human being, but give an excellent picture of the family life of the Renaissance. Machiavelli dealt in his letters with the most important political questions and with unimportant private matters in precisely the same manner—the manner of his "The Prince." Dr. Ferrara is Cuban ambassador to the United States.

THE WHITE COAT

General P. N. Krassnoff
Introduction by Henry Irving Brock

The Famous author of "From Double Eagle to Red Flag" and "The Unforgiven" now completes his overwhelming epic. "The White Coat" is the story of counter-revolution; of a desperate people determined to rid themselves of the red drug of Bolshevism. From despair, desperation—through the horrible "Black Mass" episode—to the triumphal ending, this is Krassnoff at his vivid best.

"It will probably be burned in Moscow, but the world will accept it for a boldly outspoken, sincere and colorful work of the first rank. A fitting companionpiece to his great epic, "From Double Eagle to Red Flag" . . . deeply emotional, dynamic and dramatic . . . has the unreality of romance, but contains too many facts for it to be taken as merely fiction."

Maurois' Novel Travels Under Three Names

"Whatever Gods May Be" Is British Title.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A few weeks ago I remarked upon some changes of title which had occurred in books published upon the two sides of the Atlantic. I now note the case of André Maurois, whose novel is a short one to have three titles.

MISS A. ST. J. ADCOCK.

In France it was called "Climats"; in the United States "Atmosphere of Love"; and in England it has been published within the last fortnight under the title of "Whatever God's May Be!" There is something wrong about the title "Atmosphere of Love," but at least it is an attempt to render the significance of the original. I see no appropriateness in the English title. And the translation is the same in both countries. "Climats" is not an easy book to translate, for it is a subtle book; and the effort to convey what is meant by that "climate" which is created for our lives by the personality of a loved companion is almost beyond the power of one who has to write in English. Nevertheless, Dr. Joseph Collins has made this extremely French book easily readable by English and American readers.

I think "Climats" is more subtle than profound. When I began to read it my spirits sank a little. I thought it cold and superficial. But it is not that. As one reads on, the coldness very curiously comes to life—not burningly, but with an absorbing realness. I think the impression may perhaps resemble that of the images obtained by the camera obscura. These images move; they have life that not even the film can positively yield us; but they are remote from our emotions. We watch them, fascinated. It is a most interesting experience.

Another novel, just published, in which I have taken much pleasure is Miss Almey St. John Adcock's "Poacher's Moon." In this book, which also is very finished, there is a totally different impression. It is a simple story of country people. In subtlety it does not compare with "Climats." But it has its own subtlety, and, in my opinion, a more immediate reality. Partly this is due to the fact that it deals with plainer, more obvious, less elusive things than "Climats."

It is Hardyesque, quiet, small; it tells the story of two women, one of whom steals the other's bridegroom, and after some years loses him again; and goes on to relate the love of the son of the first and the daughter of the second woman. The book has form, sincerity, and beauty. It is the first novel by Miss Adcock that I have read, and I have greatly admired it.

Miss Adcook, as her name indicates, is the daughter of St. John Adcock, editor of the London "Bookman," and a well known journalist. She lives with her father and mother at Richmond, in Surrey, drives her parents about the country in an elderly Citroen car, and writes her novels without fuss.

In this respect she resembles her father, who never mentions to his friends that he is a poet, and who tries to give the impression that everybody else in the world is a good and, in fact, a splendid writer. Only by accident does one learn that St. John Adcock's "Collected Poems" are coming out shortly in a volume that promises to be almost massive. I shall be much surprised if this volume does not impress the critics. It ought to do so.

First Complete Translation of Jose Maria de Herida

"The Trophies," by José Maria de Herida, translated by John Myers O'Hara and John Hervey (John Day), is the first complete translation into English of the entire body of the work of the famous author of the "Trophies." Herida won lasting fame by the publication of a single book. He holds a unique place in French literature. Immediately after the publication of the book in 1892 in France he was acclaimed one of the greatest of French poets, and in the following year, despite the rival candidacies of Zola, Verlaine, and others he was elected to the Academie Francaise. In the years since the publication of "The Trophies" it has gone through nearly a hundred editions and has been translated into a dozen languages, among them the Japanese. Three incomplete translations have appeared in America in the past.

NOW GRAND CANYON HAS ITS ZEALOUS, CAREFUL BIOGRAPHERS

"Grand Canyon Country," by M. R. Tillotson and Frank J. Taylor. [Stanford University Press.]

"Grand Canyon Country" is an informal but authentic account of people, places and things in the Grand canyon and the country around it, written by the superintendent of the park, M. R. Tillotson, and Frank Taylor, who writes about the great open spaces. Mr. Tillotson was co-author of "Oh, Ranger!" a pleasant and illuminating volume about all the national parks. There is a foreword by Horace M. Albright, director of national park service, United States department of the interior. That roster of names proves the accuracy of the material.

One of my most vivid memories of the Grand canyon is a picture of the ardent sightseers who simply would go on a boiling hot day down to the river. They slunk in, about sundown, lying like very lifeless cadavers on their donkeys' necks, scorched wherever flesh was discernible, and the most complete assortment of woe that had ever graced a trail.

To a man, they gave tongue to a passionate declaration that "O, it was wonderful!"

"He manages to make it sound as if he were talking across a table," says Heywood Broun of UP TO NOW, Alfred E. Smith's life story. So honest is it, so dramatic and so appealing that only the ex-Governor himself could have written it. He takes the reader into his confidence, tells him of his rise from fish-market clerk to Presidential candidate, discusses political issues and public figures—all with such simplicity and warmth that you come to know him personally. *With many illustrations. Thrill Writers Do Good Job in This Group

Here Are Mysteries to Banish Sleep.

"The Deruga Trial," by Ricarda Huch. [Macaulay.]

"Detective Duff Unravels It," by Harvey O'Higgins. [Horace Liveright."

"The Matheson Formula," by J. S. Fletcher. [Alfred A. Knopf.]

"Grim Vengeance," by J. J. Connington. [Little, Brown.]

"The Glenlitten Murder," by E. Phillips Oppenheim. [Little, Brown.]

Here are some first rate detective stories—not a flop in the lot. Writers of this thriller type of literature have gone a long way since the day when any child over 10 could catch the villain in the second chapter and the denouement had all the freshness of a long uncorked bottle of ginger ale.

In this hectic era when all of us, from college presidents to golf caddies, are keen about mystery stories, they must be not only exciting and full of suspense, they must be excellently well written as well.

Ricarda Huch, whose book, "The Deruga Trial," has been expertly translated into English by Lorna Dietz, is a well known German author. In this clever tale she presents an ultra-sophisticated, egoistic Italian doctor who is accused of the murder of his ex-wife and who doesn't care a hang what the jury or the judge think of him. He is being tried in a German court, and the flaming and flickering Italian temperament versus the staid, methodical and serious Teutonic attitude is amusing, to say the least. The author has grand material and she makes the most of it.

Harvey O'Higgins is that rare pearl in a pile of empty oysters, a detective story writer with an ever present and delightful sense of humor. It's fine to be scared to death, of course, but it's a much more unique sensation to laugh while you're shivering.

In his new book he gives you a series of short episodes in which Detective Duff works out his theory successfully, his idea being that every crime is committed in two places; in a physical spot or location and also in the mind of the criminal. It always leaves a trail in the mental workings of the latter and so, by tracking down motives and using a good deal of psychology, Mr. Duff accomplishes as much as the old school sleuth who set great store by finger prints and tracks in the snow, etc.

"The Matheson Formula" and "The Glenlitten Murder" are typical tales of those prolific mystery mechanics, Messrs. Fletcher and Oppenheim. Somebody ought to pit these two against each other and see which could turn out a book in the shorter space of time. In this corner, J. S. Fletcher, who knocks 'em out in no time; in that corner, E. Phillips Oppenheim, champion mystery smasher of the world, also a member of this club.

Suffice it to say that "The Matheson Formula" has to do with the kidnaping of an Englishman who has invented the greatest explosive of all time and that "The Glenlitten Murder" slowly unravels a snarl of social intrigue leading up to the death of De Besset, who was shot while in the bedroom of the Russian-born marchioness of Glenlitten. They are both skillfully worked out and rate as excellent stories. The Oppenheim one appeared serially in THE TRIBUNE.

"Grim Vengeance" has a weird plot of murder and international traffic in white slavery. The scene is laid in England and concerns a young English girl who has married a mysterious Spaniard from South America and her uncle, Clinton Driffield, who is a detective of note and who undertakes to solve the problems of two strange murders. Before the tale is ended another is committed and this with no one in the room but the victim, who nevertheless is shot by a revolver. Pretty odd, isn't it?

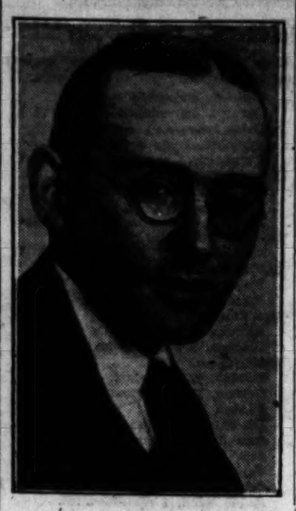
POET SPEAKS



STEPHEN VINCENT BENET.

Mr. Benet, after two years in France, where he wrote "John Brown's Body," has returned to America to live. He spoke most impressively of the importance of an author's nationalism during a lecture he gave last week in Chicago.

Stephen Benet Calls National Spirit the Basis of Literature

Stephen Vincent Benet has returned to America to live after two years abroad. During that time he wrote "John Brown's Body," one of the few really fine long poems of our literary history. Last week he came to Chicago with his wife, Rosemary Carr, who lived here and went to the University of Chicago.

Mr. Benet gave a stimulating lecture before the Friday club. In the course of it he said: "Art is not a windflower—nor can it exist in a vacuum. It must have roots that go down into some ground. In great art all four elements are mixed, water and earth as well as fire and air. . . . A writer may criticise, satirise, quarrel with his own country. Or, on the other hand, he may never write a book concerned with the life of that country.

"Neither of these things matters. But his work must have some foundation, and the forces that have gone to make him—his inheritance of flesh and spirit—must show themselves in that work. If they do not he is apt to end as an imitator, a borrower, a sort of second-hand clothesman of letters. . . . The subjects he chooses to write about are his own business. The quality that interests me is the quality that makes 'Endymion' an English poem, though it is written about a Greek fable and 'A Midsummer Night's Dream,' an English play, though it is laid in Athens.

"This sort of nationalism has nothing of the jingo in it. . . . It is as natural as the movement of the winds or rivers, unself-conscious as the flow of the blood in the body. Something has been digested, absorbed, made part of life."

These ideas explain much of the power of Mr. Benet.

Here's Instructive Book, to Be Read at Top Speed

"The Art of Rapid Reading," by Walter B. Pitkin. [McGraw-Hill.]

With the speeding up of everything else reading has come in for scientific rapidizing. Walter B. Pitkin [who is professor of journalism at Columbia university] has written a book on how to read—the proper position to assume, the color of paper that makes for rapid reading, eye strain, and all of the mechanics of reading, with chapters on how to skim and what sort of books are worth intensive and what light reading—and he has appended to the treatise a series of exercises which ought to help develop rapid reading habits. If the literary editor ever could take enough time off to do all of the exercises, her life probably would be a merrier, if not necessarily a wiser one—for she is one of the world's slowest readers which might be classed as one of the major Kent illustrations and that it is to be the December selection of the Literary Guild.

Two Earlier Books by Radclyffe Hall Here

The popularity—and the publicity—which followed the publication of Radclyffe Hall's "The Well of Loneliness" is responsible for the publication in America of her first novel, "The Unlit Lamp," and the novel which won both the Femina Vie Heureuse prize [1925-'26] and the James Tait Black prize [1926] "Adam's Breed." They are not at all the same kind of book as "The Well of Loneliness," although the inherent honesty and keenness of observation which were the fundamental qualities of that spectacular book both are in these two which preceded it.

2 Chicagoans Compile Book of Freer Thinking

"Infidels and Heretics" [Stratford] is an anthology of excerpts from the works of great agnostics, skeptics, infidels and heretics of the world, compiled by Clarence Darrow and Wallace Rice, both Chicagoans.

The compilers contribute also to the anthology.

Among those from whose works they have selected extracts are Percy Bysshe Shelley, John Keats, Christina Rosetti, Algernon Charles Swinburne, Ernest Dowson, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Alfred Tennyson, and even William Shakespeare among the poets, and Edith Wharton, George Moore, Thomas Hardy, Mark Twain and Samuel Butler among the novelists, with John Dewey, Bertrand Russell, Charles Darwin, F. Nietzsche, Sir James Fraser, Julian Huxley among the scientists.

By this list, it is obvious that it is a comprehensive anthology. By the names of the compilers it is obvious that it is a thoughtful and scholarly one. "Infidels and Heretics" was chosen by the Free Thought book club.

Hoover Celebration Recalls Steamers of Ohio River's Prime

In celebration of the spectacular opening of the lock and dam system of the Ohio river, in which the President took part this week, the publishers of "The Pageant of the Packets" by Garnett Laidlaw Eskew prepared a special autographed edition.

"The Pageant of the Packets" is a record of American steamboating that contributed one of the most colorful eras of our national history. Mr. Eskew has won the unqualified praise of the river captains, from one of whom, the editor of the Waterways Journal (Capt. Donald T. Wright), comes the statement, "This is the first volume I have ever read on the subject that did not constantly irritate me by its gross and often unpardonable errors."

The river packets were marvels of luxury of their day. Food was an art in the hands of their chefs. Carpets 300 feet long, woven in Belgium especially for the Grand Republic, brilliant salons unrivaled on land, would have furnished press agents with endless material, if there had been those busy little bees in those days.

Trans-Atlantic liners, with their luxuries today, are merely a continuation at sea of the tip-top of luxury on land. In the days of the river packets life on land almost never approached life on the Mississippi and the Ohio for splendor.

The origin of the word "Dixie" is explained by the author. It did not come at all from the Mason and Dixon line. It was born a generation and more earlier than that expression. All steamboat men, when they were in New Orleans, banked with a French bank. A favorite bank note was a ten dollar note printed in English on one side and in French on the other, for the convenience of everybody. In large letters on the back of each note was engraved "Dix," the French word for ten. Travelers began calling the notes "Dixies" (pronouncing the word the way it looked). Soon people began to call the south "Dixie land." Infiltration of a phrase did the rest.

Books Contrast Abe Lincoln and His Rival, Jeff Davis

"Abraham Lincoln," by Raymond Holden, and "Jefferson Davis," by Allen Tate (Minton Balch), the two latest additions to the Biographies of Unusual American series, are the result of joint work of the two authors on the same period. They are friends and gathered much of their material together. They do not credit the fantastic myth that Davis and Lincoln were half-brothers—an idea that circulated pretty freely at one time—but they do present them as brothers in the sense of being both the sons of the same mother country, the one so totally different from the other as to seem rather a half than a full brother.

Here's American History Made to Be Interesting

"A History of the American Nation," by Willis Mason West [Ronald], is a popular outline of America's national story. It is written by a former professor of history of the University of Minnesota. He has shed his cap and gown entirely in his writing. The man in the street, the woman in the home—these strange American types whom no one ever yet actually has dissected, but about whom every one seems to talk very glibly—will find Mr. West's panorama of history as simple to read as the titles in their favorite movies, but much more instructive!

By HARRIET CONNOR BROWN

Grandmother Brown's life span embraced most of our history as a nation, and as her fruitful years unroll we see, as no textbook could show us, the intimate and personal side of our country's growth.
A true pioneer mother of conquering stock, her story, told in her homely, vigorous phrases, as recorded by her youngest daughter-in-law, is an appealing and unique contribution to our literature.
Hon. Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to the Court of St. James, says in his Foreword: "It is an epic of American life in the early and later days."

WHAT THE REPUBLICAN PARTY CAN'T BE.

Claudius H. Huston, the new chairman of the Republican national committee, was dined at the University club in New York with various party notables at the table. The speeches discussed phases of a topic foremost in the political thought of the assemblage—how to keep the United States Republican.

The answer would be to make the Republican party Republican, to return it to the ideals of its founders, to make it loyal to their principles.

The Republican party was one of national unity, national defense, and national feeling. It was one of freedom for the individual. It was for the protection of the people collectively as a nation and of the citizen in the nation. It was a party of national integrity and human rights. It was Republican in that it demanded the integrity of the republic under the constitution, and Republican in that it respected the natural rights of people under a republican system of laws.

It was the party against slavery. It was the party against disunion. It was the party of American industries. It was the party which was not afraid to expand. It remained in the Philippines. At various times the elements which opposed freedom, national unity, national industry, national defense, national expansion and national interest have joined against it to support bondage, separation, free entry of foreign made goods, withdrawal from foreign possessions, internationalism and submission to alien influences.

What the Republican party has been in the past is plain in the records, and in each instance that it has stood squarely by its principles and traditions the majority of the people of the country have stood by it because in these cases it was expressing their sentiments and purposes.

Its governing body may inquire within the management whether this stand is being maintained now. How does the party now stand on the question of national defense and the protection of national interests? What is its position as to internationalism and subordination to alien influence? What is its present interpretation of the constitutional guaranties which are to protect the individual in his rights? What is its present conception of the place of the United States in international affairs and of the attitude of the United States toward its own citizens?

It is plain what the Republican party cannot do and remain Republican and continue to give Republican party administration to the government of the country. It cannot adopt the internationalism of Woodrow Wilson in foreign affairs and the fundamentalism of southern Democratic clerics in domestic affairs. It cannot apply the worst of Democracy abroad and the worst of Democracy at home and remain Republican. And not remaining Republican it will not remain in power.

It cannot combine international sentimentalism opposed to American security with sectional bigotry opposed to human freedom and adult conscience and be granted anything but a place in American history among the defunct parties which lost their principles and died.

THE NORTH WESTERN TAKES STOCK.

Engineers of the North Western railroad have spent three years investigating the costs of electrifying the Chicago terminal. They find that the work, with all the changes in tracks, stations, and other matters entailed, would cost $60,000,000. The increase in income which might result from the expenditure, it is intimated, does not appear large enough to warrant the outlay.

The three years of investigation have thus disclosed that the North Western, so far as its facilities in Chicago are concerned, is $60,000,000 behind the times. Naturally, its suburban service, despite the recent increase in fares, is not profitable. A railroad company, like any other business concern, has an article to sell. That article is transportation. The North Western, like all the other railroads in the Chicago area except the Illinois Central, is selling a shopworn article. It can hardly expect to profit largely from doing business in that way. A great change for the better in the financial results of the suburban services is extremely unlikely until modern transportation goods are placed in stock. Only in that way can the road expect to achieve a rapid increase in the volume of its business, for electric trains running into the suburbs would create business. Commuters might even find it possible to pay a higher fare for greatly improved service.

The shore line from Chicago to Milwaukee and the area tapped by the North Western immediately west of Chicago constitute one of the most densely populated districts in the country. If any region can support an electrification program, and many in the east do, the North Western territory ought to be able to do so.

RACKETEERING IN THE COAL BUSINESS.

Racketeering in the coal business has now been exposed. The business agent for the coal teamsters' union, George Barker, is wanted by the police for attempting to coerce an independent merchant into raising the price of his coal and the Coal Dealers' association has been accused of conspiring with Barker. Independent coal dealers told the state's attorney that they could sell coal at three dollars a ton less than the association's rate if it were not for the operations of Barker.

The prosecutor knows the story of Barker's career. Barker created a vacancy by shooting and threatening with death a former business agent for the coal teamsters' union, James Lynch. Whereupon Barker usurped Lynch's job with a display of guns to silence dissenters. With an income of $40,000 Barker remained as business agent until he was imprisoned and charged with murder. After his acquittal, which he sustained because a policeman refused to identify him, he was returned to Pontiac reformatory for violation of parole. There he remained until he was liberated by Judge T. N. Greene of Peoria county on motion of State Senator Victor P. Michel of Peoria, Barker's counsel. At the same time Judge Greene released another Chicago felon who was represented by a Peoria lawyer.

Free, Barker returned to the teamsters' union. His successor had just been murdered. One of his operations was an order to the Marine Coal company to cease advertising coal below the association's price. The company refused and Barker called a strike of its drivers. A grand jury investigation is in progress and the government may investigate to determine if there has been formed a combination in restraint of trade.

The public has an important interest in the racketeering of Gunman Barker. Every householder in Chicago who burns coal can measure the individual cost of the racket. It is an assessment against an indispensable item in the family budget, a bounty which brings privation to thousands. Fortunately, however, although fuel is indispensable, coal is not the only available fuel. The consumer has a choice and the coal dealers by their traffic with racketeers are inviting their customers to substitute oil, gas or electricity for heating. The experience of the coal dealers may indeed duplicate that of the cleaners and dyers. When the Chicago prices for cleaning were advanced through the operations of racketeers the residents of the city found relief in sending their work to cleaners in other cities. That destroyed the profit of the cleaning and dyeing racketeers, so that prices are now reduced. The fate of the coal dealers may be even more disastrous, for if their customers change their heating plants to escape racketeers' prices for coal the change will be permanent.

Spokesmen for the Coal Dealers' association disclaim that the organization is guilty of a conspiracy. Barker is the business agent of the teamsters' union and in that capacity he must be recognized and officially dealt with. The coal dealers may, by pleading necessity, escape the charge of conspiracy, but the public will not believe them innocent of conniving to maintain the price of a fundamental commodity.

THE CUNEO MYSTERY.

Building Commissioner Paschen has asked the corporation counsel for an indemnity bond of a million dollars to protect him from personal liability for withdrawing the permit for the erection of the Cuneo tower building. It prompts us to ask this very sensitive official if he has explored the possibilities of personal responsibility for issuing the permit. Maybe there is none. Maybe there is. So precautious an individual should make certain if possible.

Meanwhile the more than suspicious incident in local misgovernment in which Mr. Paschen is a prominent figure remains in a vicious tangle. Whether the public interest is finally to be protected by some lawful means remains as much in doubt as ever. Considering the inefficiency of the protection given by local government in this community by nearly every department, the prospects in the Cuneo case cannot be called bright. But at least the various officials who have failed should be punished, by legal action wherever it is practicable and by political action at the first opportunity. The inattentiveness of the aldermen deserves political rebuke by the voters. In some cases it may be shown the fault was more serious than mere carelessness. The conduct of Paschen is what might be expected from a member of the Thompson régime which has discredited Chicago before the world and brought its affairs to the lowest point the city has ever reached, financially and morally. We are paying a heavy price for our lesson. At least we ought to learn it and try to profit by it.

Editorial of the Day

PORT AND STARBOARD.

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

There seems to have been little comment in this country upon the end of a great and peculiar tradition of the sea. The recent international convention on safety has decreed that after midnight on June 30, 1931, helm orders in vessels throughout the world shall be given in the direct sense. It is, in the words of the Court of the Honourable Company of Master Mariners of London, "a navigational revolution."

Landsmen may not be aware that under the present rule when a navigating officer wishes his ship turned to starboard the order is "Port!" and when he wishes it turned to port the order is "Starboard!" or, more fully, "Starboard the helm!" It is a custom rooted in the distant past, when even large vessels were steered by tillers, and it was necessary, if the ship was to be turned in one direction, to put the tiller or helm in the opposite one. The tradition must be very old, because even in Elizabethan times, although the steering wheel had not come in, the tillers in large vessels were operated by a lever which reversed the motion so that helm and rudder moved in the same direction.

Latterly, especially with the use of steam steering gears and other patent gadgets, wheels have been made to turn with the ship. But the old orders have continued, with the result that officers still order "Starboard!" when wheel, rudder, telltale and ship alike are moved to port. When Mr. Josephus Daniels, alarmed at this strange and apparently dangerous anomaly, commanded the navy to substitute "right" and "left" in the proper sense for the old helm orders there was rage among the shellbacks. But now Mr. Daniels has been fractionally justified by international agreement.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HELLO! HELLO!

Hello! We're back again, and jolly glad of it. How are you? How's the papa and the mamma? And Aunt Laura? And Uncle Jim? And the twins, the cunning little devils? Yes, we had a nice rest and a good time on the other side, but the biggest kick in the whole trip was looking out of the car window yesterday morning coming across Ohio and Indiana and seeing the woods in their autumn dress of brown and gold and the fodder in the shock and hearing the turkey gobblers going ky-ock, ky-ock, ky-ock. And right now we want to thank Harvey T. Woodruff for his splendid handling of the Line while we were away. He did a grand job and we wish we might do more than merely say—thank you, Harvey. Anyhow, we're glad to feel that we're back with you all again. Hello everybody, and we hope you're well and happy and that you didn't get whacked on the bean when the stocks came tumbling down. Anyhow, they seemed yesterday to be quieter, and probably all will yet be well. Anyhow, hello! hello!

HORTICULTURAL.

My love is not as lilies,
They are so wan and white,
They have a waxy coldness
That savors of the night;
My love is chic, has boldness,
Its warmth is all around,
It thrives in sunny places
Where cheer and joy abound.
My love is O, so radiant,
'Tis full of zeal and zest,
Of blushing, tender, happy mien,
Of faith unplumbed, unguessed.
It is not stilted, strange and cold,
Nor cast in good dame fashion's mold,
It is a love will ne'er grow old.
'Tis not a love that comes and goes,
Like flame it mounts and steady grows,
My love is as the crimson rose.

CLARENCE P. MILLIGAN.

Tylwyth Teg Takes 'Vangie's Job.

And we might as well do it now as any time. It's a bit tough, but, after all, it will be better to do it quick and have it over with. Anyhow, it will be a nice rest for 'Vangie, and, after all, it's merely a noble experiment. The point we're getting at is that 'Vangie, the Line goat that has devoured poems and other manuscripts which we were unable to use in the column, has worked for years and years and needs a rest. So we brought back a Welsh immigrant, Tylwyth Teg, who will take over 'Vangie's job while that poor, long suffering goat is turned out to pasture. Tylwyth Teg is a Sealyham purp of a long and noble lineage. We don't know how well he is going to like the poems and things that he finds on our desk, but the way he eats shoes, luggage tags, puppy biscuit, leather straps, fountain pens, and anything and everything, he should do very well. He got hold of a lovely poem we wrote yesterday, "Home Again, in the Land of the Free," and swallowed it in three gulps. It was probably all for the best. Anyhow, Tylwyth Teg is now on the job. (Picture on the last page. Or, maybe, the next to the last.)

Anyhow, It Takes Our Mind Off the Stock Market.

We've just got back, so we don't know what it's all about, but it seems that something called a Carnegie Foundation says that some football players are nice little white lambs and others are big black goats. When we went away Iowa was the only football team at whom eyebrows were lifted and cold looks of withering scorn were cast. And now almost all the schools seem to be a little smeared with mud. It is all very sad and we will say no more until we've been back long enough to give the matter a thorough investigation. But meantime we trust the not guilty schools dress their athletes in pure white garments and the other institutions make their footballers wear black with horns sewed on their caps. Yes, and tails with a spike on the end should be worn, and then we'd watch the game to see whether or not RIGHT, TRUTH, and JUSTICE triumphed over DUBIOUS PRACTICES. But we have a certain lurking suspicion that RIGHT, TRUTH, and JUSTICE would very often get a kick in the pants. It's so often that way in this world.

Yessir, Farmers Got Vision.

RHL: Farmers may only get ninety cents for wheat an the corn may all go to cobs an the bugs may get the potatoes but farmers got vision—yes sir, farmers got vision. I know what Im talking about—I know my farmers—I been among em now fer about . . . well anyhow, farmers know how to take care of tomorrow an its a bright young city slicker who marrys the farmers daughter. You see, right after I gets my degree last spring I takes a position selling fire extinguishers. This extinguisher is absolutely dependable—no acid—no chemical—no soot—just remove the top like this. . . . Well sir, my first client was plowin corn—fine looking corn, too. I ran him down in the fourth row of the south forty and cornered him between the orchard and the mail box . . . but he was pretty skeptical. Allright, says he, if shes all what you say she is just take the top off an show me. So I unscrews the top. Well the farmers kinda put his nose to it an then took a little sip. Shes nice an nutty, says he, —what is it—bourbon? Then he hits her again an smacks his lips an he orders ten of 'em.

ORACLE.

BATTLE SCENE FROM THE ILIAD

As when before a storm the brazen sky
Sets a hard heel upon the brow of earth,
And the black thunder as the last lights die
Splinters the air with howls of cruel mirth,
And the swung trees before the shrieking gale
Rock from the wild east to the roaring west,
And the blue lightning and the wind's white flail
Whistle and crack from vale to mountain-crest,
The broken earth is beaten into swoon,
And lies insensate of returning night,
And knows not morn from night, nor night from noon.
Nor where it lies, nor if there still is light . . .
So can this single page of thundering sound
Batter mine ears and beat me to the ground.

DOROTHY R. KISSLING.

LAGNIAPPE.

WELL, ANYHOW, Chicago hasn't got a subway, but at least in Chicago you can reach your destination quicker in a taxi, or your own car, than you can by walking. But in New York if you want to get to some place the same day you walk. Taxis in New York are only useful if you want a nice place to sit around for two or three hours. However, we do not weaken on our subway platform. If New York didn't have subways the town would simply get blocked up by 3 o'clock in the morning and stay that way for the rest of its life.

BOOM! Oh, gosh, how we jumped as we heard that. We feared it was our pet stock falling thirty-nine more points.

DIET FOR NETTLE RASH.

IN most people who develop a tendency to nettle rash, tetter, or other evidence of sensitization to foods the only possible method of prevention is to eliminate from the diet all the offending articles. This is not easy to do for several reasons. One reason is the difficulty in determining which foods are responsible.

Dr. Jane Dale and Dr. H. D. Thornburg offer three diets which can be used for purposes of diagnosis and, after that, for treatment as required. Diet No. 1 is:

1 cup stewed corn.
¾ cup stewed egg plant or 4 slices ½ inch thick and 3 inches in diameter.
2-3 small head raw endive; 1 cup cooked parsnips.
1 cup mashed spinach.
2 cups raw or 1 cup cooked white turnips or 1½ small raw ones; ¾ cup dried; 3 small turnips cooked; 1 cup diced; ¾ cup mashed.
10 dates.
2 tablespoonfuls lemon juice.
6 whole prunes.
1 cup thin rhubarb sauce.
1½ cups cornflakes.
1-6 cup raw or 1 cup cooked cornmeal mush 1-3 inch in diameter, ⅔ inch thick corn pone [cornmeal, 3 cups; oil, 3 tablespoonfuls; molasses, 2 tablespoonfuls; salt, ½ teaspoonful; water, ¾ cup].
1 tablespoonful cornstarch.
½ cup raw or 1 cup cooked hominy.
1 tablespoonful gelatin.
30 hazelnuts.
1 large lean loin lamb chop.
½ cup raw lentils.
4 oz. raw mackerel.
1 tablespoonful corn oil.
3 slices bacon.
1 tablespoonful molasses.
1 tablespoonful sugar.
Coffee, salt, and parsley.

From this diet Drs. Dale and Thornburg make up several menus published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. In this diet 1 there are almost no foods which have been known to cause nettle rash. From it menus complete as to calories, minerals, vitamins, and bulk, and well balanced as to acid ash and proteins, can be selected.

For those who still get nettle rash when living on diet 1, they suggest menus selected from the following:

Brussels sprouts, 9 medium.
Okra, 1 cup canned.
Green pepper, 1 small.
Pumpkin, 1 cup cooked.
Rutabaga, 1 cup mashed or dried form raw.
Swiss chard, 1 cup cooked.
Water cress, 2 cups raw.
Apricots, 9 halves and 5 tablespoonfuls of juice.
Canned pears, 3 halves and 3 tablespoonfuls of juice.
Fresh pears, 1 small.
Pineapples, 1 slice and 3 tablespoonfuls of juice.
Raisins, ¼ cup.
Chicken, 1 second joint; 1 leg; 3 small slices.
Codfish, ⅔ cup flaked.
Gelatin, 1 tablespoonful.
Pecans, 32.
Brown rice, 1 cup cooked.
Rice flakes, 1 cup.
Rice flour, 1 tablespoonful.
Tapioca, 1 tablespoonful.
Cocoanut oil, 1 tablespoonful.
Maple sirup, 1 tablespoonful.
Sugar, 1 tablespoonful.
Tea; nutmeg; salt.

Menus can be arranged from diet 2 which will supply all needed food elements and which will not include the foods which may have caused trouble while diet 1 was on trial.

If the tendency to nettle rash persists the following substitutions can be made: Dandelion or mustard greens instead of endives, cress, or chard. Kale, celery, or kohlrabi instead of okra, parsnips, rutabaga, squash, or turnips. Asparagus, beets, or string beans instead of Brussels sprouts or egg plant. Gooseberries or raspberries instead of rhubarb. Kidney beans or lima beans instead of lentils or fish.

PROVISION OF COMPENSATION ACT.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What percentage of my regular salary can I collect from an insurance company through the workman's compensation law due to an accident while at work? J. G.

The compensation act provides: "If the period of temporary total incapacity for work lasts for more than six working days, compensation equal to fifty per centum of the earnings, but not less than $7.50 nor more than $15 per week, beginning on the eighth day of such temporary total incapacity and continuing as long as the temporary total incapacity lasts, but not after the amount of compensation paid equals the amount which would have been payable as a death benefit. Provided, that in the cases where temporary total incapacity for work continues for a period of four weeks from the day of the injury, then compensation shall commence on the day after the injury." TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

OLMSTED AVENUE IMPROVEMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to know if anything can be done about the condition of the pavement on Olmsted avenue between Oshkosh and Ozark. This is a narrow street and there are several depressions in the asphalt. Parked cars make it necessary for other traffic to bounce over these holes and there is no doubt an accident will happen sooner or later. R. L. C.

Necessary repairs to the asphalt pavement in Olmsted avenue between Oshkosh and Ozark streets will be made within a few days. JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Deputy Superintendent of Streets.

BAD PARTS OF RHODES AVENUE.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—Is anything ever going to be done about repairing Rhodes avenue between 71st and 73d streets? The condition of this street is pitiful. We pay our taxes, why should we suffer? V. M.

Rhodes avenue between 71st and 73d streets is an old macadam pavement, beyond repair. If the property owners wish to have it resurfaced by the city forces at the cost of labor and material the matter should be taken up with the commissioner of public works. If an entirely new pavement is desired the matter should be taken up with either the alderman of the ward or the board of local improvements for the spreading of a special assessment to cover the cost of the work. JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Deputy Superintendent of Streets.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 26, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Sheridan's prisoners in the Shenandoah valley battles are now reported at 3,600, of whom 1,500 were brought to Harper's Ferry on Oct. 24. Eleven hundred had been brought in previously and 1,000 were left at Winchester. Our cavalry is gathering in many stragglers from the rebel ranks. The number of rebel officers captured will not fall short of 300 and the entire loss of the rebels in killed, wounded, and prisoners is estimated at 8,000.

ST. LOUIS.—It is believed that Gen. Price's rebel army has escaped. The battle on Oct. 23, south of Kansas City, was designed to give time for the wagons in advance to get a good start. Col. Harry Stone arrived here with the papers found on the body of Maj. Wilson, who was murdered by the rebels after he was taken prisoner at the battle of Pilot Knob. It appears Maj. Wilson was shot through the body several times. Bodies of six men captured with Maj. Wilson were found at the same time. Hostages held for Wilson at Alton probably will be shot on Monday.

NEW YORK.—The World's Army of the Potomac special of Oct. 24 says a severe skirmish occurred the night before between pickets in front of Petersburg.

CHICAGO.—The secesh organ, the Times, strung out the Stars and Stripes with the names of McClellan and Pendleton thereon. Rank sacrilege! It would have been more consistent did it give their names on the lone star rag, or picture McClellan standing on his favorite gunboat under the shade of a palmetto tree, with Pendleton as a rattlesnake pendent from the top licking his craven face with its venomous tongue.

CHICAGO.—Sterling Vosburgh, late of the firm of Hanna & Vosburgh, died of typhoid fever at the age of 26.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 26, 1899.

SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.—Martial law has been proclaimed throughout Natal and the governor general has called out the rifle associations for the defense of Pietermaritzburg. The proposed attack of the combined forces of Sir George S. White and Gen. Yule on the Orange Free Staters, who are supposed to be coming through Tintwa pass, is still to be realized, although reports from the front predict an early, sanguinary fight. The total British losses in Natal in killed, wounded, and missing up to date is given at 597.

LONDON.—Three items of continental news figure in the war news today. Emperor William had a highly important conference with his ministers; the French squadron in the Mediterranean was ordered to keep a sharp watch on the British fleet; the Italian fleet has been ordered to concentrate at Spezia.

PARIS.—The Wagnerian performance of "Tristan and Isolde" promises to be one of the greatest musical events ever heard in Europe. Artists, composers, and leaders from the world over are to be present. The rules will be strict. The curtain will rise at 7 o'clock and every one must be seated. No one will be allowed to enter during an act. Women must go without hats and no conversation in the boxes will be allowed.

CHICAGO.—The wedding of Miss Martha Pennock Mercer, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. L. P. Mercer, to Albert Hersey Billingslea took place last evening at the Kenwood Church of the New Jerusalem. Miss Laura Wever Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dillwyn Cook, was married to Arthur Blackmore Turner of New York at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Kenwood.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 26, 1919.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson and the members of the cabinet pronounced the proposed strike of bituminous coal miners scheduled for Nov. 1 a crime against the government and the people. They brand the strike both morally and legally wrong and declare the law will be enforced to protect the interests of the nation in any emergency that may arise.

WASHINGTON.—A new industrial conference is to be called to continue the work of hunting a basis for industrial peace. Instead of being divided into three groups—labor, capital and the public—the new assemblage is to represent the public.

MINEOLA, N. Y.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt left an estate valued at $810,607, according to affidavits filed with the transfer tax appraiser. From this sum will be deducted $33,989 for funeral expenses, attorneys' fees and executors' fees. The estate goes to the widow, Mrs. Edith Kermit Roosevelt.

FOOTBALL SCORES.—Chicago 41, Northwestern 0; Ohio State 13, Michigan 3; Wisconsin 14, Illinois 10; Iowa 9, Minnesota 6; Harvard 47, Virginia 0; Yale 37, Tufts 0; Colgate 7, Princeton 0.

WASHINGTON.—Holding that Representative Elect Victor Berger of Wisconsin was disloyal and gave aid and comfort to the enemy, the special committee of the house for investigating his title to his seat recommended that he be excluded.

PARIS.—The supreme council is stalling for time in the vain hope that the United States may ratify the treaty of Versailles within the next ten days.

THE CARNEGIE REPORT ON ATHLETICS.

Wilmetta, Ill., Oct. 23.—If the good man who endowed the foundation which just released its famous bulletin 23 knew in what prattle that foundation was indulging he no doubt would turn over a couple of times in his grave.

They would prevent a man who has the ability and the ambition to excel in athletics, but lacks the finances, from gaining an education through the exercising of that talent, even though he is capable of maintaining the required scholastic standing. Has not this man the same right to success in this free country of ours as the one who is sent to the university by a parent of means? Is playing football as a means of earning an education any less honorable than playing a moaning saxophone or acting as assistant in some educational department of the school? After all, a man must have certain desirable, rare and good qualities who will endure the punishment of combat and the grind of training just for the same opportunity that is handed the boy of means on a silver platter.

May Illinois rest easily among her sisters in purity, whoever they may be.

THE COST OF MEDICAL CARE.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—I want to express my appreciation of your editorial, "The Cost of Medical Care." If the spirit exhibited in this editorial could dominate the parties who have to consider these questions, a considerable step would have been made in the solution of this problem.

The doctor resents much of the discussion that goes on about this, because he is blamed for the situation, which is not of his making. Many of the remedies suggested are aimed largely at his income, which, as you pointed out, is not large. Unfair and unjust criticism such as was indulged in by Dr. Mayo during the recent meeting of the American College of Surgeons is unfortunate. It contributes nothing to the solution of the problem.

Thank you for your conservatism and fair-mindedness.

JAMES H. HUTTON, M. D.,
President Elect, Chicago Medical Society.

THE WEST SIDE HIGHWAY.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Trusting to your spirit of fair play I take this occasion to write in behalf of the great west side. There are many objections to the proposed twenty million dollar superhighway, but I will confine myself to only one.

Even the proponents of the plan refer to it as a general public improvement, of benefit to the county, yes, even to the state. Why, then, should the west side taxpayers pay the entire bill?

Can you conceive benefits accruing to the taxpayers of Madison, 26th or Division streets, for instance, as compared with those of Oak Park or Franklin street? Yet they will pay for it in taxes, while the Oak Parker and Franklin street taxpayer will benefit without any outlay in taxes.

Come, Mr. Editor, give the poor taxpayer of the west side (already burdened with increased taxes) a square deal.

ALBERT J. HORAN,
Alderman 29th Ward.

APOLOGIZING TO MR. McANDREW.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—In your Friday issue it is stated:

"President Caldwell of the board of education declined to discuss the Mullenbach demand for an apology until the school board, as a committee of the whole, considers that subject."

Don't you mean "as a committee in the hole"?

THE TRUTH ABOUT DRY KILLING.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 21.—I would like to make a great object lesson to the country. If I were governor I would devote one Sunday's program on the radio to the illustrations you have or can get of the atrocities and murders that have been committed in the name of prohibition.

The articles are fine by Philip Dunlay and intelligent seekers after truth look for them every Sunday and read them with interest. Another class is enjoy the pictorial side and would get a lesson they would not soon forget.

Bootlegging is a business problem that has created. If there had been no prohibition there would have been no bootlegging. Bootleggers are not murderers. Many have gone into this business on the get rich quick plan possibly suggested to them by misguided reformers.

One of the worst features of prohibition is the deceit, lying and underhanded methods resorted to by both parties. The raiders take their guns, shoot on sight and spring upon their victims. The bootleggers are sly and wary. They use their liquor in all conceivable places. They are in constant fear of detection, nervous and excited, ready for war at any time.

The prohibition raiders do not hesitate to betray their friends for money. We are told it is our duty if we think there is liquor in any home to betray an officer and have them arrested. In fact, we must be spies.

There are more Judas Iscariots in this country since prohibition than ever before. Give us the Bible temperance. "Temperate in all things."

JANE GRAY.

DR. WILSON AND THE VETERANS.

Gary, Ind., Oct. 21.—Of course Dr. Clarence True Wilson's address to the W. C. T. U. of New York, wherein he attacked former soldiers as being bootleggers or importers of European ideas and thereby causing all the heartaches to our chicken hearted public, should be taken seriously by no true and upright American citizen who still has a spark of common sense within his being.

Being an ex-service man, wounded twice and decorated for distinguished service, I hate to be called a contortionist of morals of the country which I so dearly love, for which I am today broken in health, and for which I have given the best part and am still ready to do my little bit in case of emergency with the balance of my life.

That the ex-service men are encouraging drinking and bootlegging in America is just as much a farce as it is a fact that Dr. Wilson is encouraging anything else but a tyranny in many ways similar to that which was crushed some 150 years ago at the expense of blood and life of thousands of our country's greatest men.

MEUSE-ARGONNE DRIVE.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—In regard to a name for the new Lincoln park drive, why not call it Meuse-Argonne drive? It will be a memorial to the thousands of our boys who lost their lives in this terrific counter.

THE WASHINGTON STREET TUNNEL.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—It seems incredible to me that a condition so vital to the safety of human lives should be allowed to exist as that which is apparent in the Washington street car tunnel under the river. I have been told that this tunnel was condemned years ago. Its walls are cracked and water gushes in from the river above; it is evidently a hazard. Perhaps this is a chance for officials concerned to investigate before lives are sacrificed.

THE HAWK

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Douglas Dorling, a young British peer, is sent to Dartmoor prison on the perjured testimony of Cora Sefton, an unscrupulous woman in love with him. In revenge, because he scorned her advances, she swears she saw him kill a policeman in a night club raid.

Dorling is a famous aviator, but to keep this knowledge from his mother and spare her worry he has been using the assumed name of Douglas Harris; and as Douglas Harris he is tried and convicted.

He is rescued from prison in spectacular fashion, right under the eyes of his guard, by persons unknown; is shaved, dressed in new clothes, and driven to the Gunter hotel, where, to his amazement, he is greeted by Cora. She has registered as his wife.

Cecily Warren, the girl Douglas loves, is also staying at the Gunter. She sees Dorling embraced by Cora on his arrival and jumps to the conclusion he must be secretly married. Bewildered and heartbroken, she leaves for London.

Douglas meets his father's old friend, Sir Aylmer Granston, in the lobby and accepts his invitation to drive to London. He escapes from Cora, leaving a note. Immediately she sees James Malleran, well known amateur connoisseur of the arts and a neighbor of the Granstons. As Malleran is decoding the wire Martha Perraile, Cecily's maid, calls. She is obviously in his employ. He directs her to bring her mistress within a few days to a town called Mortvaig, in Scotland.

That night, while Dorling is dining with the Granstons, Malleran calls. Later Cecily learns he is not knowing Doug is there. She greets him frigidly and creates a sensation by announcing she hears he is married.

Doug goes to see Cora and asks her to explain all the mystery. She refuses, but tells him he is to go to Mortvaig, Scotland, to meet her chief. He agrees, but first visits his mother at Dorling Towers. Cecily's father, Charles Warren, who lives on the fringe of the Dorling estate, calls and remarks casually that his daughter has taken a job furnishing a Mortvaig millionaire's house. Doug is struck by the coincidence in names.

At Mortvaig Doug can only learn that, in return for his freedom, he is being blackmailed into a mysterious service as an airplane pilot. He takes off for his first trip, little dreaming Cecily is on board drugged.

Charles Warren, who is in the government secret service, though this is not known to his friends, takes a holiday at home. Detective Inspector Rason of Scotland Yard calls for a conference. He believes Harris' escape from prison was a carefully planned one, and links it with a gang of smugglers whom he and Warren are pursuing. He has traced the car in which Doug was rescued to a London furniture company. Warren says this same company sent Cecily to Scotland. Rason suspects trouble, and wires the Mortvaig police.

Looking at his island base, Doug is shown about by another pilot, Lieutenant Beresford. On his return to Mortvaig he is permitted to go down to London for a few days and he decides to shake himself free of the gang. He calls on Cecily to explain everything to her but is told by Mr. Warren that Cecily has disappeared from Mortvaig. Her maid returned without her and could shed no light on the disappearance. When Douglas sees Cecily's maid he remembers that he had seen her at the Mortvaig airdrome and suspects that she is one of the gang. With a shock he realizes that he must have carried Cecily to the island and that she is being kept a prisoner there by the chief. He decides to return there at once, but he does not tell Mr. Warren of his suspicions.

Arrived at the island he asks to see Miss Warren and greatly to his surprise he is allowed to see her.

He arranges for her escape and manages to land her in England. He is pursued by a navy plane, however. He flies inland, then heading the plane again toward the sea he dives to a parachute. His plane is shot down in flames and Douglas Harris is presumed to be dead. He hurries to London expecting to see Cecily but is amazed to learn that in some way his plans miscarried and that she has again been captured by the gang.

Hoping to obtain news of Cecily, Dorling, at Cora's request, meets her at a night club. He is drugged and wakes up the next day on a boat at sea. Cecily is also on board. There is something very peculiar about the boat and its passengers. The captain professing his readiness allows Dorling to use the small sea plane carried by the boat. The fuel gauge registers a full tank, but in reality there is not half enough fuel to carry him to land. Dorling sees a navy destroyer, comes down on the sea and requests to be taken aboard. He explains to the commander of the boat and they go to Cecily's rescue.

On their return to London Dorling is sure he will be sent back to Dartmoor. He tries to break with Cecily but she suspects his intentions. He agrees to lead Warren to the gang's island.

INSTALLMENT LIV.

A FLASH OF SUSPICION.

Some of the men glanced at them casually and then went on with their work. It was exactly as if they had entered an ordinary workshop.

"What are you supposed to be doing here?" asked Rason.

The foreman scratched his head.

"Well, since you're the police, I suppose there can't be no harm in my telling you," he said reflectively. "We're making a special engine—for a Capt. Beresford. For a motor boat, you know. It's a secret process because he doesn't want to patent it until it's gone through its trials. If you know anything about patents, Mr. Rason, you'll know that's asking for trouble—patenting is. O, excuse me, half a minute, will you?"

From behind them had come a buzz. The foreman turned to a bracket on which was a house telephone.

"Yes. All right, miss. I'm busy just now but I'll send the time sheets up in ten minutes."

He hung up the receiver and turned again to his visitors.

"I expect you're wondering where we do the practical tests, Mr. Rason?" he pointed out over the marsh. "Now you see that humped bit of woodwork over there. . . . Well, that's the sluice gate. In something under four hours we can turn this 'ere swamp into a tidy little lake. Now if you'd like to see the work the men are actually doing—"

"Just a minute," interrupted Rason. To Dorling he added in a voice that was intended to be overheard by the foreman. "Would you mind telling me fellows to start work in the house? You might add that I'll join them when I've had a look round this place." In an undertone he added: "You don't mind me using you as a messenger boy?"

"That car will take you there."

"I'll do my best," said Dorling. "But remember, they may pot me as I go through the house and you'll be alone."

"They won't," returned Rason quickly. "It'd spoil their bluff. It's ten to one we shan't find anything in this place. They're ready for us."

Yes, undoubtedly, they were ready for the raid, thought Dorling as he made his way back through the house. They had been warned—as Cora had.

Standing in the roadway he beckoned to the police cars that were waiting by the cordon. As the cars drew up he delivered his message. Thereupon the men entered the house and the search began.

For ten minutes or more he watched them idly, trying not to get in their way as they took measurements. A sense of aftermath had settled upon him. He had come into the house in fear of his life. Now the sense of danger had passed and with it the sense that he was performing some useful service. He was simply a mild nuisance to the junior detectives who were setting about their systematic search.

To get out of their way he walked aimlessly upstairs and, avoiding the typists' room, drifted from one room to another.

Another ten minutes passed. He was in a room furnished with a swivel chair and an empty desk. He dropped into the chair and lit a cigaret.

He had nearly finished his cigaret when he was startled by a loud buzz. He had not noticed the house telephone fixed to the top of the desk.

He took no notice and the telephone buzzed again. This time he lifted the receiver.

"Hullo?"

"Lord Dorling?" asked a voice that was not Rason's. He did not know whose voice it was but he was sure he had heard it before.

"Dorling speaking. Who are you?"

"That hardly matters. The important point, Lord Dorling, is that I am risking my life in the hope of saving yours. In a few minutes you will be taken to the airplane. For the last time we ask you—will you consent to take your way to that island?"

"No," snapped Dorling into the receiver.

"Thank you. You are a very brave man, Lord Dorling. Goodby."

There was a click as the receiver was replaced at the other end. And "the other end," he knew, was somewhere in the house or, at farthest, in the workshop outside.

With a half formed idea of catching the man in the act he rushed from the room and opened the door immediately opposite him. It was a typists' room, untenanted save for the two typists.

He turned back and cannoned into a constable in uniform.

By the time he had apologized he decided that it was too late to try such tactics.

Shaking himself clear of the official, he went down into the hall where Warren was standing.

"Have you seen Malleron?" asked Warren. "He was with me a moment ago and now I've lost him."

Dorling did not answer. At Warren's words there had leapt to his brain a flash of suspicion. It was a flash, rather of confusion than of light. Cora had been warned of the trap of which only he himself, Malleron, and Warren had knowledge. And Cora had sent no message to the gang. Yet the gang were prepared with their bluff here in Mortvaig.

He did not stop for reflection or he might yet have found many a gap in his line of reasoning. It was as if his lips formed the words in a whisper against his own volition.

"Mr. Warren—are you dead sure of Malleron?"

For a moment Warren stared at him with an odd expression. It was the same odd expression Dorling had resented the previous night when Warren had looked up from the letter.

"Yes," answered Warren tonelessly. "What is in your mind, Douglas?"

Dorling was chilled. He saw at once the impossibility of justifying his suggestion. It had been a wild intuitive guess—a shot in the dark. He had nothing whatever to offer Warren except a summary of facts already known.

"O, I don't know!" he said wretchedly. "Everything seems topsy-turvy."

Warren pulled out his watch and looked again at Dorling.

"Are you sure you feel well enough to make that flight—to the—er—island?" he asked, and the tone of his voice told Dorling that he was already inclined to doubt the very existence of the island.

"There's nothing wrong with me, sir. It's only that I'm not used to this police work. Never felt fitter in my life."

"Then you may just as well start," said Warren. He looked through the open door. "That car will take you there. Good luck, my boy! . . . Ah, here's Malleron."

Without waiting to see Malleron, Dorling left the house and entered the waiting car.

Good Morning!

If you folks enjoy "The Mysterious Island" as much as I did, it should be doing business at the Castle stand until Thanksgiving.

This is a unique, beautifully colored screen adaptation of the story by Jules Verne, who dreamed and wrote of a diving ship and truly prophesied the submarine. It is a well thought out and cunningly executed piece of work, that dovetails the fantastic and scientific in original and fascinating fashion. It closes the eyes of the observer to reality and transports him to scenes that are strange and enthralling.

First, there is the "Mysterious Island" a ways off the mainland of Hetavia where revolution seethes. On this island where "all men are equal" lives a brilliant scientist who, in his great workshop and shipyard, has just completed a diving vessel in which he contemplates exploring the ocean depths, being convinced that, there, exists a race of sea men not radically different from earthly humans.

He tells of his ship and plans to a treacherous friend from Hetavia. This baron, who leads the oppressing party, sees, in such a creation, a destroyer that shall crush his enemies and render him all powerful. Accordingly on the night the boat is launched his men, secretly transported to the island, take possession. They kill and plunder and try by means of torture to wrest from the scientist and his young sister the plans of the ship—which at the time is on its test trip in charge of a loyal and capable lad called Nikolai.

The plans are not forthcoming and the ravagers wait impatiently for the boat to rise to the surface. As it emerges Nikolai sights trouble and gives the order to submerge. This is done. Through underwater caverns the scientist is rescued. But—there is Sonia, held in durance vile! Much transpirts before she, in a replica of the diving ship which has been made ready to start forth should the latter prove successful, lands on the ocean bottom. With her are—the baron and some of his men who have forced followers of the sicentist to man the ship.

I shall not tell you of what follows the meeting of Dukkar and his betrayer, nor of the strange folk, creatures, wreckage, and habitations found many leagues under the sea. But believe me, brothers and sisters, here is an illustrated yarn that won't let you do any napping!

Look for a BAD MOMENT when the Bloodless Men discover—blood—warm, earthy, invigorating; and another when the Sluggish Monster fastens tentacles on the scientist.

The picture starts in a burst of beauty and ends startlingly, dramatically, grandly. It is as "different" a production as you have ever seen, acted throughout with imagination and feeling. Lionel Barrymore as the scientist is the dominant figure. Montagu Love scores as the baron. Lloyd Hughes is delightful as Nikolai and Miss Daly charming in the rôle of Sonia.

The film has been magnificently directed. The workshop, ship, and undersea scenes could only have been staged by a master.

CHICAGO GIRLS TELL THEIR ABILITIES BY THEIR OWN DEEDS

With the same spirit that led their mothers to victory some years ago in the fight for equal suffrage, Chicago High school girls showed their brothers and young men classmates for the first time yesterday what they could do in the way of attainment.

In special programs held at high schools in observance of the 1929 Girls' Achievement, the first annual program of its kind dedicated to girls, girls' glee clubs sang, girls' bands played, girls exhibited their homecraft work—sewing, cooking. They presided as masters of ceremonies, they gave talks, and told of their duties to school and community.

At the Calumet High school girls changed places with their superiors, becoming teachers and principal for a short time. The freshmen girls and the Girl Reserves gave two playlets, the girls' glee club sang, the girls' new band played, and representatives of all the girls' clubs were on hand.

A girls' drum and bugle corps, girls' orchestra and girls' dancing club were among the entertainers at the Hibbard Junior High school. Shadow pictures depicted the activities in which girls in the school are especially interested. An informal reception for mothers was held at the close of the program.

The three day program for girls will come to its climax this morning at an achievement revue at the Studebaker theater at 10:30 o'clock.

AMERICANS WEALTHY, BUT BARBAROUS, VERDICT OF SHAW

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 25.—"You Americans appear extraordinarily barbarous to us," said George Bernard Shaw, "but of course we are quite aware that you regard us as extremely backward. I think there is every likelihood of America reverting to tribal life. You are such a predatory people. I think it is quite possible that you will return to feathers, tomahawks, wigwams, and squaws."

Mr. Shaw so spoke as one of his answers to questions put to him by a party of American students on a world tour and now in London.

The students asked Mr. Shaw to address them, but he preferred to answer any questions put to him rather than make a set speech.

Continuing his vision of America, Mr. Shaw declared: "Of course, in this country we realize that after the war America became the center of the world, while we have fallen into the background. We cannot help wondering whether we, the flower of civilization, are to be vanquished by these barbarians, Americans, as the ancient Greeks were vanquished by the Romans."

Answering still further questions, Mr. Shaw said: "I am becoming used to the part always assigned to me of a genial, elderly gentleman. It may even be true. What the real essential person behind that part is, I am not going to say. Don't think that I know, and if I did, it would be my own business, not yours. The truth is that I am always playing the part."

In replying to questions concerning the political situation, Mr. Shaw asserted: "I hope that the Labor party will get away with it, but there are very great obstacles in the way. I am not going to say that all the steps toward a better world will be taken by the Labor party. The Labor party is being driven by a current that all of the other parties are feeling, too. Reconstruction of the state, such as I should like, is quite likely to be undertaken by a conservative party such as the Labor party."

"A MOST IMMORAL LADY."
[ALTALKER.]

Produced by First National.
Directed by John Griffith Wray.
Presented at Grisada and Marbro theaters.

THE CAST.

Laura.....Leatrice Joy
Her Husband.....Sydney Blackmer
Her Lover.....Walter Pidgeon
Admirers.....
...Montagu Love and Robert Edeson
Her Girl Friend.....Josephine Dunn

"A Most Immoral Lady" was once a stage play starring Alice Brady.

As an altalker I found the piece interesting, though rather slow; thought Miss Joy's work pleasing though not distinguished by brilliance or originality; the performance and speech of Mr. Blackmer conscious and stilted at the start but improved later on; Walter Pidgeon and others satisfactory so far as lines and situations permitted them to be.

The story is about a lady [?] and her husband, who eke a living by luring middle aged millionaires into compromising situations and making them pay their way out. Love comes to the lady—who really isn't a bad sort at heart—and things go pretty hard for the lovely sinner. The picture ends with her and the One Man dancing together in Paris. She is divorced, and he, who had married on the rebound, about to be freed from galling bonds.

There's too much sameness about this piece. Folks enter and exit and chatter and that's about all there is to the thing except some singing by Miss Joy and Mr. Pidgeon which is pretty fair.

See you tomorrow.

Music Glints in Bright Colors, Partly Spanish

Mr. Stock's Program Gives Thrills to Critic.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

If it is possible to speak of music in terms of color and convey anything approaching a definite impression, most of yesterday afternoon's concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra would seem to have been a background of gold leaf with heavily splashed patches of scarlet and purple.

Four composers of four different nations and having no very obvious musical relationships with each other were represented. Yet in the matter of color and spirit they had a definite kinship. They rere Georg Schumann with his "Liebesfruehling" Overture; Cesar Franck with his only symphony that has been made public, though perhaps not the only one he composed; Achille Claude Debussy with his "Iberia"; and Igor Stravinsky with the suite extracted from his ballet, "The Fire Bird."

Here was a program calling for Mr. Stock and his men to step out and extend themselves, and how they did it! Perhaps one of the most interesting numbers of the afternoon was the Debussy, one reason being that it afforded a fresh contrast with another composition on the same subject played the week before, Ravel's "Rapsodie Espagnole."

Spain seems to have a strong and unending attraction for the musicians of other nations. Bizet wrote "Carmen" as a definite reproduction of Spanish music, but he was never in Spain in all his life. Rimsky-Korsakoff, a Russian, tried his hand on a "Capriccio Espagnol" for orchestra. There is little reason to believe that either Ravel or Debussy intended their Spanish pieces to be Spanish transcripts. In both cases it was the effect of Spanish music upon two sensitive musicians who liked Spanish music, and in both cases it echoed out as some of the most gracious and inviting music they ever wrote.

The orchestra's performance of the Debussy number yesterday was all in the mood of being gracious and inviting, too. In fact, the ability of this organization to react to the mood of music is quite on a par with its technical ability to play it. It was sturdy with the sturdiness of the Franck symphony, it shimmered through the Schumann work as though all the voices of spring were in its instruments.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question G. H. Quickel Jr., 614 West North street, Decatur, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

Should the purchaser of liquor be punished the same as the seller?

The Answers.

A. M. Angelo, 4943 Kenmore avenue, draftsman—No. It is a personal matter whether a person wishes to take a drink or let it alone. If he cares for it I think he should be permitted to have it. The majority of people do not abuse it or let it interfere with others.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tobannah, 445 West 56th street, housewife—Yes. Alcoholic beverages of today should not be made or sold. They are harmful to society, and it is against the law. The maker, the seller, the buyer, all are equally guilty. One reason is the stuff itself. Before prohibition there were not half the terrible things happening that there are now.

Gus Pearson, 2758 South Peoria street, news stand—None of them should be punished. They ought to let the public have what it wants, under proper regulations. The only way they can have prohibition is to mop up the atmosphere—water, clouds, and everything.

Miss Stephanie Drabeck, 4340 South Talman avenue, jewelry checker—Why should they be fined? It's a business, a business that they can't stop even with fines. It is being made here and there and everywhere, even in private homes. They cannot stop people from making it nor selling it nor buying it nor drinking it.

Vladimir Komlusan, 6 East Grand avenue, grocery clerk—Government laws and rules should be followed; whether they are wrong or right they should be obeyed. Prohibition is a more honest thing, a greater and better thing than liquor and lawlessness. I am opposed to the use of alcoholic beverages, unless prescribed by a competent physician.

Lincoln Park to Hold State History Shrine

Chicago Group to Have Charge of Building.

Framed in a colonial setting and located in one of the most magnificent sites in the city, what Gov. Louis L. Emmerson last night termed "the legend of Illinois" is to be popularised and perpetuated by the Chicago Historical society.

Plans for a new $1,500,000 home for the organization and its exhibits were announced last night at a meeting at the present building, at which the state's chief executive was the principal speaker.

Commendation and congratulation on both site and setting were forthcoming from William D. Saltiel, city attorney, representing Mayor Thompson; Eugene S. Taylor of the Chicago plan commission; President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university; Rowland Haynes, secretary of the University of Chicago; the Rev. Robert J. Kelley, president of Loyola university, and others.

Facing the St. Gaudens statue of Lincoln in Lincoln park, near the corner of North avenue and Clark street, the new museum will be 300 feet long and 175 fet wide, of red brick with white limestone or tile trimming, to harmonize with the style of the administration building at Center street.

It will have two stories and a basement and has been designed for the most efficient placing of exhibits and to eliminate the element of fatigue as much as possible.

Visitors will enter from the Dearborn street side, to find themselves in the main foyer, facing a colonial staircase that leads up to the second floor. The ground floor will contain a series of rooms arranged to take the visitor in chronological order through every stage of American history from the time of Columbus down to the present. The basement has been planned to contain a large lecture hall with a seating capacity of more than 500.

Illinois and Chicago exhibits will be confined to the second floor. There two large halls will extend on either side of a main hall, which will be known as the Lincoln room, to house the Chicago Historical society's valuable collection of Lincolnia. One of the larger halls will be known as the Pioneer room, and the other as the Chicago room. Relics of the Chicago of the past will be housed in the former, and of the city of the present in the latter. The future is also to be represented, with the help of the Chicago plan commission.

Smaller rooms will house special exhibits, such as the Chicago fire exhibit, the Gen. Grant exhibit, the Chicago World's Fair, and others of a similar nature.

"The entire state of Illinois," Gov. Emmerson told members of the society last night, "is indebted to the Chicago Historical society for having collected and preserved so many of the relics of the state as well as the city. It was largely through the example of this society that the Illinois State Historical society was formed. I wish you many years of luck in carrying on the legend of Illinois.

"Writers today have taken to disrobing our national heroes and belittling their characters. The story of Washington and the cherry tree probably is a legend, but why do away with a story that interests childhood and helps men and women to strengthen their own characters? Let us not think of George Rogers Clark as a man who carried a whisky flask, but as a hero who tramped through mire to his knees to serve his country. Similarly with Lincoln."

Charles B. Pike, president of the society, was host for a dinner at the Chicago club preceding the meeting for Gov. Emmerson and the other distinguished guests.

Christian Church Gets Congregational Merger Project

Piqua, O., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Approval of the plan advanced by the national council of Congregational churches for a merger with the general convention of the Christian church was recommended to the Christian denomination today by its president, Frank G. Coffin of Columbus, and other members of a commission which studied the proposal.

Presentation of the commission's report at a business session of the general convention today preceded a formal vote on the question.

The consolidation and the plan by which it can be effected was approved by the council of Congregational churches at its conference in Detroit last May. The some plan was placed before the delegates of the Christian denomination.

This plan calls for the uniting of the two denominations under the title of the General Council of the Congregational and Christian churches and contemplates a complete union as soon as the necessary legal steps can be taken. An invitation is extended to other evangelical groups to join the union and, if any accept, provision is made for a more inclusive title.

Each individual church and each group of churches under the consolidation plan would be free to retain and develop its own form of expression. The purpose of the general council would be to perform on behalf of the united churches the various functions heretofore exercised by the governing boards of both denominations.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

Another nine year old has put the old timers to shame!

Only this nine year old happens to be a new soy bean variety, "Illini," which was developed by plant breeders at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, in their efforts to give farmers of the state an improved variety.

Still young, even as soy beans go, the Illini already has proved to be a valuable addition to the list af varieties grown in Illinois. The nine year old variety has outyielded the best performers in tests made on the college farm, while farmers growing it reported that last year it made as high as 44 bushels an acre. Its popularity with farmers has been further increased by its earliness, erectness, ability to hold seeds well, ease of harvesting and thrashing, and excellent quality of seed.

The new variety was developed from a single plant selection made from the A. K. variety in the fall of 1920. For a time the new line was designated as A. K. 3. The Illini is primarily a seed type, is early maturing, with a season of about 105 days, stands well, and holds its seed well. Aside from its high yielding ability, the Illini has an oil content which compares favorably with other varieties. As an average of five years it gave an analysis of 19.78 per cent, as compared to 18.54 for the Manchu.

The new line seems to be best adapted to the central part of Illinois, although it does fairly well in the south central part of the state. In these sections it matures about the same time as, or a little earlier than, the Manchu. It is a little too late for best results in the northern part of the state. The new bean seems to do best on a soil which is in a fair state of fertility. There is limited evidence that it responds readily to soil treatment. Wide variations in soil and climatic conditions in Illinois make it difficult, if not impossible, to outline definitely the sections and soils to which the new variety is adapted, the circular points out.

Mary Jane was spending the day with my children and had to return to her home at 4 o'clock. When I told her it was time to go she was surprised and said, "Well, that's the funniest clock I ever saw."

Two Chicago Girls to Wed Eastern Men

BY THALIA

Two interesting engagement announcements, both of Chicago girls becoming affianced to eastern men, are disclosed this morning.

The news about Miss Helen Farnum's engagement to John Ripley Pigsiow of New York precedes the Farnums, who have been at their summer place, Sun Dial cottage, at Magnolia, Mass., to Chicago. The other betrothal is that of Miss Alice Washburn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Murray Washburn of 454 Belmont avenue, to Howard Bosworth Churchill of Albany, N. Y.

Miss Farnum's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Farnum, are to make formal announcement of her engagement at a dinner in New York tonight. She went to Miss Walker's school at Simsbury, Conn., and to Smith college, and made her debut a year or so ago, the same season, if I remember rightly, that her cousin, Katherine Drake, came out. Mr. Pigsiow attended St. Mark's and Princeton. No wedding date is mentioned.

Miss Washburn went to Pine Manor at Wellesley and made her debut last year at a tea the Washburns gave at the Casino. Her fiancé is a graduate of St. Lawrence university in New York state. Their wedding is to take place next spring.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Philip L. Reed, Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman, Mrs. Clarence T. Seipp, Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, and Mrs. Franklin C. Browne are among the women taking groups of children to the Goodman theater this morning for the performance of Tony Sarg's marionettes.

The Jane Addams room in the new Chicago Woman's club will be opened for the first time today for the annual luncheon and meeting of the Chicago Rockford College association. Miss Addams, who is a graduate of Rockford, will speak on "The College Woman in Europe and the United States." William F. English Jr. will tell of the college development program.

The Junior Friends of Art announce that their opening meeting of the season is to be "Our Mothers' Day." The program, to be given at the Blackstone hotel next Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock includes Mme. Claire Dux, who is to sing; Ethel Barrymore, who is to deliver greetings; Samuel Insull, who is to speak on "Chicago's Progress in Opera," and Fritz Leiber, who will give a lecture on "Shakespeare," and after all of this, tea.

Miss Elizabeth Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Stanley Parker of Winnetka, will be presented to society this afternoon at a tea and reception to be given by her parents at their residence. Assisting the debutante will be Helen Bell, Carol and Emeline Bush, Elizabeth Durham, Virginia Hobart, Joy Fairman, Marianna Ruffner, Marianne Stevenson, Winifred McKeown, Emily Pope, Janet Kirk, Margaret Emily Lynde, Ruth Fisher, Grace Dewes, and Elizabeth Williamson. Mr. and Mrs. Parker W. give a dinner-dance this evening at the Tavern club for their daughter and her assistants.

Owing to illness, Mr. and Mrs. Chalkley Jay Hambleton of 46 East Elm street have postponed their debut tea for their daughter, Miss Jessica Hambleton, from Nov. 2 to Nov. 29. The affair is to be at the Fortnightly.

It seems that the Margaret Ayer Barnes dramatization of "The Age of Innocence" is not to be at the Harris theater, as we announced yesterday in telling about the plans being made by the women's board of the Chicago Lying-In hospital for the benefit on Nov. 18, but at the Selwyn theater, next door, as Ethel Barrymore's "The Kingdom of God" is having its stay lengthened.

Mrs. Harry Spenser-Brown, who has been in France for the last 6 months at her Paris residence, and visiting her daughter, Comtesse de Gramedo, at Chateau de Ranville, near Deauville, has returned to the Ambassador for the winter. Her daughter, Mrs. Charles Counselman of New York City, will be on later for a visit with her mother, and possibly Comtesse de Gramedo will come, too, to join her here for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Forsythe Sherfesee are expected to arrive in Chicago on Friday, Nov. 8, and will stay at the Lake Shore Drive hotel during their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock and Miss Muriel McCormick arrived in Chicago this week to remain only until the middle of November, when they will go to Florida for the winter. Mr. McKinlock has been traveling in China, and Mrs. McKinlock and Miss McCormick have been at Upper St. Regis lake in New York.

Miss Anne Washington Perine of Baltimore, Md., arrives at the Great Lakes Naval Training station today to be the guest of her cousins, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Walter S. Crosley. Miss Perine made her debut last fall, and has been presented at the Court of St. James's. She is a direct descendant of John Augustin Washington, brother of Gen. George Washington.

Trust Your Boy and Girl and Let Them Know It

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

"Sex Education Booklet" by Mrs. Bevans will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Do you trust your little girl or boy—your big girl or boy? Good. But—

Do you let them know you trust them? Do you let them know that you're sure they'll keep their word, that they act the same when you're away as when you're with them, that they tell the truth?

You know they have faith in you, you've built that up. They show that they have it in every act of their daily life. But being children, they don't express it.

Your relation toward them, however, is different. You're helping them to build up in themselves stability, character. You're consciously implanting in them a love for truth, for directness, for honesty, for the integrity of their word, though they don't know it. Of course, you don't sermonize. You don't deliberately assure them of your belief in them. But occasions will arise that will give you the opportunity to show your complete trust in them, even to trust in their judgment.

Some of the occasions I mean are those in which the word of some one else, perhaps an adult's, is pitted against your child's. Now there's a prevalent and rather stupid saying, "You can't take a child's word for anything." And so, many parents will give credence to the word of a grown person, just because it is the word of a grown person.

Adults can be amazingly inaccurate, and even malicious, where children are concerned. They can be angry and say more than they mean and more than is true, then cool off and be ashamed to take back what they've said. Or they can fail to read children.

One mother was telling me of her little girl who stayed every day with a group of children. One day she received a telephone call from her neighbor, who said, "Molly wants you to come and get her. She says she's sick, but I think she just wants to go home and she's trying to put something over on me." The mother got her small daughter, and for the three succeeding days she was ill in bed. "I didn't want Molly to be sick," she said, "but I was glad to have Mrs. ——— see that she was wrong in her judgment of the child."

I don't say, be stupid and blind to your child's faults. But if you know that certain qualities are his, then trust him. And let him know you do, by deed and word.

"If you say you didn't do it, why, I know you didn't."

"Of course, I believe you."

"Yes, I'll leave your papers as they are till you get back, just as you don't touch my work when it's scattered around." In this or some other way let them know you trust them.

Let the Wind Blow Through Your Worries and Don't Lose Weight

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

As one thin girl to another thin girl, Elizabeth says it is all right to talk about diet and elimination as causes of weight loss, but in her opinion, as well as in her individual case, more angles are created from senseless worries than from wrong food or faulty elimination.

There is nothing, and Elizabeth is emphatic about this, that will prevent assimilation like nursing a worry.

"I could always let the boys guess my weight, knowing I wouldn't have to pay the bet. I was thin and glad of it, plumb full of energy and loved to hear the whistle blow in the morning. But that was before I met Mr. Worry. I was 108 then, which was quite a nice stylish slim proportion for me, at the time. In three years with the aid of a worrying disease, I got down to 83 pounds and to save my life I couldn't get up to 90.

"I did have some real cause, but of minor character compared to the way I felt and looked. I consulted three leading physicians in the city, in fact, ran the same gamut I would have had to go through at a Mayo's examination, but not until I finally got to the place where I could really sit at one side, as it were, and take stock of my case, did I commence to come back.

"Worry has gone. It can be made to get out of your system. I've proved it. Only as late as a week ago something happened that formerly was good for at least a week's upset [and it is an honest-to-goodness cause] but I didn't WORRY. Instead I said to myself: 'I can't help this thing. It's beyond my power to regulate; I'm sorry, disappointed—yes, disgusted.' Then I put on my prettiest clothes and went out and busied my mind with other things and forgot. And the scales today said 108 again."

The truth of the matter is that it is what worry does to the digestion that causes the trouble; what it does to one's normal quota of sleeping hours and what it does to the systematic procedure with life. That old prescription of taking your worries out for a three mile walk and letting the fresh air blow in on them can't be improved, with all of our modern nerve complaint research.

Pi Theta Gamma Sorority Opens Convention Today

Pi Theta Gamma sorority will open its annual convention this afternoon with a luncheon and bridge at the Congress hotel. A business meeting and election of officers will be held on Monday evening and the convention will close on Tuesday with a dinner and installation of officers. Miss Florence Burgess of Beta chapter is in charge of arrangements.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

H. L.: THE GLYCERIN AND ROSEwater preparation for the hands is a good one. One-third glycerin to two-thirds rosewater. Plain water may be substituted for the rosewater and five drops of carbolic acid to two gills of the mixture will improve it. Wipe off after using. Use no more than the five drops of carbolic acid.

T. R.: ALCOHOL OR VINEGAR IS soothing to the feet. If your feet are tender give them a cold spray every morning. Turn on the faucet full strength, dry thoroughly with a bath towel, paying particular attention to the spaces between the toes. Wear properly fitted shoes, as ill fitting shoes are responsible for much foot trouble.

No Job Is Really Secure, So Wise Gals Save for a Rainy Day

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In a letter from a friend, commenting on a third person known to us quite well a few years ago, it was said: "Now, there's a case of a girl who felt herself so securely set in her steady job that she spent her salary without a thought of the day when there might be no salary. Think of it, after fifteen years of steady earning, today she is down and out, with not a nickel to her name, and contemplating taking as a last resort a job which barely covers room, board and the plain necessities of living!"

My friend added a comment on the fact that the woman [no longer girl] had had few responsibilities of a financial nature, unlike the average earner. Her mother passed on a few years after she started working, so for ten years, anyway, there has been no one but herself to be taken care of.

Consistently, with this drifting type of character, those years were not ripe with constructive study of a nature that might be turned to us now. "Reviewing her present status," my friend writes, "she reminds me of other women who are inclined to give everything to a job so that they become so one minded that if they lose out in one place they are not prepared to take up other work."

Since marriage is the thing of postponement or unpopularity, you might say, among so many women workers, that day of possible difficulty in securing another job is well worth bearing in mind. Even though the calamity might never happen if it serves to put the fear of enforced dependence on others it were well worth entertaining.

In the face of warnings that have been administered to men workers for years and years, women somehow have nursed the delusion that their fate will be different. Perhaps it is a hangover from the days when a place was found for women, disagreeable though it often was, in the homes of relatives. Anyway, they are often foolishly gullible about being taken care of by somebody. They must proceed on this theory, or why wouldn't they see to protection for their later years? Relatives, nowadays, have neither the homes nor the disposition to house dependent females and the flaunted independence of a woman itself precludes any revival of the old time custom.

When you are earning is the time to put aside something for the lean days. The only security about a job that you can count on is the security achieved through systematic weekly saving.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Roasted Guinea Hen.

When we have looked at the grander menus of this season we have seen mainly the breasts of guinea hens listed amongst the meats. It has come to be more and more the fashion to use these fowls in the summer, when they are young and fat, presumably, but in autumn, too, they are in excellent condition, and then we know how frequently they appear in winter time nowadays, or in some sections at that season only, so they are becoming a year around meat.

There is a good deal of cooking lore connected with cooking guinea fowls, or pea hens. Some people roast them to make imitation pheasant, larding and trussing them like the pheasant, etc.

One way to get a fine roasted guinea hen is to cook it in a deep broiling oven, in which the heat can be well managed. Clean and prepare this like any chicken, and truss or use skewers. Use an onion dressing, if any, for the reason that it does not absorb the juices of the fowl, but does season it. The meat, however, will be superior in broiling oven roasting if no dressing is used, in which case put an onion or two and some celery leaves in the fowl, rubbing the inside first carefully with a small amount of salt and using none besides. For further seasonings, a collection of chopped or finely sliced vegetables may be put in the pan. This may include carrot, onion, celery, green pepper, and a sour apple.

A little candied ginger root chopped is also good, and when a clove of garlic is blended with the other flavors its own characteristic flavor is lost in the final perfection; but instead of using it this way the fowl may be rubbed with a cut end of a clove of garlic just before it is put to cook.

To make this more like the pheasant, which is usually larded, we may put a thin blanket of salt pork over the fowl, then set it on a small rack over the vegetables. Just before it is put into the oven, pour over it, especially if the blanket of fat is not used, one-fourth of a cup of hot fat, which may be partly salt pork fat.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

If you want a useful, smart looking frock for general daytime wear the dress sketched is just the thing. The side closing bodice and the hip yoke draped to one side with a bow trimming, give the desired vertical line. The neckline is unusually soft and pretty, finished with a scalloped collar of a contrasting color, and the idea is repeated in the turn-back scalloped cuffs. The skirt has circular fullness all around. Crêpe marocain, crêpe satin, supple tweed, Canton crêpe and crêpe are among the suitable materials.

The pattern, 2934, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 40 inch material, with ⅛ yard of 36 inch contrasting.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully] for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 347 Park avenue, New York City.

The Waist Line Is Open to Suggestion

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Yes, every waistline in the world is singing, "Home, Sweet Home." But, though these have decided unanimously on the disadvantages of travel, there is apparent difficulty in the situation. Just exactly where is "Home" for the waistline? One woman may be constructed with a long waist and another with a "normal" line that is well up under the arms.

To meet this difficulty, one of our leading specialty shops has installed a new system. Each of the creations exploited by this shop makes the waistline adjustable to alteration. In this way all the models are sure fire. They are bound to hit the individual waist of the wearer.

One thing is certain. In nearly all of the ensembles of today the belt—or whatever indication of the waistline exists—coincides with that of the accompanying frock. This is brought out once more by the stunning Worth ensemble which is sketched today. This is truly a regal creation and before we go into details let us remark once more on the partiality shown to the short wrap in the evening ensemble. Of fur, of self material or occasionally of contrasting fabric, these short wraps are decidedly in the most fashionable spirit of the most fashionable evenings.

This ensemble makes both gown and wrap of a gorgeous, old rose, royal blue and gold brocade. The former is made with a raised waistline echoed by the wrap. The latter, lined with royal blue velvet, makes a scarf in one with the side of the garment and does a very unusual trick in the cuff.

The latter coils round and round the lower arm the skins of sables so that the top leaves two ends falling loose from the arm. The narrow belt of the gown is inset.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No Manuscripts returned.

Not So Helpful.

I am a stenographer in a big law office. One of the lawyers dictated a legal form and, not knowing the name of a particular judge, he dictated "Judge Blank," meaning to leave a blank space. Thinking to be of some good help, I looked in the directory for a "Judge Blank" and found one. I then went to him and asked if that was the correct "Judge Blank." Needless to say, he had a good laugh.

N. O.

An Unexpected Return.

Being the only girl in an office has its embarrassing moments. I came back from lunch one day and found both bosses had gone out. Thinking they would be gone for quite some time [they generally do] I started to play solitaire. I had become engrossed in the game so much that I did not hear the office door open and when I did look up, who should be standing watching me but the Big Boss.

Embarrassed! And how! E. K.

LAUD GEN. KNOX AT SCHOOL WHICH BEARS HIS NAME

College Speakers Recall Deeds of Hero.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Tracing back to revolutionary war days, Knox college this afternoon paid heartfelt honor to the man from whom it derived its name, Gen. Henry Knox. In ceremonies at Beecher chapel the accomplishments of the general who was George Washington's chief of artillery and later a member of his cabinet were described and lauded.

Dr. Henry Thatcher Fowler of Providence, R. I., formerly an instructor here but now on the faculty of Brown university, was the principal speaker.

Moving of Artillery Recalled.

As Washington's right hand man Knox was responsible for the success of many campaigns, Dr. Fowler said. His first outstanding accomplishment was the moving of 60 tons of artillery through the wilderness from Fort Ticonderoga to the vicinity of Boston. This achievement forced the British evacuation of Boston. State governments of New York and Massachusetts have commemorated the feat by placing granite monuments along the route.

Dr. Fowler also pointed to Gen. Knox's success in moving the colonial forces and field pieces across the ice choked Delaware.

Knox is called the "Father of Presidedpass" in the United States because of his plans for military training camps and the military school that later became West Point. It was 100 years from the time he outlined his training camp ideas that they were put into practice, but even at the later date they proved practical, Dr. Fowler said.

School Founders Praised.

Dr. Fowler praised the founders of Knox college for naming the school after a man from whom there was no hope for material endowment. He had been dead 30 years when the school was chartered in 1837.

"They planned an institution designed to inspire and train youth for high effort, courageous achievement and noble vision; they chose the name of one who never lost the buoyant hope and fair vision of youth and yet met the immediate task with all his power concentrated," Dr. Fowler said.

A long procession was formed after the chapel exercises and, headed by the Knox R. O. T. C. cadets and their band, marched to a huge elm on the campus where Prof. Alfred Newcombe presided at exercises in which the tree was dedicated to Gen. Knox.

Prof. Newcombe spent his boyhood days in Knox county, Maine, near the home in which the general lived after his retirement from the cabinet. He spoke of the general's rise to fame.

DOCTOR TESTIFIES FOR TWO ACCUSED OF BOMB MAKING

Dr. Eugene Chesrow, 1001 South Ashland boulevard, testified yesterday in behalf of Carl Oliviero and Joseph Cerra, alleged bomb makers, who claim that they were beaten by the police to obtain confessions. They are on trial in Judge Harry Lewis' court charged with the manufacture and possession of bombs.

Dr. Chesrow testified to bruises suffered by Oliviero, supposedly at the hands of the police. He examined Oliviero, the physician said, two days after the defendant was released on bonds. After Dr. Cherow had finished his testimony, William Gillispie, an interne at the Mother Cabrini hospital, was called to the stand. He surprised listeners by saying that the hospital records of the case were not made until several months after Oliviero was a patient at the hospital. The record did not show that Oliviero had the bruises claimed.

It was once ruled in the Criminal court that the confessions were obtained under police duress and were not admissible as evidence. First Assistant State's Attorney Northup obtained a new indictment and is now making another effort to have the confessions admitted as evidence.

Evanston Woman Fined for Hitting Same Auto Twice

Miss Pauline Stacia, 1822 Crain street, Evanston, was fined $75 by Justice Harry H. Porter of Evanston yesterday on charges of reckless driving, growing out of two collisions with the same car. On Oct. 14, her automobile struck one owned by Peter Pennacchia, 3135 Dewey avenue, Evanston, as it was being towed to a garage. She fled and several hours later, after Pennacchia's car had been repaired, she struck it again. He captured her, but she gave him a fictitious name and address, and she was not found by police until yesterday, the license of her automobile having been issued to another make of car.

LA GRANGE VOTES IN SUNDAY MOVIES AFTER HOT FIGHT

Sunday movies were approved by the citizens of La Grange yesterday by a majority of 155 votes in the second referendum on the question in the last three years. The vote was 1,809 for Sunday movies and 1,654 against.

The election followed a spirited campaign in which churches and civic clubs joined in opposition to the movies, carrying on their fight under the name of the La Grange Association Opposed to Sunday Movies, an organization of which the Rev. Clifford Newham was the leader.

Banners of protest against the opening of the one theater in the village as the first step toward "a wide open town" were carried by school children and automobiles bore placards asking: "Why did you move to La Grange? Cicero has Sunday movies." The anti-movie campaign was climaxed by a parade on Thursday evening.

Sunday movies were banned three years ago by a vote of two to one, but yesterday's special election was called on a petition circulated by A. C. Dallach, owner of the building in which the theater is located.

PURDUE FAVORED TO TROUNCE CHICAGO TODAY

ILLINI PLAY MICHIGAN BEFORE 50,000 HOMECOMERS

VISITORS SEEK VICTORY WITH REVISED LINEUP

45 Happy Girls

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Regardless of whether the Illini win or lose their football game with the Army Nov. 9, there are going to be 45 happy girls on the University of Illinois campus that night.

In planning an entertainment for visiting West Point gridders, the university athletic department has found that it needs 45 girls for the special dance following the game. Each sorority on the campus will select one girl to represent it at the dance.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 25.—Illinois' big white amateurs [see Carnegie foundation report] will meet Michigan's invading stalwarts tomorrow afternoon at Memorial stadium before 50,000 homecoming spectators. The Illini would be favorites to win in betting circles if conference colleges had betting circles. That is, they would be favorites with all except Coach Juneke, who expresses that doubt and uncertainty incumbent upon a coach to express.

Michigan is the one eleven in the conference which the Illini would like not to defeat. This is because rivalry is not only in football, but extends to practically all branches of athletic competition. When these elevens met at Ann Arbor last fall, Illinois had not lost a game in two years. Michigan had lost one non-conference game and three conference contests.

Remember Last Year?

Illinois in that game was not exactly overconfident because Zuppke would not become overconfident. But the players were at least self-confident or self-satisfied or any words you choose which mean that. Although two back field men were on the injured list, Michigan, playing better than at any previous time, won a bitterly fought struggle, 3 to 0, when Fritz Peters desperately attempted a field kick from a prodigious distance to tie the count, hit the crossbar and bounced on the wrong side.

Now Michigan has lost two conference struggles, in one of which poor sportsmanship was costly, and in the other of which a forward pass prevailed against them, although the Wolverines outgained its opponents from scrimmage nearly three to one.

Illinois tied with Iowa, its only conference opponent, last Saturday. On form, the Kipkeites of this year have a better chance than the Wolverines of last year. Yet those who figure the gridiron results on psychology think Illinois will be fighting harder tomorrow than at any time this season unless against the Army on Nov. 9. Dr. Coppke, that eminent psychologist, says: "When you have nine seniors in a starting lineup you don't know what's going to happen. Players can be keyed up about so many times. There's just so much emotional energy in a chap and our fellows have been keyed so many times I wonder whether there's any emotional energy left. Why, they won't even tackle the scrubs or fall on the ball in practice. They say the ground is too hard or it's too wet. They say, well, do it in the game. Well, I hope they will."

Ten from Illinois Schools.

Of the nine seniors, veterans of the last two successive championships, and two sophomores, will be in the opening lineup. Frosty Peters, field general and kicking ace, has a fractured rib as a memento of the Hawkeye struggle which is expected to keep him out unless he is sent in at some period for a bit of kicking. Mills will be at the quarter back post. The seniors are Capt. Gordon, Wietz, Capt. Crane, Kawal, Mills, Timm, Walker, and Burdick.

Of the eleven starters, ten are from Illinois prep schools, making it an all-Illinois eleven with the exception of Judd Timm, flashy half back, who hails from Idaho. Of these eleven, seven are from Chicago prep schools, Gordon, Kawal, Crane, and Burdick. Champaign and Urbana fraternity and sorority houses are emblazoned with orange and Michigan colors and those other decorative features which make an Illinois homecoming an event long to be remembered by those previously unacquainted with it.

Hello, Friends!

Greetings to Wakers who became Wake-Liners during our six weeks' absence from these sporting pages. We're glad to be home with you, to sit in the same old chair, and to smoke the same old corncob pipe. As soon as we get settled down a bit, we'll resume those visits we formerly had clustered around in our little family circle. And there is so much football to talk about and so many things we want to say to you, and so many things we hope you want to say to us. Let's start right in where we left off.

ARMY ADVANCES ON NEW HAVEN FOR YALE GAME

Cadets Favored in 29th Grid Meeting.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 25.—The Army football team which found its power in the rough and tumble tie game with Harvard last week and the Yale team which has yet to make a similar discovery, will meet in the Yale bowl Saturday afternoon, carrying on a pleasant feud which began some years before any of the present combatants were born.

This will be the twenty-ninth Army-Yale game since 1893. The general supposition is that the Army will win for the sixth time because the cadets, in the latter half of their game, pushed the sturdy Harvard chaps resolutely out of their way.

The Army line is composed of six foot soldiers in all positions but one, the exception being Loren Hillsinger of Syracuse, N. Y., at right guard, who parts his hair only five feet ten inches above the ground. He is also the lightest man on the front, weighing 175 pounds, and this array of virility from end to end is held in great respect in these parts at this time. However, performance rather than measurements and statistics accounts for this reputation.

Walsh Coaches Yale Line.

The altitude of the Yale line dips under six feet in three positions of the starting lineup, but the average weight of these boys is about 187 pounds, only one pound less than the average weight of the Army line. But up to this time they have inspired no noticeable awe in this football community, notwithstanding the diligent coaching of Adam Walsh, the great Notre Dame center of recent fame.

Yale's line was the weakness of the team throughout the unhappy season of 1928, and for all the boys have shown to the contrary thus far this year that's their weakness now. Moreover, their coach, Mr. Mal Ste-

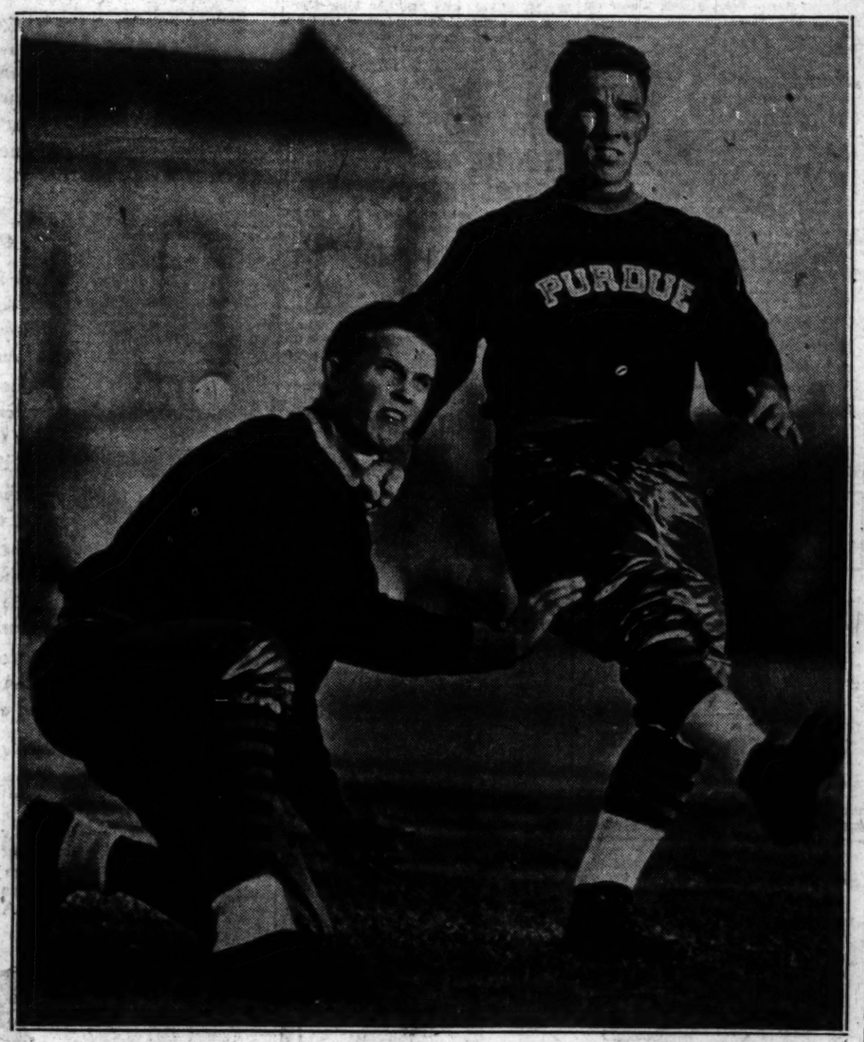
Decision Angers Fans; Police Protect Referee

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Tommy Grogan of Omaha won a referee's decision over Lope Tenorio, Filipino, in a ten round bout tonight. The referee, Harry Reed of Lincoln, Neb., had to be escorted from the ring by a police squad, as the crowd booed and hissed the decision.

TAKING A KICK AT CHICAGO



John White, Purdue quarter back, has just gone and booted the ball which Glenn Harmeson, versatile Boilermaker back, has been holding for him in practice at Stagg field. They're just two more reasons why "Stagg fears Purdue" in the annual battle on the Midway today. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

ROCKNE DIRECTS N. DAME BATTLE WITH CARNEGIE

70,000 Will See Irish in Revenge Effort.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 25. — They rolled Mr. Knute Rockne, the Notre Dame football strategist, into town this morning on a wheel chair. They'll roll him out of town the same way tomorrow night, at least as far as the station.

In the interval, however, the ailing coach of the Irish expects to see his horde of gridders sweep across the Pitt arena, carrying in front of them the forces mustered by Carnegie Tech tomorrow afternoon. The motive behind the expectations by Rockne is revenge for what the Scots did to him a year ago at South Bend.

Even the most sanguine of those who will be among the 70,000 spectators in the hill side arena concede that Rockne has an excellent chance to attain what he seeks. The Scots are still feeling around in the dark. They have done nothing against even average opposition. They haven't found themselves as a team, although several of the members rate as outstanding.

Against this Rockne can match as many good men as Grimm had fairy tales and as Notre Dame has a defeat to avenge, it is safe to bet the bottom dollar of the pile that if possible the score will be large and the battling unduly strenuous.

Rosie to Start at End.

As usual, Rockne did not wish to be pressed about his starting lineup. While he was being exercised in his wheel chair today he remarked that his kickoff selections would depend on the weather. This means that if it is clear and cool he'll start his shock troops. If it is raining or snowing he will start his shock troops. In other words, Rockne is going to start his shock troops, or at least several of them, regardless of all conditions.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago's Maroons and Purdue's Boilermakers, two groups of earnest young men who have not tasted the dregs of defeat this football season, will oppose each other at Stagg field this afternoon.

The turf will be dry and firm, providing there is no further funny business on the part of the weather man, a circumstance which is hailed by Coach Phelan as something of an unexpected blessing from the Purdue point of view. Pest Welch, Glenn Harmeson, Eb Caraway and Alex Yunevich, the Old Gold and Black's speedsters, like little moisture on the greens when they do their stuff.

Yunevich in Doubt.

Both ball clubs worked out yesterday, the Maroons on their regular practice lot and the Boilermakers on Stagg field. The workout left only one question as to the starting lineups. It was not certain that Yunevich would be ready to start at full back for the visitors. In the event Phelan withholds the man who made three touchdowns in the fourth quarter of the game against Michigan, Howard Kissell will be at right half and Welch will move to full back.

It was announced that Burgess and Wattenberg, injured Maroon full backs, positively would not be present at the opening kickoff.

Betting on the Midway, if there was betting on the Midway, was said to be based on the premise that Purdue is two touchdowns better than the Maroons. It also was said that the Chicago hopes would be based on the chances of rushing the Purdue warriors off their feet in the early stages of the game and then settling down to the enterprise of stopping the fast Purdue back field.

Purdue Boys Out to Repeat.

In the game this afternoon the Purdue boys are seeking to make it three out of four against the Maroons and further balance the lopsided all time record, which shows Chicago to have won 27 games while Purdue was winning six. Two of the Boilermakers' total have been won in the last three years.

Last year the score was Purdue, 40; Chicago, 0, but the year before an overconfident Purdue outfit, still gloating over a 19 to 0 victory over Harvard, took a 7 to 6 trimming from the Maroons. In 1926 Cotton Wilcox and his Purdue mates bested the Stagg players, 6 to 0.

Four boys from the Chicago neighborhood will be in the Purdue lineup at the kickoff—George Stears of Chicago, Bill Mackie of Chicago, Red Sleight of Morris, and H. J. Buttner of Hammond.

The Purdue band and 2,000 rooters will arrive at Englewood station on a special train at 11:30 o'clock. It was estimated that several thousand additional fans would arrive by automobile.

Governor Addresses Alumni.

Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana, a backfield man on the Purdue football teams of 25 years ago, was a speaker last night at the nineteenth annual football banquet of Purdue alumni preceding the Purdue-Chicago game. It was held at the Congress hotel with 200 guests attending.

Dr. Edward C. Elliott, president of the university, and Coach Phelan and his staff were present. Allen M. James is president of the Purdue Association of Chicago.

Gov. Leslie was a member of the squad at the time of the train wreck in 1903 in which 16 students including 11 of the players, were killed.

WISCONSIN, IOWA BATTLE FOR FIRST BIG 10 WIN TODAY

40,000 to See Old Rivals Meet at Madison.

Pape Ruled Eligible

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Oran Pape, University of Iowa half back, was declared eligible today to play in the Wisconsin game at Madison tomorrow. The Hawkeye eligibility committee at its meeting today found no evidence to connect Pape with two semi-pro games played by the Dubuque Bears in 1926.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

What promises to be one of the most stubbornly fought struggles of the Western conference season will take place at Madison today, when Iowa and Wisconsin will meet in their annual game on Camp Randall field.

It will be Dads' day and a gathering of at least 40,000 is expected. Although the Cardinal has lost to Northwestern and Notre Dame, its supporters have not lost faith in the team. With only one conference defeat to blot its record, Wisconsin cannot be counted out of the running for the title.

According to advices from Madison last night, bright weather and a perfect field are promised for the game today.

Coach Shifts Players.

Thistlethwaite has been experimenting all week, shifting his players to possible.

If Lusby starts, punting will be an important factor. Wisconsin should have an advantage, judging from the way Lusby kicked against Notre Dame. Capt. Glassgow of Iowa is not a long punter, but he generally manages to get his kicks away.

Nearly all real football battles are decided along the line, and this is not expected to be an exception. From tackle to tackle Iowa has one of the best forward walls in the conference. Westra at left tackle is one of the leading linesmen in the west. Ely, the other tackle.

Roberts and Meyers are dependable guards and Magnussen is a reliable center. The latter knows when to play in a roving position and when to drop into his position in the line.

Rogge and Reedquist are a reliable pair of ends. They have covered punts and kick-offs satisfactorily this season and always follow the play around behind the scrimmage line when the runner goes around the other end.

Capt. Glassgow, one of the leading backs in the conference, will be at his old position at right half back, with Farroh at the other half back position. Thomas will start at full back with Pignatelli at quarter back.

Capt. Parks at Guard.

Coach Thistlethwaite probably knows his starting lineup, but will not announce it positively until game time. Capt. Parks probably will start at right guard. The Cardinal leader is an aggressive player and is seldom kept out of plays. Behr will call the signals from the quarter back position and Oman, who played well in the last quarter of the Notre Dame game, may start in one of the back positions. Lusby, because of his kicking, may be the choice for the other half back berth and either Gnabah or Hal Rebholtz will be at full back. Pacetti, Russ Rebholtz, Bach, and Rye may see service in the back field.

CRANE, Y. M. C. A. COLLEGES PLAY SCORELESS TIE

A nonconference football combat between Crane and the Chicago Y. M. C. A. college resulted in a scoreless tie at Mills stadium yesterday. Crane threatened to score in the third quarter, but lost the ball on downs on the enemy 1 yard line.

In the first half, Welting, for the Y. M. C. A. team, made several spectacular end runs. The lineup:

HAYMAKER JABS HOME IN AURORA MUD THRILLER

BY FRENCH LANE.

A field of $2,000 top and bottom selling platers clashed in the feature race over the heavy Aurora course yesterday, but when Haymaker got the decision by a head over Thrace they provided as good a contest as stake horses usually turn in.

Haymaker and Thrace were the two heavily backed choices, Thrace having a few more supporters than Haymaker. The other four starters never figured in the battle, for the two leaders were fighting it out all the way. Haymaker at one second was in the lead, and in a few strides Thrace would get his nose in front.

Wins By a Head.

In midstretch the Thrace backers sent up a mighty cheer and the Haymaker supporters lost heart when Thrace sailed into a lead of a length which it seemed would surely bring him the victory.

Jockey R. Deperini was out in the middle of the track on Haymaker. He called on the son of Dominat-Queel for one more rally. The colt responded and got up just in time to drop his head down in front in the most thrilling ding dong finish of the fall season here.

The track was so heavy Haymaker spent a minute and 51 seconds running the mile and seventy yards. The trip ordinarily should have been completed about eight seconds earlier. In the betting Haymaker paid $24.48. Aviation, a one time stake horse, was third, while Shady Rest staggered home in fourth place.

Favorites were bowled over all afternoon, Fay Hamilton at 14 to 1 started the parade of long shots.

The second best race was the mile and seventy yards fourth event. Eager Play was the outsider to come marching homes and he never left the result in doubt.

Brydear Splashes Home.

Brydear, a noted mud runner from down in central Illinois, owned by W. M. Mikel, was another long shot to score handily. He splashed mud in the faces of eight other starters in the mile and a sixteenth sixth race, and by a good rally in the stretch downed Mollie Dear, the favorite, by four lengths, with Agnes Wynn third. Brydear was at nearly 15 to 1 in the betting.

SUN BEAU MEETS MISSTEP TODAY IN $25,000 RACE

Laurel, Md., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The distance running turf championship of Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau swayed in the balance tonight as twelve of America's best route performers eagerly awaited the bugle blast, calling them forth to battle in the $25,000 added Washington handicap tomorrow.

With the promise of a fast track over the mile and a quarter Laurel course, Sun Beau will have to extend himself if he is to keep his title safe from the challenging field of ranking 3 year olds, as well as the outstanding adults of the thoroughbred world. Because of his recent triumphs, including the Hawthorne gold cup, the Kilmer 4 year old has been allotted the top weight of 125 pounds.

Three pounds under the champion comes the Le Mar Stock farm's Misstep, the pride of the west and ranking contender for Sun Beau's laurels. If the race runs true to the form players it will be strictly a two horse battle between Misstep and Sun Beau.

A totally new-process gasoline

POWER . . . MILEAGE . . .
ANTI-KNOCK QUALITY

Refined by a unique new process. Different from any gasoline you've tried—a difference you can feel in the first tankful.

Try it! You are the real judge

PUROL-PEP has registered with the motorists of the country in ten days. Not in all our experience have we seen anything like this response to the announcement of a new gasoline.

That's explained by the fact that Purol-Pep is a radically new product. New in process—new in results.

A different gasoline offered you in a different way

There is nothing remotely like Purol-Pep because this new Gyro Vapor-phase process has never before been employed in gasoline refining. Over three million dollars were spent by The Pure Oil Company to perfect it.

Ninety-nine out of a hundred motorists know pep when they feel it . . . hill-climbing ability when they see it . . . power when they experience it . . . and anti-knock quality when the knock is absent.

If these qualities do not exist—you are the first to know it. All the superlative claims possible cannot change that.

It is the belief of The Pure Oil Company that superlatives have had their day. It is time for a gasoline that can speak for itself in terms of pep . . . power . . . hill-climbing ability and anti-knock quality.

Purol-Pep—the totally new-process gasoline—is such a fuel. And every motorist who uses one tankful will understand exactly what we mean.

Try it! It sells itself!

You're the judge! Fill your tank with Purol-Pep. Give it time to get through the carburetor. You'll get the thrill of all your driving experience. Purol-Pep is a pure petroleum product colored blue for identification only. You can get it from the white pumps at Purol blue and white Service Stations and authorized dealers. ched.

coaches of the country, Glenn ner of Stanford, and Howard
, Southern California, will be on display.
On the line, the Trojans will have a ght advantage, 196 pounds average t for the Cardinals. Stanford's ding back field averages 187 ds to 186 pounds for Southern fornia.
Although the more optimistic

e University of California's Bears,

Bears Take on Olympics.

While Stanford and Southern Calinia are fighting it out, California's ars will take on the strong Olympic b team at Berkeley. Stanford deated the club eleven, 6 to 0, so the ults tomorrow may give a line on California's comparative strength.

RED JACKETS AND GREEN BAY MEET CHICAGO'S PROS

Green Bay, one of the favorites in

Wrigley field at the same time.
e double pro bill is the first of two asions when the Cards and Bears
e conflicting dates. Both games ll start at 2:15 o'clock.
e Bears hold two victories over Minneapolis. The second score was 6, the margin being Paddy Drisl's drop kick after touchdown, so comparison of strength is obvious.
e is a willing point for the south side
m, the Cardinals mention their det by Green Bay, 9 to 2, early in year. Nevers had not yet joined Cards at that time, but without m the score was the lowest to which Packers have been held. Green e pro race well in hand unless the troops are as good as the regulars, but the procedure has a psychological effect on the opposition, and Rockne wants to take advantage of everything so long as he has the defeats of the last two years to atone for.

The Carnegie lineup is going to include Rosie, who is a left end and a good one, but who among other things carries the ball. The full name of this lad, who is built on the architectural lines of Hack Wilson, is Rosenzweig, but he consented to the contraction as a friendly gesture toward the scribes. Rosie is just recovering from various injuries.

Karcis, who is no loafer as a full back, also is going to be ordered into action by Coach-Judge Wally Steffen. Outside of this, Notre Dame has nothing to worry about unless it should be the Flanagan twins, who by their names evidently turned up at the wrong school.

Savoldi Ready for Work.

So that the league of nations won't have a chance to file a complaint of prejudice, Rockne is going to let Joe Savoldi serve in the back field during a large portion of the afternoon. Savoldi is the Three Oaks, Mich., Italian who operated so effectively against Wisconsin last week. He also did his bit against the Navy. When he appeared in the latter game the Middies tried to harness his goat by calling him a banana peddler. His smiling reply was that he didn't handle skin fruit but had been in Chicago and knew how to deal in pineapples. The Middies couldn't answer that without consulting the admiral, who wasn't around.

Coach Rockne's presence in Pittsburgh was accomplished only after great difficulties. He was carried to the train last night in South Bend and carried off to be placed in a wheel chair upon his arrival here. For a time this morning it looked as if a wall of the Pittsburgh A. A. would have to be torn out so that the invalid could be rolled in.

This difficulty was overcome after considerable maneuvering through revolving doors.

Army Advances on Yale for 29th Grid Contest

vens, began the season's lessons with several problems in tactical fancy work, which were said to have been adapted from the illusions created and taught to succeeding generations of athletes by Glenn M. Warner, now coaching at Stanford.

These were so sly and delicate that it took the Yale backs some time to learn the way of them. In fact, it has been reported that Mr. Stevens finally despaired of teaching his lads Mr. Warner's shrewd shams and feints and returned to the simple, guileless style of onslaught for which Yale has been famous, one way or another, according to varying fortunes for years. But Mr. Stevens himself says this is a mistake, explaining that the boys merely learned to do these tricks so well that they no longer falter or ponder in the doing, running them off so fluently that the observers have been deceived.

Predict Loose Game.

He even states that, far from recalling his wing backs, he has taught the lads still more confusing movements to be exectued from the wing back formation; also one hears from other sources in New Haven this evening that Yale will flip the ball from hand to hand, forward, backward, and laterally, in an exceedingly loose and elusive manner, Saturday afternoon.

Yale has really had only two games thus far, losing to Georgia, 15 to 0, and winning from Brown last Saturday, 14 to 6. There had been a sort of game with Vermont to start the season, but Yale won, 89 to 0, and for purposes of criticism, rating or analysis, this one was no contest.

Booth Triple Threat Man.

Albert Booth, the sophomore running back, rated with Al Marsters of Dartmouth and Chris Cagle, the captain of the Army team, as one of the three most elusive young men playing in the east, will not take the field at the start of the game, but undoubtedly will replace Charles Snead before long. He can kick, throw, pass and drift through scattered tacklers with a halting stride, but thus far in his throwing the ball too often has gone to spots where no one from Yale happened to be, like a letter addressed to "Anybody, Esq., Somewhere, U. S. A."

The three regular backs on the Army side are durable, audacious, and crowded with energy. "Cagle not only runs and passes, but has been scything down the tacklers on interference for Murrell and O'Keefe. O'Keefe carries the ball only often enough to require surveillance, and put in most of his time on the offense dropping himself into the enemy line where he seems to go off like a bomb, with Murrell hammering after him for gains.

FILES BILL TODAY TO STOP AURORA RACING, REPORT

By the Associated Press.]

Seeking to stop horse racing in Illinois, a petition for an injunction against the Exposition Park Jockey club of Aurora, was prepared last night for filing, which it was said, will take place today in the Circuit court at Geneva, Ill., on behalf of August J. Reding, Aurora merchant.

The constitutionality of the bill which permits horse racing and betting in the state is challenged in the petition prepared by Attorneys Charles M. Hurwits, John H. Johntry, and Ben Copple.

The attorneys said the petition for a temporary injunction would be filed before Judge Newhall of Kane county.

The petition recites that Reding is a taxpayer of Kane county and alleges that the bill, which legalized racing in Illinois, is in violation of the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution which "prohibits discrimination and class legislation denying equal protection of the laws; that it violates that part of the Illinois constitution which prohibits the Illinois general assembly from granting to any corporation, association or individual any special or exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise, whatever."

Exposition Park, scene of the present meeting, has races scheduled up to and including Nov. 1.

Elmhurst Eleven Defeats American College Team

Elmhurst college yesterday scored a 27 to 14 victory over American College of Physical Education. The game was played at Elmhurst. Swede Johnston, starred for Elmhurst, going through the American College line almost at will. He scored two of Elmhurst's touchdowns. Cookson and Davis made the other two.

PURPLE BATTLES WABASH FOR 1ST TIME SINCE 1905

Northwestern's battered Wildcats today entertain the Wabash Little Giants at Dyche stadium, making the first gridiron meeting between these schools since 1905. That year the Purple emerged on the long end of a 7 to 0 score. A Notre Dame reserve team also will play the Purple B team, providing opposition in the curtain raiser, starting at 1:15 o'clock.

Coach Dick Hanley plans to give several aspiring sophomores a chance today. Among them are Sid Burnstein and Oswald Baxter, half backs, who are being groomed for regular jobs. If they turn in creditable performances it is likely they will be elected to start against Illinois next week.

Hanley, however, will not trust the entire proceedings to sophomores and reserves, for he plans to inject his veterans long enough to give them a workout.

Besides the experience his sophomores will gain, Coach Hanley will scrutinize his youngsters' play in hopes of uncovering a kicker. Bill Calderwood, who handled this assignment following the loss of Hank Bruder, is shelved with an injured ankle. Baxter and Bergherm will divide the kicking duties.

Only three regulars will be in the Purple's starting line. Riley and Marvil, sophomore tackles, who have earned regular jobs, and Woodworth, guard, make up the trio. Capt. Henry Anderson, guard, Mickey Erickson' center, and Baker and Oliphant, ends, will enjoy a needed rest.

Johnny Haas will handle quarter back duties, while Rus Bergherm will be at full back. Bergherm still is somewhat battered from the Minnesota conflict and probably will be relieved by Al Moore, sophomore understudy.

Wabash will present a light team, one that will resort largely to passing attacks to gain ground. Engle, right half back, is reputed to be adept at passing. Kicking duties fall to Wood right end.

INDIANA SEEKS FIRST VICTORY AT OHIO STATE

Columbus, O., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—The Indiana university eleven today invaded the lair of the Ohio State Buckeyes in an effort to vindicate itself tomorrow for three defeats to date at the hands of Colgate, Notre Dame, and Chicago.

Despite the three setbacks the Hoosiers loom as a definite threat to the undefeated Buckeyes, who have taken the measure of Iowa and Michigan by 7 to 6 and 7 to 0, respectively.

For the last week Indiana has been drilling on a defense against Ohio's forward passing attack, which carried the team to a victory over the Wolverines last week at Ann Arbor. The Hoosiers are said to boast of a good passing game all their own.

Both teams have weak running attacks, but the Buckeyes are expected to surprise in this department tomorrow. The contest likely will resolve itself into a duel between Holman of Ohio and Balay of Indiana in the heaving of forward passes and between McConnell and Horn of the Buckeyes and Balay in kicking.

KAPLAN, WOLFE RESUME DRILLS FOR WEDNESDAY

Interest in Jack Dempsey's second promotional venture, scheduled for the Coliseum Wednesday night, picked up yesterday with the arrival of Louis Kaplan and Eddie Wolfe, two of the principals.

Kaplan, who once held the featherweight championship, has a twofold purpose in visiting Chicago. First is a victory over Wolfe. The second is a lightweight championship match with Sammy Mandell.

Kaplan said yesterday he was sure he could knock the daylights out of the 135 pound title holder. He bases his confidence on his observation of Mandell's work and the champion's difficulty in getting down to the weight limit.

Both Wolfe and Kaplan have established training quarters in the loop. They are down for ten rounds on Dempsey's card.

Dempsey yesterday signed Jackie Pilkington to substitute for Sid Terris against Tony Herrera. Terris injured his hand in training Pilkington and Herrera will box ten rounds.

The other ten spot brings together Tony Canzoneri and Stanley Loayza. Both are training in the loop.

Jimmy McLarnin, stiff punching California welterweight who opposes Lightweight Champion Mandell in the windup of Promoter Paddy Harmon's boxing show at the stadium Nov. 4, put in a busy day. He boxed five rounds besides going through an hour's gymnasium exercise. Mandell is engaged in light training in Rockford, Ill. He will arrive Monday to settle down for harder work.

Otto Von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight, also is busily engaged for his ten rounder with Charley Smith of England. They will fight in the semi-windup. Smith will be here Monday. The Englishman has defeated Pierre Charles, Harry Pierson, Ted Sandwine, and King Solomon. He stands 6 feet 2 inches tall and scales 206 pounds. He never has been knocked off his feet.

RAILROAD BUYS SITE OF CLUB ON SOUTH PARK WAY

Michigan Central Plans Big Buildings.

BY AL CHASE.

Purchases by the Michigan Central railroad of four parcels of land on East 28th street, in the block between South park way and the Illinois Central right of way, yesterday disclosed a big building project contemplated by the newcomer. One of the parcels comprises the site of the proposed American Athletic club, at the northeast corner of South park way and 25th. This sale brought to light the fact that the club is to be dissolved.

Details of the proposed buildings to be erected by the Michigan Central have not yet been decided upon, according to an official of the railroad. It is understood, however, that the boulevard frontage will be improved with a unit to be used for automotive display purposes with the rear portions used for freight storage.

Block of South Frontage.

The railroad purchased the entire frontage of approximately 600 feet on the north side of 25th street, extending from the boulevard to the I. C., with a frontage on South park way of 177 feet. On the south side of 25th street, just east of the building now being created by Newton C. Farr and associates for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, as pictured in last Sunday's real estate section, the Michigan Central purchased 40,000 square feet from the Chicago Title and Trust company, as trustee.

The property on the north side of 25th street was purchased in three parcels. The proposed site of the American Athletic club, fronting 250 feet on 25th and 127 feet on the boulevard, was bought from Newton C. Farr, to whom title was transferred from the club last week, for $90,000. Just north of this property the railroad bought a lot 50x170 from the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, through George F. Iliff & Co.

East of Clubhouse Site.

To the east and adjoining the clubhouse site and extending around one corner of it to the 50x170 parcel, the railroad purchased 41,000 square feet. The Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, was seller. Albert H. Wetten & Co., represented the railroad in all of the purchases. Vent & Warfield, R. A. Cavanagh and Winston, Strawn & Shaw were attorneys.

George W. Prassas, of George W. Prassas & Co., has sold the six one story stores at 136-42 North York street, in Elmhurst, to Joseph Starrel for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $100,000. The property is 112x180. Montgomery Ward & Co. and the A. & P. each occupies a double store in the building, which was recently completed.

PRINTERS RENT 3 FLOORS IN THE LAKESIDE BLDG.

The Chicago Railway Printing company has leased the first, second, and third floors, comprising 60,000 square feet, of the seven story Lakeside Press building at the northeast corner of Plymouth court and Polk street, occupied until recently by the R. R. Donnalley & Sons company. The annual rental was not disclosed. Hall & Ellis represented both parties and will be renting agents and managers of the building. The leases have been for 720 South Dearborn street for the last fifteen years. This move will practically double their space and will enable them to install new equipment.

Buy Apartment Building at Summerdale and Hoyne

L. P. Burkland and Godfred E. Larson have sold the fourteen apartment building at the southeast corner of Summerdale and Hoyne avenues, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cummings for a reported $85,000, subject to a first mortgage of $45,000. L. M. Eflert of John J. Kern & Co. represented all parties.

Chicago Curb Market Stocks

The Chicago curb market was irregular yesterday, with practically every active issue traded in. Among the advancing stocks Sundstrand Machine Tool fluctuated through a five point range to close 2¼ points higher, and such favorites as Standard of Indiana, Temple A, Niagara Hudson, and Middle West preferred recorded gains of from one to three points. In the declining group Walgreen dipped 7 reflecting its slip on the New York curb, and Associated Gas was 4½ lower at 52.

PARADOX SEEN IN STOCK CRASH, BOOMING TRADE

'Little Harm Done' Is General Belief.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Perhaps the strangest paradox of this history making week in finance is the fact that the greatest collapse in the stock market finds American industrial leaders never more confident of continued prosperity. And their expressions of confidence are not likely to be regarded as "whistling past the graveyard," for they have a wealth of statistical information to support them.

Many of these men have warned against excesses in speculation for months and have emphasized all the danger signs. They have pointed out that the orgy of stock buying on borrowed money has raised interest rates and handicapped legitimate business in its efforts to give preferential money rates to commercial enterprise. Now it is these same men who assert openly the belief that the collapse of inflated stock prices will not materially affect commerce adversely. Whatever damper on buying of goods may result from the "paper" and actual losses of many speculators will be compensated for by actual profits taken by others and the general stimulus of easier money rates.

Simpson's Viewpoint.

"The present break in the stock market will not affect fall or winter merchandising business," James Simpson, president of Marshall Field & Co., said. "Profits which existed to a great extent were paper profits. If the break does not exceed present expectations, I think it will help rather than hurt business."

"I can see no particular effect on business from the break in stocks and the loss of paper profits, except in a few of the luxury trades," R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said. "We think the outlook remains the same as before the break. We are going to do the biggest month's business in our history this month."

"I see no connection between the rise in stock prices and fundamental business conditions," L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central railroad, said. "Frankly, I am encouraged over the general business outlook."

"There has been no change in conditions in the implement industry in the last month," according to George W. Rainey, vice president of the International Harvester company. "I do not find anything in the recent happenings in the stock market that will cause us to change any policies that have been adopted for the coming year."

"In my opinion, general business conditions are better than a year ago," J. L. Kraft, chairman of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese company, observed. "As far as food products business is concerned, more profits are derived from each dollar of sales than before and the volume of sales remains excellent."

Prospects Bright: Wrigley.

"From my viewpoint, general business never was so good and prospects look bright all over the world," William Wrigley Jr., chairman of the board of William Wrigley Jr. company, said. "The business outlook in our territory is good, and I don't know any reason why it should be affected by the break in stocks." W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, said: "As for the railroad outlook, everything at present appears favorable for next year."

"General business conditions are very good, and the effect of the stock market will be only temporarily apparent," George M. Reynolds, chairman of the executive committee of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, predicted. "There may be a little less luxury buying, but not enough so to interfere with satisfactory Christmas trade. Business is too good and the country is too full of money for any serious effect from the stock market break."

"Business is good, fundamentals are sound, and trade is better than it has been for several years," Samuel M. Vauclain, chairman of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, said. "Too many people have been trading in pyramided stocks on margin, but people have plenty of money and are living better than ever before."

More Railroads Make Reports on Sept. Income

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Two of the country's largest railroad systems, making public their net operating income for September today, showed decreases when compared with the income of the corresponding month last year. One of the systems was the Southern Pacific lines, the net operating income of which was $490,153 less than that of September, 1928, while the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railways's income was $590,000 less than in September a year ago. Included among the railroads reporting today and their income were:

	1929.	1928.
Southern Pacific	$6,280,589	$6,770,734
Chi. Mil. St. P. & P.	3,111,434	3,702,209
Chicago and Lake E.	486,171	500,539

Cuba Cane Shareholders Must Deposit Stock or Lose

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 25.—Unless holders of the common stock of Cuba Cane Sugar company, which is now in the hands of a receiver, deposit their stock according to the plan for reorganization, they face complete and final loss of their investment, says a letter sent out by the depositing stockholders by a committee representing common stock shareholders. The letter is signed by Homer W. Loasby, F. Wilder Bellamy, Edmund E. Jones and John W. Platten. About 76 per cent of the common stock has been deposited.

AFTERMATHS OF SELLING STORM IN STOCK MARTS

Wall street, in discussing the calamity, wonders how such men as Durant, Cutten, and the Fishers stand so far as their operations in the market are concerned. Durant was known to be in International Combustion, which dropped in a dizzy manner from around 70 to 19 and is now selling around 20. Other stocks in which Durant was reported interested on the bull side have been hammered also.

Cutten was a bull on Radio. He issued a statement only recently on how good a stock that was and told of his interest in it. At that time the price range was 85-90 and it appeared to be headed upward. It closed Thursday at 54⅞ and yesterday at 60¼. Cutten was in Baldwin, too. The new stock got as low as 15 and closed at 53. This new stock of Baldwin had been as high as 66⅝. What did the drop in the wheat market do to Cutten is another question being asked.

A number of commission houses report that yesterday their buying orders exceeded selling orders, and that much of the buying was for cash.

Taken around current levels, prices for many of the leading stocks are down to a point where the increase in the yield over the recent rate of return offered might begin to attract the attention of something in the way of investment buying, yet in the vast majority of instances the current yield, as, for example, in Steel common and General Electric, is still well under the current prevailing rates for money, low as they are in contrast with the high interest ruling until this month.

Whether the stock market had anything to do with it or whether it has been merely coincidence, a number of merger deals recently have fallen through. At least two of them, the Paramount-Warner and the Kolster-Earle affairs, were considered as crated and shipped. Other unions in the making have been dissolved. If the weak market has been the cause of the breakup, probably no great harm has been done. When a good market is needed to complete a merger the implications are that two and two are going to be added up to make five, and such calculations might better never be made.

The good earning statements for the third quarter by Bethlehem Steel and Republic Iron and Steel were lost in the shuffle. Their effect on those who read them also was somewhat affected by the General Motors' earnings statement, although the decline shown by the latter was about as predicted. The Bethlehem statement is usually a dependable barometer of the United States Stool corporation's report, which will be issued next Tuesday.

A notable thing about recent selling has been the relative firmness of the rails. Backed by record breaking earnings and already selling on attractive yields, the rail shares after their early declines due to distress selling are being largely avoided by short sellers. Baltimore and Ohio has been the sturdiest active issue in the entire list of industrials and rails.

The excitement caused among London brokers by news of the break in Wall street Thursday was repeated on a smaller scale yesterday outside the stock exchange. Toward closing time on the exchange, when street business starts, crowds of excited brokers, speculators and clerks gathered in Throgmorton street, center of trading in Anglo-American securities, until Shorters' court was so densely packed that people could hardly move.

Berlin financial circles yesterday declared that "black Thursday" on the New York Stock exchange had brought forth a sigh of relief throughout Europe, which suffered from the "exaggerated speculation" that had been going on in Wall street.

Prices on the Montreal Stock exchange staged a fairly good rally yesterday. Although the trend was generally upward, the movement in spots was irregular.

Four hundred extra parolmen, 100 detectives and a large detail of mounted men were sent into the Wall street district yesterday to aid the fifty patrolmen and sixty detectives of the regular detail in maintaining order. Although all was quiet this morning Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen said he would take no chances. He also warned brokers to be particularly careful about entrusting bonds and securities to runners unless they were sure of their reliability.

The stock brokerage office of M. J. Meehan & Co. on the Berengaria reflected the mercurial New York stock exchange conditions, in miniature, on the westward voyage of the ship, which arrived in New York yesterday. The 1,414 passengers on the ship were more or less dazed Thursday by the hectic stock recessions. It was the chief topic of discussion.

Abraham Germansky, real estate operator, said to have invested heavily in stocks involved in the break, has been missing since Wednesday, his wife reported to the New York police. According to an acquaintance, Mr. Germansky was seen Thursday standing near the stock exchange. He had in his hands a piece of ticker tape and he was tearing it to pieces and scattering the bits over the sidewalk.

Officials of several automobile companies manufacturing high priced cars agreed that the violent declines in stocks during the last week would have a decided effect on the retail sales of their products. One automobile man having charge of sales and promotion in one of the large companies declared his concern already had experienced a number of cancellations.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES EXHIBIT NERVOUS TONE

Traders Pick Way Through Debris.

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

That "morning after feeling" permeated yesterday's session on the Chicago Stock Exchange as prices nervously moved in opposite directions. There were no extraordinary upturns, and neither were any violent declines recorded as traders picked their way through the débris of the previous day's battle.

What ever selling appeared due to stop loss orders was taken up in an orderly fashion, while bargain seekers ran up some of the active shares to fairly good gains. Net advances of from one to six points were established by more than a dozen issues.

Borg-Warner Earnings.

Borg-Warner recovered 1¾. C. S. Davis, president, issued the company's earnings statement for the nine months ended Sept. 30 which shows net income before dividends but after taxes and charges of $6,401,358. Net profits after the payment of preferred dividends was $6,217,608, equivalent to $5.05 a share on the 1,230,965 shares of common stock outstanding. No comparison is available for the same period of 1928, but Mr. Davis stated that the net represented a substantial increase.

The profit and loss surplus stood at $16,600,389, current assets totaled $20,193,539 and current liabilities were $4,677,611. Cash on hand was $3,124,222 and call loans and marketable securities totaled $4,387,768.

Some of the best buying appeared in Bendix Aviation, which closed with a net gain of 3½ points. The Houdaille-Hershey issues finished 1¼ up. Pines Winterfront advanced two points.

Gains Six Points.

The utility group was led by Commonwealth Edison, which closed six points up. Middle West Utilities gained a fraction on sales of around 65,000 shares. North American Light and Power was up 1½. Public Service rights advanced 2¼. United Gas sold off two points on small sales.

Abbott Laboratories was fractionally higher on small sales. Directors of the company declared an extra dividend of 50 cents a share payable Nov. 25 to stock of record Nov. 10. The company reported sales for the first nine months of 1929 of around 8 per cent higher than those of the same period last year. Earnings for the period equaled $4 a shares, the directors were told, or twice the dividend requirements.

Hart-Carter was up 2½ points and Libby, McNeill & Libby gained 1¼. Declines of 1¼ to 4⅜ were felt by Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line, Cities Service, A. M. Castle and Bastian-Blessing.

Investment Trust Group.

Corporation Securities was off 6½, while the remainder of the investment trust group showed mostly gains. Continental-Chicago was up 1¾, Manhattan-Dearborn finished 1½ up, and Chicago corporation advanced a point. Utility and Industrial preferred was up a point. Railroad Shares corporation was unchanged. The directors announced the election of Augustus S. Peabody to the board.

Monsanto Chemical, which had not been traded in for several days, was sold at around 70. The stock exchange announced that due to an error in its compilations resulting from the frenzied trading, Monsanto was carried in its computations of Thursday as having sold off to 48. There were no trades in this stock on Thursday.

United Reproducers featured the radio division with an advance of 4¼ points. Grigsby-Grunow recovered 1¼. Wextark, Polymet, Ceco and U. S. Radio were down from 1½ to 4 points.

Halt Ward-Hartman Merger as Court Enjoins Action

Stockholders of the Hartman corporation yesterday deferred action on the proposal to merge with Montgomery Ward & Co. until Nov. 4, when it became known that minority interests were granted an injunction temporarily halting the proceedings by Judge D. Lawrence Croner in the federal District court at Richmond, Va. The bill charged that unanimous consent is necessary before a merger can be effected.

Foreign Financing in U. S. Drops in Third Quarter

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Foreign financing of the United States during the third quarter of 1929 was reported today by the department of commerce to have totaled only $82,000,000. This was the lowest total for the corresponding period in six years, the next lowest being last year. The nine months' total for this year amounted to about $568,500,000, or about 60 per cent of the total for the first nine months of 1928.

Business Failures Show Recession from Last Year

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Business failures this week, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., totaled 455, 96 above the 359 of last week, but 42 less than the 497 reported for the corresponding week last year.

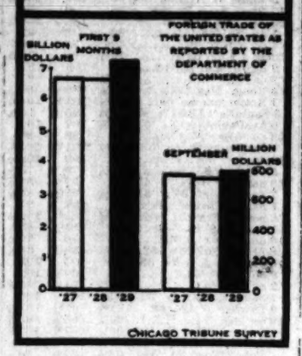
UNITED STATES FOREIGN TRADE IS BEST SINCE 1920



Market Will Work Lower, Babson Says

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 25.—Roger W. Babson, the statistical expert, who along about Sept. 3, when prices were at their highest on the stock exchange, predicted with dire accuracy that they would decline from 60 to 80 points, today in a statement to a New York newspaper foresees a period of inactivity in trading, with prices gradually working their way lower.

Mr. Babson said: "The market should rally from the present figures, due to banking support. But such stocks as are bought for supporting the market will be fed out again as soon as possible.

"This means that there should be further declines, but they should be of an orderly nature. Then the market will continue down for some time, with comparatively little trading.

"Crazy markets such as we had yesterday must be followed by a resting up. As to the future of common stocks, I would say that each issue should be considered on its own merits and according to its yield. Speculative buying for profit is over for a while. The buying from now on will be of a legitimate investment nature. This means that prices will be determined by yield rather than by prospects."

AVERAGE WAGE IS LOWER; MORE MEN EMPLOYED

Although the number of workers in industrial plants in the middle west increased in September, the average wage was lower than in August, according to the monthly review of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. Probably as a result, savings deposits were lower than a month and a year before.

"Most of the industrial groups reporting on employment showed a larger volume on Sept. 15 than a month earlier, the aggregate gain amounting to 0.7 per cent, or the same percentage increase as was reported for the preceding period," the review says. "Pay roll amounts reflect a less favorable condition. All but one of the reporting industries showed a decrease from the preceding month, the aggregate declining 2.3 per cent.

"The first of October marked a decline of 0.5 per cent from Aug. 31 in the volume of regular savings deposits and also a recession of 0.8 per cent in average account, with an expansion of 0.3 per cent in number of depositors.

Employment of Women on Varying Basis

BY SCRUTATOR.

Some really accurate figures are needed on the present trend in the employment of women in the United States.

There have been none on a national scale since 1919. We know that in that year 201 out of every 1,000 wage earners in factories were women, and that of every 1,000 employed by manufacturing firms as clerks, 362 were feminine. In 1909, the women wage earners in factories were 306 in each thousand, and the women clerks 242.

Thus, in a decade it was apparent that some slight progress had been made in getting women out of the physically difficult occupations, and considerable progress recorded in their invasion of the lighter types of labor.

Abandon Older Forms.

Personal observations in limited fields have given evidence recently that women have definitely decided to get away from the older forms of gainful work. It is even possible, despite assumptions to the contrary, that the proportion of women workers in all fields will show a decrease.

The servant problem is a reflection of this assumed trend. The servant problem might be stated as merely a disinclination of women for domestic service. It is not a condition peculiar to the large cities or even to the United States. In the ancient city of Quebec it is learned authoritatively that wealthy families are leaving their handsome homes, and even sacrificing them in the real estate market at absurd prices to move into modern apartments. They are unable to obtain servants except at what they consider exorbitant rates.

Young women undoubtedly have given up this sort of employment in large measure. If they have accepted factory labor in the last ten years as a substitute occupation it will be surprising.

May Show Recession.

It is more likely that the next set of statistics will show they have gone more into the clerical division of labor, or that the movement of women into all forms of business and industrial activity has begun to recede.

This civilization, and by the phrase is meant the American civilization of the last few years, has made things easier for women than they were ever made in the past. Women have always worked. The savage hunter left all the soil tilling and common labor to his womenfolk. Among the European peasantry the female half of the population still does its share of agriculture as efficiently as the male half.

Early industrial days found women and children overworked to such an extent that earnest reformers directed their attack on the industrial order on the grounds that the health of these elements was being ruined.

Makes Home More Attractive.

Present day conditions have improved the lot of the women of the once so called laboring classes far more than they have those of the lady of leisure. Life for the colonel's lady is no more pleasant, what with the servant problem, but Judy O'Grady sends the laundry out or has an electric washing machine in the basement to do it for her. Home is more attractive than it was in the old days for the comparatively poor.

Some manufacturers have gone to the south to get cheap labor, both men and women. In such sections there may be increases in factory employment that will raise the proportion of women workers. If so, there is a likelihood that this will be only temporary.

The real movement in feminine employment is toward the clerical occupations, and this in turn means a turning back to home making. It is well established that matrimonial chances are good in business offices.

CURB ADJUSTS ITSELF TO NEW PRICE SCALE

Better Trade Issues Register Gains.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 25.—After opening at levels considerably above yesterday's closing prices, active stocks fluctuated within a comparatively narrow range, while adapting themselves to a new scale of prices. The list was irregular at the end, but most of the better grade issues showed gains of from 1 to 9 points. Some of the inactives dropped 10 points or more, but their movements could not be described as significant.

On the whole, the market was a stable affair, showing plentiful evidence of substantial "big time" buying by banks and without any semblance of the hysteria which marked yesterday's session. The turnover was 2,731,900 shares. The ticker was less than an hour behind trading.

Utilities Well Supported.

The utilities were well supported today, in strong contrast to yesterday, and many industrials showed net gains. The following list of gains will convey some idea of how trading went: Allied Power and Light, up 6⅝; American Gas and Electric, up 4; American Superpower, 2⅝; Bliss, 2; Brazil Traction Light and Power, 2¼; Canadian Marconi, 1; Cord corporation, 2⅜; Crocker Wheeler, 8½; Electric Bond and Share, 6½; Electric Investors, 9; Hydro Electric Securities, 9; and Wayne Pump, 6⅜. All these were among those most actively traded in.

The investment trusts showed additional strength, Lehman company being up 1 point, and Goldman Sachs having a fractional advance.

Some of the pivotal shares sustained net losses of from 1 to 5 points, but most of them closed far above their lows for the day.

Cities Service Active.

Cities Service was active, on sales of 260 000 shares it had a net drop of 3 points, but was more than 3 points above the day's bottom. American and Foreign Power warrants dropped 6¼ points but was 3½ points above the day's low.

Other stocks which lost ground were: Associated Gas and Electric A, 5¼; Mayflower association, 3; National Electric Power A, 10; Niagara Shares, 5⅞; St. Regis Paper new, 1; and United Corporation warrants, 3⅜.

BUSINESS AS USUAL IN WALL ST. EXCHANGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 25.—Business will go on as usual tomorrow on the New York stock exchange and the New York curb, although strong pressure was brought to bear on the governing authorities to suspend trading because of delayed clerical work.

Officially, the governing committee of the stock exchange did consider any plan to close, it was said. It was learned, however, that certain of the large houses actively advocated a closing so that they might have Saturday and Sunday to post their books.

Influential interests in Wall street are said to have opposed the suggestion, because to do so might create suspicion in the minds of some and bring on further hysterical selling.

CHIEFS OF STEEL INDUSTRY SEE ROSY OUTLOOK

Farrell, Schwab Are Both Optimistic.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 25.—In the wake of yesterday's market collapse Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, today told the American Iron and Steel Institute, of which he is president, that there is no reason why the present industrial prosperity should not continue indefinitely if the equilibrium between production and consumption is maintained.

Mr. Schwab urged his audience not to let the present slight falling off in demand disturb the stabilization of profits which has been established. He pointed out that a falling off in demand would necessarily result in an increase in costs, in which event a stabilized price structure would be needed more than ever.

The optimism of Mr. Schwab was seconded by James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, who was presented by Mr. Schwab as "the great right arm of the steel industry."

Tells of Forward Orders.

Mr. Farrell expressed the belief that there wasn't a fabricating shop in the country without orders for six months ahead, and said the shipbuilding business had not been so good in fifteen years.

"There is a great deal of hesitancy at the present time," he said, "but I don't see why it should affect the steel business. We are just as prosperous as we ever were."

Insisting that it is as ethical and necessary for the steel industry to think in terms of stabilized profits as to strive for stability in other respects, Mr. Schwab remarked: "It is high time we scrapped the idea that the steel business must be either a prince or a pauper."

He estimated production for 1929

Top yesterday, $13.25; average, $12.80.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 300 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 3,000 sheep.

Hogs declined 10@25c yesterday, closing at the low point, in spite of the moderate supplies on the market during the last two days. The extreme top was down 10c at $9.90 early, but few passed $9.75 later, with the general average off 20c at $9.40, lowest since Tuesday.

Larger houses bought freely after a 15@25c lower basis had been established, leaving only 3,000 pen holders and inferior grades at the close. Armour, Swift and Wilson bought 6,200, the bulk of good grades costing $9.55@9.60.

Show Full Weakness.

Five smaller houses obtained 6,000 during the forenoon at $9.65@9.75 mostly, while city butchers and shippers took a total of 7,500. Packing sows sold largely at $8.00@8.50, showing the full weakness late in the day.

Yesterday's small supply of 2,500 cattle sold on a "catch as catch can" trade, steers of beef merit holding about steady, while butcher stock had to go at slight reductions.

Prices in almost all classes of cattle are closing 25@50c under a week ago, good grades of beef steers sharing in this decline, which was recorded earlier in the week. Few steers yesterday were good enough to bring more than $14.00, with $15.00 taking the best available.

Some 593 lb heifers reached $13.00. Calves ruled weak to slightly lower. Stockers and feeders met fairly good demand at the week's 25c advance.

Lambs Show Strength.

Moderate supplies yesterday held lamb prices firm, with spots slightly above the general selling Thursday. Fancy light natives topped the list at $13.25, while choice fed western and range stock sold at $13.00. A band of 317 prime fed western lambs averaging 103 lbs, sold to Armour at $12.50.

The latter cost about $13.00 as feeders late in June when they averaged 62 lbs, showing the remarkable gain of 41 lbs, in four months. Shorn lambs at $12.10 were mates to the $13.10 lambs Wednesday. Aged and yearling sheep sold strong. Feeders were in good demand at steady prices.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 3,000 sheep, against 285 cattle, 7,490 hogs and 1,500 sheep, the previous Saturday and 710 cattle, 4,008 hogs, and 4,943 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 42,000 to 43,000. W. S. Nicholson, F. Knutzen, and J. T. Brown, marked 42,000; John T. Agar, 44,000; S. Lund, C. Southwick, and R. B. Simpson, 45,000; F. W. Young, 46,000; W. T. Rensker, 43,000; H. C. Carlson, H. Turner, and R. B. Ellis, 50,000; F. M. Sherwood, 51,000; W. C. White, 55,000; J. M. WHEAT PRICES CLOSE HIGHER IN ERRATIC DAY

Market Gains 1½c After Early 5c Drop.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An apparent effort to complete liquidation of large lines of long wheat came close yesterday to repeating the disastrous performance of the market on Thursday, with prices dropping 5@6c after a strong opening.

When it became noticeable, however, that the pit situation was such that it would be impossible to dispose of any great quantity of grain the orders were seemingly withdrawn. From then on the price was on the upgrade with the greater part of the early loss regained. The finish was within a fraction of the best figures of the day with net gains of 1¼@1¼c.

There was a noticeable absence of the hysteria of the previous day, and the crowded galleries of the board were disappointed at the relative quietness which prevailed on the floor, with the volume of wheat trading hardly 50 per cent of the record total of 156,186,000 bu on Thursday. The latter compared with the previous record of 149,587,000 bu on July 15, while the total for all grains of 190,336,000 bu was the second largest on record.

Foreigners Buy Wheat.

Corn again showed the same mysterious strong undertone as on Thursday and closed ⅛@⅝c higher. Oats were strong and finished ⅞@1c higher. There was no pressure of consequence on rye, and it was up 1@1½c at the last.

The early break in wheat disclosed a lack of stop loss orders in the hands of brokers, and also rather limited support, but the latter developed later with persistent buying by local professionals and commission houses, and it was the gossip of the trade that foreigners had been free buyers early to close spreads with Liverpool. This caused a break of 2¼@3¼d in the latter market, with the May delivery there only 7c over Chicago at the time it closed.

A few crumbs of real bull news were found for the bulls during the day as export sales of wheat in all positions were placed at 2,000,000 bu, largely hard winters, and India is expected to require 12,000,000 bu of foreign wheat as the result of heavy flood damage. However, as the latter grain will probably be secured largely from Australia, it had little effect on local values. Argentine markets were decidedly strong with Buenos Aires closing 2¾c higher, and Rosario was 3¾c higher. A maximum exportable surplus from Argentine of 129,500,000 bu was forecasted in a private cable, with a minimum of 82,500,000 bu. Winnipeg failed to follow the full upturn in Chicago, but closed ⅞@1¼c higher. It was understood that there was liberal closing of spreads between Chicago and Buenos Aires during the day, handsome profits being secured.

East After Cash Corn.

Commission houses bought corn futures early, with the trade thereafter largely of a local character. There was a brisk shipping demand with sales of 250,000 bu, and charters were made for 250,000 bu to Buffalo. About 30 cars of new corn were received, over half of which graded No. 4 or better, and the moisture content shows a decided tendency to shrink. Buenos Aires closed 2¼@2½c higher.

Scattered liquidation in oats was absorbed by local professionals, who were reinstating long lines, giving the market a firm undertone. Shipping sales aggregated 143,000 bu.

Increased comment is being heard regarding the rye market, as there was the same persistent buying by commission houses that has been in evidence for several weeks, and there is talk of concentrated holdings. No export business, however, has been reported for some time past.

LARD VALUES FIRMER

Lard was sold yesterday by packers against current and prospective output while buying was attributed to eastern interest. Trading in all was fair. Lard in Liverpool was unchanged to 6d lower. Export clearances were 213,050 lbs. At the close prices were 5@10c higher.

Clear bellies were 10@20c lower on the near and 2½c off on May, with moderate trading. Cash business was not heavy. Exports of bacon were 5,000 lbs. Hogs were lower and supplies liberal. Prices follow:

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

Foreigners came in as free buyers of cash wheat and export sales in all positions were estimated at around 2,000,000 bu, a good proportion of which was said to have been hard winters. Local handlers sold 31,000 bu wheat, 280,000 bu corn, 143,000 bu oats, and 7,000 bu barley to the domestic trade.

EGG FUTURES EASIER

The unsettlement of the security exchanges seemed to draw butter and egg futures down a little on the Chicago mercantile exchange yesterday but the declines were held to ⅛c to ¼c in all contracts. Traders are beginning to pay more attention to the December egg delivery at the cost of the November contract. Both deliveries eased ¼c, the November closing at 38¾c, and the December at 39¼c. Sales were 244 cars and receipts, 2,536 cases. December butter was off ⅛c at 41⅜c and January down ¼c at 41¾c. Sales were 127 cars and receipts, 9,343 tubs.

BALDWIN GETS ORDER.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A better tone was observable in the grain markets at the close, all being sharply higher, and although the short interest was said to be in a measure responsible for the closing rally, traders looked for a higher opening today. Nervousness created by the break of 22c in wheat inside of a week has not been eliminated and sharp fluctuations are to be expected for a few days.

There has been heavy liquidation in all grains, and particularly wheat, but an impression prevails in certain quarters that any good advance will meet with new selling from large holders. In the wheat trade an impression prevails that the federal farm board, the members of which are in Chicago, may announce a relief plan to help the wheat market. This was the basis for buying in the last hour.

Domestic flour mills are said to have made heavy sales of flour on the decline in wheat as they have been active buyers of futures for the last few days.

COTTON GINS ACTIVE

Ginning of cotton has been rushed faster than usual, owing to favorable weather over a large part of the belt. The census report shows 9,099,082 bales ginned to Oct. 17 against 8,151,271 bales for the same time last year. This was more than trade expectations, but had comparatively little influence as a price maker.

Support was given the market a good part of yesterday, but trading was light and the range about 20 points, with an irregular movement of values. At the close futures in Chicago were 5@15 points higher, with New Orleans up 3 to 8 points and New York 2 points lower to 2 points higher.

The spot market was fairly active with middlings in New York 18.40c and 800 bales sold. New Orleans advanced 10 points with the price 18.05c and sales 5,833 bales. Galveston, 18.40c, sales 111 bales; Houston, 18.25c, no sales reported.

Trade sentiment is inclined to the buying side, while the impression exists that the peak of hedging pressure has been reached. Expectations are that mills will take hold more freely on breaks.

World's takings of American cotton for the week were 446,794 bales against 459,676 bales last year. Into sight movement for the week is 909,534 bales against 897,457 bales last year. Prices follow:

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

Sometimes an opportunity sometimes a convenience, sometimes a necessity prompts a Chicago home owner to place a second mortgage on his home.

The cost of money borrowed for a necessity should be no greater than the cost of money borrowed for convenience or for opportunity.

We would never encourage a home owner to obtain funds on his home for use in a speculative venture, but where it is convenient or necessary or where there is an opportunity to use funds for a constructive purpose it is sometimes advisable to borrow on a second mortgage.

When there is need and when the time comes the average home owner does not know where to go.

Whatever the need, Personal Loan & Savings Bank, acting as agent for a substantial loan fund, has money to loan and facilities to offer to home owners whereby they can arrange for a second mortgage at a reasonable cost and upon convenient terms.

We make loans for a period of one to three years, with interest not in excess of 6½% per annum and a commission of 3½% for one year, 6% for two years, and 9% for three years, and the monthly payments may be as low as 3% plus accrued interest each month.

The entire plan developed by Personal Loan & Savings Bank as agent for the handling of second mortgages is geared down to meet the requirements of the home owner of this vicinity. We will be glad to have you come in and find out all about the proposition which we are offering in this direction.
